PUSH TODAY FOR BILL TO RESCUE CITY'S SCHOOLS

House Group Will Hear Folsom.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[School Reporter for The Tribune.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—A bill which, if it becomes law, will make possible the sale of Chicago's 40 million dollar school bond issue and pay the back salaries of the teachers in full will be given a hearing tomorrow before the house committee on banking and currency.

Richard S. Folsom, attorney for the Chicago school board, who made a special trip to Washington, will argue that the federal funds must be obtained or the schools will be forced to close. He has been promised a full hearing.

The bill embodies the plan of Mayor Edward J. Kelly to sell the bonds to the federal government with a pledge of Chicago school property—not used for school purposes—as security that the obligations will be repaid. The Chicago school board has 30 million dollars' worth of property in this category. The project pushed by the mayor has the active support of the whole Chicago school board.

Sabath on Committee.

Congressman A. J. Sabath [Dem., Ill.], who introduced the bill for the mayor, is a member of the banking and currency committee and obtained the hearing for Attorney Folsom.

"Unless we get help from Washington," Folsom told Sabath, "our schools will close their doors. There isn't any doubt about the gravity of the situation. Our teachers are owed salaries for seven months and civil service employés for nine months. Altogether the back pay rolls amount to 26 million dollars. The load is becoming too heavy to carry."

"I have given the matter much thought and time," replied Sabath. "If the sale can be accomplished it will not only benefit the long suffering teachers but will act as a stimulant for business in Chicago."

Gives RFC Power to Lend.

The Sabath bill will clothe the federal Reconstruction Finance corporation with the power to grant money to school districts that can put up property as collateral for securities offered.

A sale of the Chicago school board's bonds to Uncle Sam would not only pay all back salaries but would go a long way toward financing pay rolls for the remainder of this year, according to Mr. Folsom.

The news that he would be given the hearing came to Folsom after a day spent in conferences with members of the Illinois delegation. Folsom pleaded his case before Senators James Hamilton Lewis and William H. Dieterich of Illinois and Congressman Sabath and Speaker Rainey. All pledged their support.

Confers with Reed.

Folsom also held a conference with Stanley Reed, general counsel for the RFC, in the absence of Jesse H. Jones, head of the corporation, who is ill.

"From a credit standpoint," said Folsom, "I don't believe that any city would have the standing that Chicago does for this loan."

"I haven't any doubt of that," said Reed. "If authority is obtained from congress we'll lend you the money."

Other possibilities, in the event that Sabath's measure fails, were then discussed. Among them was an amendment to a bill introduced by Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. [Rep., N. Y.], providing for loans to industrial and commercial corporations.

It was proposed that the Sabath bill could either be tacked on or school boards added in the wording of the Fish measure. The Fish bill, which is also in the house banking and currency committee, will increase the lending power of the RFC by another billion dollars.

Urges Aid for Schools, Too.

In his talk with Senator Lewis Folsom stressed the point strongly that federal funds have gushed forth for the succor of the banker, manufacturer, home owner, farmer, and persons in other walks of life, but thus far the flow of government money has been shut off from the teacher, with the exception of a handful of civil works administration jobs.

A national drive for the relief of public education will begin Feb. 26, when the house committee on education will start hearings. Professors, state and city superintendents of schools, educators, and budget experts will tell the committee of the financial crippling of schools during the depression and the need for help.

James H. Richmond, state superintendent of schools for Kentucky, was named chairman of the drive by the National Education association. He

MR. MacCRACKEN CATCHES HIS COP AND A $100 FINE

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12. — [Special.] — William P. MacCracken Jr. slept tonight in senate custody—slept in the watchful care of his trusty bunkmate, Sergeant at Arms Chesley W. Jurney, following a day of such legal and legislative burlesque as seldom, if ever, has graced the pages of congressional or court records.

He was fined $100 for contempt of court for having obtained a writ of habeas corpus on false grounds; was granted a second writ of habeas corpus by the same court; heard the second writ quashed, and was remanded to the senate once more by the same court. He served notice through his counsel that an appeal will be taken and that the fight will probably go to the Supreme court of the United States.

Like a French Farce.

But significant as the principles of the case may be, and notable as the ultimate decision of the high court may be in defining the powers of a congressional house to punish for contempt, the opinion finally handed down will lack the embellishments of a day of pursuits and scurrying policemen, of slamming doors and flashlight parades down courthouse corridors, of appearances and disappearances fit for a French farce.

Because his attorney, Frank J. Hogan, announced his inability to reach the District of Columbia Court of Appeals in less than forty-eight hours, MacCracken must go back to the senate tomorrow and there continue on trial if the senate sees fit to keep him there.

Case of Others up Today.

Also scheduled for tomorrow is the senate's final decision in the cases of L. H. Brittin, vice president of Northwest Airways; Harris M. Hanshue, president of Western Air Express; and Gilbert Givvin, Western Air representative. Taking of evidence and final arguments in their cases were concluded last Saturday.

At issue in the MacCracken case and the cases of the three air mail officials, his former legal clients, is the question of whether they shall be punished for having removed air mail correspondence from MacCracken's files after the files had been subpenaed by the special senate committee investigating air and ocean mail contracts.

Stop in Midst of Trial.

The trial was begun today but was broken off half way when United States marshals arrived bearing a second writ of habeas corpus issued by Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue of the District of Columbia Supreme court.

It was upon this second writ that the first court decision, touching the fundamental right of the senate to administer punishment, was handed down by the same Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue of the District of Columbia Supreme court. The justice's finding sided with the senate and its powers and against MacCracken and his contention that the senate was seeking to act unconstitutionally. Not only was MacCracken remanded to the senate but he was denied bail.

Weary, without a chance for a meal since breakfast, the former assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics was haled to the Willard hotel and there held for the night under the watchful chaperonage of Mr. Jurney.

Fitting Sequel to Events.

The day proved more than a fitting sequel—it was a second and still more extravagant edition of last Saturday's and yesterday's proceedings, which first saw MacCracken sleeping on a cot in Sergeant at Arms Jurney's house on the strength of his insistence that he was under arrest, which then saw the issuance of the first writ by Justice O'Donoghue on the ground

CALL FOR A "V8" HARNESSED TO A RED VEHICLE

Sergt. Sam Doran at the Stanton avenue police station was unable to hear distinctly what Wade Whitaker, 3573 Rhodes avenue, a Negro peddler, was telephoning about last night except that a "V-8" was gone. "You'll have to come to the station and report your stolen automobile," the policeman said. But Whitaker demurred: "It's not my automobile that's gone; it's my horse and he was branded with a V-8 on his hip. He stands 10 hands high and answers to the name of 'Chocolate.' He wandered away with an open single wagon that has a red paint job and if the police can find so many automobiles they ought to be able to find a horse that has a brand on it."

Fog Blankets London; Two Die, Ship Sinks

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 12.—London and its satellite area within a radius of 60 miles were gripped today in one of the worst fogs experienced in many years. It resulted in at least two deaths and more than 30 persons were injured, many seriously, in traffic smashes.

All but one of the crew of the 4,300 ton Greek steamer Meandros are believed to have been lost in a collision in the fog with the British steamer Dartford off St. Catherines point, Isle of Wight. The Meandros sank. Many other vessels were reported aground along the coast.

When Londoners awoke this morning, the streets were covered with a thick white frost resembling snow. Apparently it was still night, for the fog had descended on the city about 2 a. m. By morning visibility was restricted to about two feet. Workers, delayed for hours on trains, became lost trying to find their way about when eventually they were deposited in the business section.

Enter Tea Shops.

Many were so hopelessly lost that they sought solace in tea shops and remained until the black pall lifted sufficiently to enable them to proceed.

The fog was so dense that buses and surface cars were able to proceed only a few yards a minute. Many passengers who had started out to work at the normal hour did not arrive at their places of business until lunch time. At 10 o'clock this morning London presented the normal aspect of a very dark night, with all street lamps and shops fully lighted. At dangerous corners men burned huge flares as guides.

From surrounding districts reports poured in of road smashes.

France, England Parted.

The fog, together with the French general strike, completely parted England and France. There was practically no communication between the two countries. And airport officials announced that no machines were leaving for anywhere. The few which had attempted to leave earlier were forced to return in a few minutes.

Cross channel steamers which did go across to France had to dump their passengers on the quays and leave them. They are sending the heavy baggage and mails on later, as the dock staffs were not working at any ports.

The condition of Melvin A. Traylor, ill of pneumonia, was distinctly improved yesterday and last night after his critical relapse on Sunday. Attending physicians became more hopeful of the outcome of his long illness. Details on page 3.

METEOR FLASHES OVER MONTANA TOWN, EXPLODES

Billings, Mont., Feb. 12.—(AP)—What residents here described as the most brilliant meteor they had ever seen appeared from the northwest tonight, flashed at terrific speed over the city, and, after exploding, disappeared near the southeastern horizon.

A long train of fiery sparks followed in the wake of the fireball. The phenomenon was visible only for about 45 seconds, but in that time it traveled a matter of several miles.

The explosion appeared to occur at a point above the Yellowstone river, southeast of the city. The blast divided the fireball into two bright specks of light, which thereafter vanished.

Airplane pilots reported seeing the flaming projectile, but did not know it was a meteor. Omaha heard it might be a "rocket ship," described as flying through the air at 350 miles an hour and belching flame and sparks.

Orders Burning of 8,000 Copies of Mexican History

GUADALAJARA, Mexico, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Eight thousand copies of a history of Mexico written by Abel Gamiz will be burned here this week at an auto-da-fe ordered by Gov. Sebastian Allende of the state of Jalisco. The governor classified the history as a "reactionary work full of lies and errors" and incompatible with the ideals of the Mexican revolution. He said the satisfaction of saving children from reading it was worth far more than the 8,000 pesos [currently about $2,240] the books cost.

Incidentally he has also won sweepstake winnings on two occasions recently. Smith is a bachelor.

Seven Injured as Guns Mow Down Rioters

Walla Walla, Wash., Feb. 12.—(AP)—One guard and seven convicts are dead and four guards and three convicts are wounded as the result this afternoon of the most desperate attempt to break prison in the last 43 years.

Armed with knives, shears, and hammers, 40 felons of the Washington state penitentiary attacked simultaneously in both wings of the prison shortly after lunch. They were in the cell blocks, but had not yet been locked in.

Overpowering guards, the convicts rushed to the office of Chief Turnkey Williams, brandishing their knives.

Warden Calls on Phone.

Dramatically, the telephone rang—it was Warden McCauley calling on business. The prisoners told Williams to answer the phone and give no intimation of what was taking place. With knives nudging his back Williams did as they said.

The warden noticed his voice was strained, however, and called back. This time Assistant Turnkey Jackson was forced to assure him everything was "all right."

Certain something was wrong, McCauley placed extra guards on the walls and around the main gate.

Then the convicts rushed the gate.

Shield Behind Guards.

With the captured guards as a shelter they shouted for it to be opened.

Instead of yielding, the guards opened fire with seven machine guns and several rifles, aiming carefully to avoid hitting the captive guards, and singling out the ringleaders of the riot.

Above the crash of shots the prison siren signaled a riot alarm, and the warden called for the Washington National Guard. Within half an hour Capt. Fred C. Roecker had mustered Company F, 161st infantry, equipped with rifles, bayonets, and steel helmets, and the infantrymen were stationed on the walls. Not a convict escaped, the warden said.

Shortly after 3 o'clock the rioters had been subdued and the unwounded ones locked in solitary confinement.

Preliminary lists of dead and wounded, as given out at the prison:

THE DEAD.

H. L. Briggs, assistant chief turnkey.
Convict Ernest De Boer, robbery.
Convict H. R. Clark, murder.
Convict James L. Delong, robbery.
Convict Wallace Turcott, attempted robbery.
Convict Gerald King, grand larceny.
Convict Paul Krouse, robbery.
Convict Hersholl Robert Parks, statutory.

THE INJURED.

M. H. Burnett, assistant turnkey, scalp wound.
T. C. Hubbard, assistant turnkey, beaten and knifed in head.
H. M. Williams, assistant chief turnkey, stabbed in back.
Frank Geitzan, assistant turnkey, stabbed in shoulder.
Convict Edwin Alonzo Ware, robbery.
Convict Robert Bain, robbery.
Convict Lawrence Colton, robbery.

Two of the convicts, Parks and De Boer, did not die until late in the evening.

Four Try Earlier Break.

Four desperadoes attempted to escape last Oct. 7 and, when guards saw them using a ladder to go over the walls, Donald F. Collins was slain and James Fenning seriously injured.

The most spectacular attempt at escape ever made at the prison was in 1891. Convicts seized a train which was run into the prison brick yard, captured the warden, John McClees, and ordered him under threat of death to open the gates so they could run the train to Dixie, 10 miles away, and get into the mountains. McClees called to Phil Berry, a wall guard to shoot, "but take your time." Just as the two ringleaders started to plunge their knives into the warden, Berry fired, killing both.

One of the wounded convicts was not involved in the riot and attempt to escape. Parks was at work in the prison cannery when a stray bullet struck him.

Four women and a three year old child were inside the prison visiting at the time but were unharmed.

SOLDIERS SHELL SOCIALISTS AS FIGHTING GROWS

Hundreds Fall in Street Battles.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Pictures on Back Page.)

VIENNA,—(By Telephone to London, Paris, and Berlin to Avoid Censor.)—Feb. 13.—(Tuesday.)—A bloody civil war gripped Austria today

Socialists fought police and soldiers through a night of terror not only for their lives but also against political extermination at the hands of the republic's pocket sized dictator, Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss.

At an early hour today the number of dead was placed at 150, although no one is in a position to say exactly how many have been killed. The number of wounded runs into the hundreds.

Battle in Darkened City.

In Vienna and other important cities bullets from machine guns rained death up and down the streets. Rifles cracked. Shells from howitzers screamed through a heavy fog. Explosions of bombs and hand grenades added to the din.

Vienna is a city of darkness. The inky blackness is punctuated only by the flash of guns and the headlights of armored cars dashing through the streets. Occasionally beams from searchlights are thrown on the big municipal owned apartment buildings from which the Socialists poured bullets on the military forces.

Erect Wire Entanglements

Barbed wire entanglements and barricades have been thrown up in the streets. There is a continual call for more troops.

At 2 a. m. today (Tuesday) the sound of artillery firing was heard in the heart of Vienna. The army was obeying orders to blast out 3,000 members of the Schutzbund (the supposedly dissolved military organization of the Socialists), who had entrenched themselves on Laaerberg hill.

Bombard Workers' Club.

A battery of artillery was ordered early this morning to renew the bombardment of the Ottakring Workers' club. When the building seemed almost shot to pieces government armored cars dashed up and poured in a devastating fire. Several workers who had been driven into cellars by bombardment, however, emerged soon afterward and began isolated but well directed rifle fire on troops who drew back to await daylight.

Orders have been issued to open an artillery attack on the Sandleten block of workers' model buildings at dawn unless the defenders meantime have surrendered. If the proposed storming of these big dwelling houses is carried out there will inevitably be a high proportion of women and children among the victims.

Fight in Provinces.

Fighting near the West railway station, the scene of sharp clashes early last night, was resumed shortly before 3 a. m.

Telephone messages from Graz, in southeastern Styria, said a battle raged there far into the morning. In that city alone the number of dead was set at 50 and the wounded at 100. Reports early today said Socialists were holding the Graz police station in the face of heavy firing. The soldiers had ejected the Socialists last night, but were forced to surrender the station after a vicious attack.

Forty Slain at Linz.

Another stubborn battle is raging at Linz, the capital of upper Austria. The death toll there was given as 40.

Prince Ernst Rudiger von Starhemberg, leader of the Fascist heimwehr [home guard], staunch supporters of the Dollfuss government, ordered his political army into the fray early yesterday. The prince, who is vice leader of Dollfuss' patriotic front, sped for Linz last night with a picked corps of officers to direct his forces in the battle there.

Early this morning, with most of the telephonic communication gone as a result of the general strike which the Socialists called yesterday, the army mobilized its carrier pigeon forces. Soldiers carrying the birds were dispatched to various strategic centers.

Terrific clashes are known to be going on in the munitions centers of Steyr, Bruck-om-der-Mur, and Eggenburg. Scanty messages received here said the fatalities were heavy in those cities.

The long expected dissolution of the Socialist party was decreed late last night when the cabinet went into a permanent session. The minister of social welfare, Richard Schmitz, was appointed federal commissioner for the city and state of Vienna, which was a Socialist stronghold for many years.

Seize Vienna City Hall.

Announcement that the party had been dissolved was a signal for an attack by the Fascist heimwehr. Its members rushed into the city hall and after a clash ejected the enraged Socialists.

The Socialist burgomaster, Karl Seitz, who was deprived of his police powers last week but refused to accept the order, was held a prisoner in the city hall.

The Socialists decided it was time to attack. A general strike was called and the Schutzbund was mobilized in short order. In the capital they jogged to their mobilization centers at double time. They presented an odd contrast to the smartly uniformed men of the Heimwehr. The Socialists' fighting men wore hobnail shoes, overalls, and iron hats.

Peace Parley Is Futile.

But they had machine guns, too, and, to the dismay of the police and soldiers, knew how to use them.

A frantic attempt by leaders of the Democratic wing of Dollfuss' Christian Social [Catholic] party to restore peace failed as the firing began in Vienna. A delegation from the nearby city of Baden called upon the chancellor to urge him to remove Vice Chancellor Emil Fey, one of the leaders of the Heimwehr. The peace mission charged Fey was responsible for the outbreak of violence because of his repressive measures against the Socialists. The chancellor refused to dismiss Fey.

Climax of Years of Hatred.

Yesterday's outbreak is the climax of years of bitter hatred between Socialists and Fascists. The conflict came to a head last week when Fey raided Vienna Socialist headquarters and announced the existence of a Socialist-Bolshevik "criminal plot" against the government. He demanded the complete suppression of parties in Austria.

Briefly, it is a bitter three cornered fight between Marxism, Fascism, and Nazism. The Socialists saw themselves sinking into oblivion last March when Dollfuss dissolved parliament and set up a rule by decree. The Socialists held more seats in parliament than any other political party.

The Nazis made a lot of noise, but had no mandates in parliament. The Fascists and the Christian Social coalition were numerically weak, but held the balance of power. Political observers see in recent developments an attempt to setting up a Fascist state modeled on the lines of Premier Mussolini's Italy.

The Nazis are taking a side seat during the revolt. They have been told to "watch and wait." They openly boast they can muster 65 per cent of the electorate if elections were called. Should they ever get the upper hand in Austria, a political union with Germany would follow.

A continuance of the fighting in Austria would give Italy and Hungary an excuse to intervene. It offers any possibility. Even Germany might take a hand with perhaps the little entente stepping in for their own preservation.

EYEWITNESS' STORY

The events in Vienna as they were observed by this correspondent follow:

About noon yesterday [Monday] I saw the electric street clocks had stopped. Then I noticed the street cars had halted. Finally the buses and taxis disappeared. Street car men stayed in their cars and wives and other members of their families later joined them so as to make it more difficult for troopers to fire on them.

Toward 3 p. m. there was a sound of firing. The nervous shopkeepers began lowering iron shutters. The news spread generally of the fighting in Linz and that the government forces had brought out the artillery to oust the Socialists in that city.

General Strike Spreads.

At 5 p. m., just as dusk was settling over Vienna, the lights went out as the general strike spread. The capital looked sinister and mournful. I noticed that even the black crows that haunt the town were seeking shelter.

I made my way up the Karntner strasse and by mere luck got a taxi near the Grand hotel. I ordered the driver to go down the main street past the ministry of war, which was heavily guarded by soldiers. We crossed the Aspern bridge with difficulty because troops stopped the car. They poked rifles through the windows and questioned us sharply as to whether we possessed guns or bombs, for across the bride lay Simmering, one of Vienna's communist districts.

Machine Gun on Bridge.

We passed barbed wire entanglements at the end of the bridge which was held by soldiers in full field equipment. In the center of the bridge stood a machine gun. As we dashed through Simmering, from time to time I noticed pools of blood in the streets.

I saw police raiding an apartment house, they were seeking guns and munitions belonging to the Schutzbund. We went to the municipal gas house and electric light plant where the general strike was effective. There were a few guards about, but we noticed the streets were dark and sullen groups crowded in the corners.

Heimwehr technicians were doing their best to operate the gas and electric works. We dashed to a high level railway crossing where the line from Vienna to Budapest leaves the city.

Search Taxicabs.

Here and there armed detachments of the Schutzbund were guarding the track. They pointed guns at us and ordered us to stop. After searching the taxicab and frisking us they permitted us to proceed. I saw poor people huddled in corners of streets. Others looked menacingly out of second story windows while workers prowled around with guns in their hands waiting for the first Heimwehrman to appear.

Further up the street we heard the crackling of rifles. Blue coated policemen with bayoneted rifles were hugging the walls and lurking behind corners in groups. As the people hurried home in the semi-darkness they quickened their steps at the sound of the ping of rifles. We dashed for safety around a corner. We returned a few minutes later and saw splashes of blood staining the paving stones. An ambulance was being filled with wounded.

We passed on and shortly afterward met another defiant and grim looking member of the Schutsund Socialist. He was carrying a rifle.

"They're shooting over in the Favoriten district," the Socialist cried.

We hurried on and found the police had barricaded this district from nearby Simmering with barbed wire. We had difficulty getting through, but proceeded on to another district known as the Ottakring. Similar scenes were enacted there. As we were leaving, a battle began between the Socialists and the Heimwehr. Later I learned 14 persons had been killed in that fight.

Then we sped up the Doebling district. There troops were firing into the Karl Marxhof. Police had been unable to eject the Socialists.

Candles Cast Dim Glow.

From Doebling we returned to the center of the city, known as the Ring district. The avenues were blocked with helmeted soldiers and barbed wire entanglements. Lighted lamps and candles cast a dim glow over the streets. Soldiers refused to let the car pass from the outer city, which was held by the Socialists at that time, to the inner city, which was held by the Fascists.

Any attempt by the Socialists to march on the city would have been in the face of machine guns, which we saw clustered along the avenues and bridges.

We drove back around Vienna's city hall, which was swarming with soldiers, guns, and barbed wire entanglements.

Displaying an American passport, I finally induced the guard at one bridge to let me cross. Two machine guns were mounted on the bridge behind the line of guards. I heard more firing. It was indeed a civil war.

GERMANY EXPRESSES SELF AS "SATISFIED" WITH AUSTRIAN CRISIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 12.—"It is impossible now to foresee how the Austrian crisis will develop—it may grow into a crisis which must be fought out on an international plane," the German semi-official news service Information said today.

"Unless there is a last minute intervention by the Austrian Nazis, Austria is faced with fateful days," said the Nazi Angriff.

Nazi circles here view the developments in Austria with satisfaction, contrasting the peacefulness of Germany to the bloody disorders in Austria. The blame for starting the uprising is laid on Prince Ernst von Starhemberg and his Fascist heimwehr.

Starhemberg's action is described as the attempt of a minority, which overestimates its strength, to assume power. Austrian Nazis will never recognize Starhemberg as their leader, Nazis here insist.

The Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung regards it as significant that the heimwehr action against the Socialists coincides with the "moment of the overthrow of the French left government. Chancellor Dollfuss promised Paris he would undertake no action against the Socialists."

DISCOVER GIRL KILLED, HIDDEN; BLAME AUTOIST

Monroe, Mich., Feb. 12.—(AP)—A hit-run motorist was blamed tonight for the death of an unidentified young woman whose frozen body was found beneath a culvert on the Dixie highway south of Monroe.

Sheriff Joseph Bairley said the woman appeared at first to have been beaten to death, but a second examination revealed wounds characteristic of automobile injuries. Officers asserted the body evidently was dragged under the culvert for concealment.

The woman, 25 or 30 years old, had suffered a fractured skull and numerous body bruises. She was said to be attractive, with brown hair, gray eyes, and weighing about 115 pounds.

She was wearing a brown dress, a black fur coat, tan stockings, and brown oxfords.

SEIZE ROBBER INDICTED FOR POSTAL HOLDUPS

Tony Skinkis, 21 years old, 2330 West 22d place, who is under indictment for the robbery of several postoffice substations, was arrested by police last night at 13th street and Independence boulevard. He was carrying two revolvers when seized, but made no attempt to use them. He confessed the robbery of half a dozen postoffice substations and doctors' offices. On Jan. 27 he escaped a police trap police had set for him and a companion by leaping from a fourth floor window of an apartment house at 6016 Stony Island avenue. He landed on a roof two floors below. His companion, Mario Zavattaro, 18 years old, 2328 West 23d street, was arrested and was turned over to federal authorities.

NEW MONEY SCANDAL LOOMS IN FRANCE; PARIS BANKER SEIZED

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Feb. 12.—Elie Sacazan, a banker who is alleged to have swindled French investors out of hundreds of millions of francs, was arrested at Beirut, Syria, today on a warrant issued by the ministry of justice.

The Sacazan case is not unlike that of Alexander Stavisky's in the $80,000,000 Bayonne pawnshop scandal, which has caused the downfall of two cabinets. There is material here for another large political scandal.

Sacazan founded the Banque Sacazan at Paris, then a holding company, and the Banque D'Expansion Francaise. He launched on the market the shares of twelve industrial companies, which he is accused of having heavily watered. They have all collapsed and with them the French investors' money. The similarity to the Stavisky case lies in the seeming immunity of Sacazan from judicial pursuit. During the past six years he was involved directly or indirectly in twenty-three indictments. He was condemned to two years in prison at Algiers, but he has never served the sentence.

Hot Darn! Heres' a Cold Weather Tale with Moral

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—As the Adirondacks thaw out stories are coming from the remote farms. In St. Lawrence county a duck owned by Edmund Ramie backed up so closely to a red hot stove in the poultry house that its tail burst into flames, igniting the straw and setting the building on fire. Twenty-nine chickens were suffocated and the duck was roasted to a turn.

French Strike Brings Class Warfare; 1 Killed, Many Shot

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 12.—France's Red Monday passed without any serious trouble, but there was no doubt about the color.

As a manifestation of might organized by the Socialists and communists in opposition to the to the "Fascist menace," the nation-wide 24 hour strike was a fiasco. As a symptom of the growing class hatred which is complicating the French political problem it was not without significance.

In the capital the strike was only about 50 per cent effective in its avowed purpose of crippling the city's normal activity. Overpowering and cleverly managed police forces prevented a joint massmeeting by communists and Socialists this afternoon from developing any disorder.

Fighting in Provinces.

In the Red ring of suburbs around Paris, in the industrial centers to the north and east, and, above all, in the ports of Marseilles and Nantes there was fighting between communist cohorts and police or strikebreakers in which scores were wounded. About 400 were arrested.

One man was killed at Marseilles when a Red mob attacked the police with stones and revolver shots. For two hours the main street, Cannebiere, was at the mercy of riotous bands who pillaged, wrecked, burned, and even tried to bomb a church. Early in the evening an official communique from Marseilles admitted that 6 Reds and 14 policemen were seriously wounded by gunfire.

Equally vicious fighting but with less shooting broke out tonight at Nantes.

All around Paris there were local incidents—stands and benches burned, street cars stoned, attempts to burn factories, which kept running—and clashes with police.

At least 50,000 communist and Socialist workers joined in an open air demonstration and parade from the Vincennes gate to the Place de la Nation this afternoon and were whipped up by orators to a state bordering on fanaticism.

Some agile communists climbed up the giant statue of Marianne, feminine figure symbolising the republic, and tied a Red flag on the bonnet of Marianne. A great cheer went up from the crowd.

Heady tactics by police, who did not attempt to restrain the demonstration in any way but threw a cordon of thousands of armed men around the whole section, prevented the slightest trouble.

Railroad trains ran normally and stations were guarded by troops with fixed balonets.

Strike Appeared Failure.

Earlier in the day it appeared that the strike had been a complete failure in Paris, only the schools and mails being greatly affected. Most of the shops and cafés which were closed were shut up in fear of riots rather than through lack of employés to run them. Local telephones, being automatic, gave Parisians the illusion that the telephone strike was not complete, but they speedily discovered their mistake when they tried to make long distance calls.

In the afternoon buses and street cars stopped running in order to prevent further violence. The underground trains ran almost normally during the day, but just about dinner time, when large crowds had ventured out in the belief that the service would last until midnight, the trains suddenly stopped running, altogether, leaving thousands to walk home.

Strikes Hit Spain; Police Clash with Rioters; 1 Shot

MADRID, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Scattered strikes and other labor difficulties disturbed sections of Spain today. Police and strikers exchanged several volleys during a general strike in Bilbao, and one worker was severely wounded. Communists had led other leftist workers out, paralyzing commerce and industry. The government brought troops into the city from Vigo and Santander to cope with possible trouble. In Gijon, the workers' union announced a general strike in sympathy with the unemployed.

BARELEGGEDYANK MARCHES IN PARIS STRIKE PARADE

PARIS, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Among the marchers in today's "anti-Fascist" parade were the barelegged American, Raymond Duncan, a brother of the late Isadora Duncan, and a woman disciple.

They were clad in flowing Greek robes and sandals.

Duncan headed a parade of his own in New York in 1930 when he marched down Fifth avenue and Broadway to the Battery and got sea water to make salt as a gesture of sympathy with Mahatma Gandhi.

SUBMITS DRAFT OF COMMODITY EXCHANGE BILL

Roosevelt Advises Rigid Supervision.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—Specific legislation to bring the nation's commodity exchanges under rigid governmental regulation was submitted to congress today by President Roosevelt.

Drafted by experts of the department of agriculture, the measure calls for licensing individual brokers on the exchanges, establishing arbitrary line limitations on both long and short accounts, and segregating margin funds under "a trust fund" arrangement.

The bill was presented to Senator Duncan U. Fletcher [Dem., Fla.], chairman of the senate banking and currency committee with the following letter from Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace:

"Pursuant to a suggestion made by Secretary Roper, and with the approval of the President, I transmit herewith copies of two suggested bills to regulate the commodity exchanges.

"One is a bill to deal with cotton separately and the other is a consolidated bill to cover grains and cotton and which is adapted to apply to other commodities also, if necessary."

Would Centralize Power.

In general, the consolidated commodity exchange bill calls for the amendment of the grain futures act to make it applicable to all commodities, including cotton. The present grain futures commission, consisting of the secretary of agriculture, the secretary of commerce and the attorney general, would be retained as a commodities commission, but all its powers would be vested in the secretary of agriculture alone so far as individual violations of the act might be concerned.

The proposed legislation to regulate the commodity marts is to be supplemented by the grain exchange code now being prepared by the agricultural adjustment administration, it was understood. Officials of the AAA said the code is nearing completion and should be announced within a fortnight.

Issues Summary of Provisions.

Although copies of the exchange control legislation as proposed today were not available, Senator Fletcher made public an official digest of its provisions, understood to have been prepared by the agriculture department. The digest reveals, among others, the following provisions:

"The grain futures act is so modified as to be readily extended to any commodity by simply enlarging the definition of the word 'commodity.'

"The commission is empowered to fix 'trading limits' beyond which it will be unlawful for any person to buy or sell a commodity for future delivery for speculative purposes. Wide discretion is lodged in the commission, so that the limit may be different for different commodities and different markets and may be different for selling operations than for buying operations. Hedging transactions are exempt and are defined in such a way as to make certain that these operations will not be interfered with.

Outlines Various Misdemeanors.

"Cheating and fraud upon customers by exchange members, or their employés or agents, in connection with the handling of orders, is made a criminal offense.

"Indemnities are outlawed as are also 'wash sales,' 'cross trades,' and all transactions which are used to cause any price to be reported, registered, or recorded which is not a true and bona fide price.

"Margin money collected from customers must not be used to extend credit of, or to margin the trades of, persons other than the one for whom held."

The secretary of agriculture is given power to make and promulgate rules and regulations necessary under the act and to revoke the licenses of commission merchants for cause, subject to appeal to the courts.

Paragraph A of section 5 of the present grain futures act is amended to "permit the designation of contract markets which, although not located at a terminal market where the commodities traded in are sold in sufficient quantities to reflect values, do provide for delivery at points where these conditions exist. This will take care of situations where delivery of certain commodities must be provided for at outside points. The cotton futures market of the Chicago Board of Trade is an example."

LENIN MURAL IS DESTROYED

The fresco by Diego Rivera, Mexican artist, showing Lenin joining hands with a soldier and a white and a Negro worker, which caused Rivera's dismissal from Rockefeller Center last May. Yesterday it was revealed that the offending mural had been destroyed over the week-end. [Acme Photo.]

CHOPS RIVERA'S LENIN PAINTING OFF RCA TOWER

Rockefeller 'Murder of Art' Decried.

New York, Feb. 12.—[Special.]—Rockefeller center canceled its $21,000 investment in a fresco by Diego Rivera, Mexican artist, by destroying the offending Lenin mural over the week-end. Today, when the news became known, John Sloan, president of the Society of Independent Artists, called for a boycott by artists of Rockefeller center and announced that he would never exhibit there.

"I cannot believe that either Mr. or Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr. was consulted about this deplorable act," Mr. Sloan said, and asserted that "if this vandalism had been committed last May, immediately after Rivera was dismissed from Rockefeller center, it might have been condoned as 'art slaughter.' My verdict now is that it is premeditated 'art murder.'"

Little to Say.

Be it crime or benefaction, workmen with axes accomplished it Saturday night. They hacked out the plaster, with its special permeating pigments. For months burlap covered the spot.

And this brief statement was given out by Rockefeller center: "The Rivera mural has been removed from the walls of the R. C. A. building and the space replastered. The removal involved the destruction of the mural."

This statement was amplified somewhat by a spokesman for Rockefeller center, who explained that some structural changes in the great hall of the R. C. A. building about to be made necessitated the removal of the painting.

Sees Cultural Vandalism.

The Society of Independent Artists is now negotiating for space in the R. C. A. building in which to hold its annual exhibition. As head of this organization, Mr. Sloan said he would protest their showing in Rockefeller center.

Rivera called it "cultural vandalism" and "the assassination of human creation." In a message which Bertram D. Wolfe, Rivera's New York representative, said had been cabled from Mexico City to the New Workers' school, Rivera denounced the Rockefellers and capitalism alike as "enemies of human culture."

"The Rockefellers have destroyed my mural, but," asserted Rivera, "my work was photographed."

Admirers of Rivera have scheduled a protest meeting Saturday night at the new Workers' school.

RARE LIQUOR IMPORTS FROM AROUND GLOBE TO BE DISPLAYED HERE

Rare and expensive liquors imported from many foreign countries will be on display at the National Wine and Liquor show, to be held March 5 to 9 at the Hotel Sherman.

Among the wines to be shown will be the honey wines of the Polish-Russo exhibit. According to T. R. Lazarewicz, in charge of that exhibit, the wines, fermented from honey collected by bees during the month of July, were a favorite with the late czar of Russia and have been popular for centuries with the aristocracy of Poland.

Other liquors in that exhibit will be Mountain Ash brandy and Blackthorn cordial, which are prepared from the berries and bark of ash and blackthorn trees after the first frost has fallen in northern Poland and eastern Russia.

Along with domestic whisky will be displayed the rice whisky and fruit brandies of Japan and China, cocoanut liquor from Africa, fruit wines from South America, and liquor made from tropical fruit of the South seas.

STRIKERS YELL AND PARADE IN NEW YORK CITY

New York, Feb. 12.—[Special.]—Two windows in the Savarin restaurant, in the building of the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, were struck by missils tonight during a demonstration of 1,500 hotel strikers.

Although the demonstration appeared orderly and more than 100 policemen and detectives were guarding the hotel, the windows, made of shatterproof glass, were found perforated after the meeting ended.

About seventy-five guests in the restaurant at the time were more amused than excited.

There was no interruption in the demonstration, which was moved along peacefully by the police.

DOCTORS GIVE TRAYLOR GOOD CHANCE TO LIVE

Banker's Condition Shows Turn for Better.

The improvement of Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank, was so marked last night in his rally from a sixth relapse during a month's illness of pneumonia that his family physician, Dr. William R. Cubbins, said definitly he believed the banker had an "exceedingly good chance for complete recovery." At 3 o'clock this morning Mr. Traylor was said to be having a restful night.

"Mr. Traylor's rest during the afternoon was the best he has had since he was stricken," the physician said. "He appeared more comfortable and his sleep was not fitful as it has been so often."

Depend on His Stamina.

Mr. Traylor's splendid physical and mental stamina, which has amazed his attendants by providing him with the resources to fight his way out of several critical relapses, is the foundation on which the present optimism is based, Dr. Cubbins indicated.

"He's still a seriously ill man, however," said Dr. Cubbins, "so we'll continue to stand by to be ready in case there is a turn for the worse. But taking everything into consideration, I believe he has an exceedingly good chance of complete recovery."

The fits of unconsciousness in which the patient had lain at intervals since his most recent and most critical relapse Saturday night were gone last night. Mr. Traylor was again his mentally clear self and was able to converse a little with those around him in the sickroom of his home at 426 Barry avenue. He remarked that he was glad to be back in the oxygen tent which had been quickly erected Saturday night after not having been used for several days.

Able to Eat Ice Cream.

He ate some ice cream and drank a quantity of liquids. He has not been fed solid food for some time.

A bulletin issued by Dr. Cubbins and the other attending physicians at 6 p. m. stated that Mr. Traylor's temperature had dropped to 100, his pulse was 108 beats a minute, and his respiration 30.

At 10 p. m. Dr. Cubbins issued a bulletin which said:

"Mr. Traylor continues to improve, although there is no marked change. His pulse is a little faster now, at 120. His respiration is 34 and his temperature 100.2. His color is excellent and generally he is in very good shape.

"On the whole we are very much pleased with Mr. Traylor's distinct progress. There is no evidence now of the trouble that started Saturday night's relapse. His lungs are clearing up and he is sleeping naturally.

"He has had no sedatives for 48 hours and no stimulants for 36 hours. Although anything can happen with a speed almost unbelievable, we are expecting no sudden change for the worse. It is also easier now for us to spot any trouble that begins."

Mr. Traylor became ill of influenza on Jan. 11 and this developed into pneumonia on Jan. 16.

EFTAX MYSTERY ANGLE REVIVED IN INSULL INQUIRY

Ettelson Hints Link in Safety Boxes.

Speculation concerning the mysterious Constantine Eftax, whose account in the Harris Trust and Savings bank was once believed to represent a cash reserve of the Athens exile, Samuel Insull, was revived yesterday.

Attorney Samuel A. Ettelson, who first raised questions concerning the Eftax account, procured a subpena for Howard W. Fenton, president of the Harris bank, to testify today at resumption of the Insull "town meeting" in progress before Federal Judge Lindley. He discovered that Mr. Fenton had sailed last week for London.

Seeks Data on Deposit Box.

His purpose, Attorney Ettelson said, was to seek further explanations from Mr. Fenton concerning peculiar rules governing access to the Eftax safety deposit box in the bank. At a prior hearing, Mr. Fenton had said twelve trust officers had access to the box, but that one could open it only in the presence of three others.

Questioning Waldo F. Tobey, personal counsel for Insull, Ettelson brought out last week that a similar practice held regarding a safety deposit box Insull formerly held in the Commonwealth Edison building. Mr. Tobey said that he, Samuel Insull Jr., and Edward J. Doyle, president of Commonwealth Edison, had access to the box under the "double entry" whereby the box could be opened by one only in the presence of two of those entrusted with access.

Questions Insull Backing.

"This is a very unusual practice," Ettelson commented, "and it seems odd that it should have been employed in the cases of both Insull and Eftax. I am convinced that the position of Mr. Eftax, who is also in Greece, might bear further scrutiny. If Insull is 'broke,' as has been testified, then who is financing his expensive fight to resist extradition?"

Slug Oil Firm Manager and Guard; Steal $1,300

Three masked bandits slugged two men in the Deep Rock Oil company offices at 1322 Kingsbury avenue last night and escaped with $1,300. The men beaten were Henry T. Dubreuil, 5547 Giddings street, manager, and Joseph Schupok, 943 North Racine avenue, watchman. With them was Schupok's son, Joseph Jr. The three were tied up after Dubreuil and Schupok Sr. had been slugged. After this the bandits emptied a cash drawer.

LIEUT. MURREL GOES ON STAND, DENIES ATTACK

Divorcee Sobs Out Story of Alleged Rape.

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Lieut. John H. Murrel faced Miss Blanche Ralls as a witness in his own defense in federal court today and denied he raped her as the aftermath of a night club party Oct. 22.

"I took no liberties with her," said the former West Point football star, now an officer of the Ninth infantry. "I was trying to get her home."

Conflicting versions of what occurred at their meeting and on a drive over the Fort Sam Houston military reservation were presented speedily by prosecution and defense.

Defense Loses Point.

Miss Ralls, pretty 23 year old Birmingham divorcee, charged that Murrel, as her escort, dragged her from his motor car, raped her, and threatened to beat her if she scremaed.

Judge R. J. McMillan declined to permit Louis W. Schlesinger, attorney for the defense, to question Miss Ralls in regard to what the attorney said were similar cases in Birmingham.

Murrel was on the stand when court recessed for the day.

The government rested earlier with the testimony of Miss Ralls, who sobbed as she told of the alleged attack.

Doctor Expresses Doubt.

Murrel's denial was reinforced by testimony from Dr. S. H. Taylor, who, in answer to a hypothetical defense question, said he did not believe the attack could have occurred as Miss Ralls testified it did. On cross-examination the doctor said it might be possible, but he hardly thought so.

Dr. Taylor said he examined Miss Ralls the day following the attack and found no bruises upon her body and only a few superficial scratches. He found no evidence of an attack, he said.

ANNOUNCE TAX RATES FOR 13 COUNTY TOWNS

Last City Township Also Is Completed.

The 1932 tax rates for the township of Jefferson in the northwest corner of Chicago and for thirteen Cook county townships outside the city were announced yesterday by County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer. The rates for the remaining seventeen country townships will be completed and made public by the end of the week. The rates for the other seven townships in Chicago were announced last Friday.

County Treasurer McDonough said yesterday that the tax bills for South Chicago township will be placed in the mail today. It had been planned to begin mailing these bills yesterday but the delay was occasioned by the fact that the Jefferson rates were not completed until late in the day. With each of the tax bills is inclosed an explanatory pamphlet showing how the taxpayers' money will be allocated among the various taxing districts and the Jefferson rates had to be included in the pamphlet.

How to Compute Tax Rate.

The taxpayer in Jefferson township may compute his rate by adding to the basic rate of $6.74, which prevails throughout the city, the rate for the individual park district in which he lives. For instance, the Jefferson township taxpayer residing in the Albany park district would add 60 cents to the basic rate, his total tax rate being $7.34. The park district rates for Jefferson are given in a subjoined table. The basic rate in the city is the total of the county, city, school, forest preserve, state and sanitary district rates.

Wherever the rates are now available, the taxpayer may compute his tax bill by multiplying his assessed valuation by the rate and then placing the decimal point in the result two places to the left. Illustrating this calculation, the Jefferson taxpayer living in the Albany Park district with an assessed valuation of $1,000, would multiply this by 7.34. This produces 7340.00. Moving the decimal point two places to the left the taxpayer gets $73.40 as his bill. The same rates apply for both personal property and real estate.

Oak Park and River Forest.

In Oak Park and River Forest—two of the country townships for which rates were announced yesterday—the villages occupy the entire townships and the total tax rate is the same for all residents, there being no variations for park or school districts within the boundaries.

For other townships outside the city, in which there is more than one village, park district or school district, the total rates vary, being determined by the addition to the basic rate of the township the rates for the specific districts in which the taxpayer lives. These rates are also given in subjoined tables.

With the exception of Oak Park and River Forest, the country townships whose rates were announced yesterday have an average basic rate of $1.91 for each $100 of assessed valuation, an increase of 10 cents over the 1931 average basic rate of $1.81. The district rates in the country townships show an average increase of 8 per cent over the 1931 rates.

15 Per Cent Reduction for All.

The 15 per cent reduction in the average taxpayer's bill for 1932, as compared to his 1931 bill, will apply to country town residents, as well as to Chicago property owners, according to Assessor J. L. Jacobs. The assessor forecast this reduction, because of his 25 per cent reduction in 1932 real estate valuations as compared to the 1931 valuations. Following are the tax rates so far announced for both city and country townships:

Hearing on the petition of the Chicago Real Estate board for a 15 per cent reduction in the 1931 real estate assessments of the 438,000 owners of homes and small flat buildings in Cook county will be resumed today before County Judge Jarecki.

The real estate board began the litigation last Nov. 13 and since then numerous continuances have delayed the presentation of evidence in the case. It has been estimated by George Hagenauer, auditor in the office of County Treasurer McDonough, that collection of $25,000,000 in taxes has been delayed by the pending suit.

Jarecki Promises Speed.

"This case must be concluded at the earliest possible moment," Judge Jarecki said last night. "I will give all the time I can to hearing the evidence within the next few days. I will make an early ruling as soon as the evidence and final arguments are completed.

"Our government is dependent for its existence on the revenue from taxes. We can brook no unnecessary delay in collecting these taxes."

The board's contention in the suit, which is a test tax objection, is that the 1931 real estate assessment is fraudulent and discriminates against the small property owner. Assessor Jacobs has defended the equity of the assesment on direct examination and will be cross examined by the real estate board's attorneys today.

Rush to Buy Tokens

Stores experienced a rush of buyers at their valentine counters yesterday. Shoppers in unusual numbers were observed in numerous places awaiting their turn to choose the most appropriate sentiments.

A trend away from the comic valentines to the old fashioned sort of embroidered lace, hearts, and tender messages appeared universal. Some stores were showing pullout valentines decorated with cupids and doves and ladies and gentlemen in colonial costume. Men were frequently noted among the shoppers.

At the Field museum what might be called an "aboriginal valentine" among American Indians is on exhibit. It is a device for the furtherance of romance and is called a "courting stick." The article consists of a small bundle of red cedar bark and white feathers attached to a wooden staff. It was used by young men much as a bouquet of flowers or a valentine is now utilized, and was placed in front of the young lady's home. In the same exhibit is a "courting mask" worn by members of the same Indian tribe when in search of a wife.

The Chicago Heart association hopes that the public will place the penny heart stickers on their valentine mail, thus aiding in the prevention of heart disease in Chicago. The books may be obtained at 203 North Wabash avenue.

JACOBS TURNS ASSESSING EYE ON OWN STAFF

Report Card Is Prepared for Every Employe.

School days have returned for the employés of County Assessor J. L. Jacobs. It was learned yesterday that the assessor is preparing a report card on every one in his office.

The assessor's report cards are far more elaborate and searching than those the workers received in their school days. Where school cards listed the three R's, history, music, geography, spelling, deportment, and attendance, the new card, sponsored by the bureau of public personnel administration, lists 96 items. The matter is of interest to Assessor Jacobs, whose duty is to appraise property, real and personal, because its aim is to appraise an employé's service value.

Classify the Employés.

Some of the items are concerned with attendance. Spaces are provided to check days off, with and without leave, and the number of times tardy. Another group of items seeks to determine whether an employé is a clock watcher and whether he quits ahead of time.

Each employé is subjected to analysis by his department head, who checks the terms which he feels best describe a worker. The department heads are evaluated by Jacobs, who also may correct estimates of the department heads on particular employés.

Some of Items Listed.

Among the items on the report card are these:

Talks too much.	Too much self-importance.
Cranky disposition.	Does not do his share of work.
Loses temper easily.	Easily rattled.
Lacks self-confidence.	Too easy going.
Pleasing and mellow voice.	Poor head work in emergencies.
Careless of personal appearance.	Makes many mistakes.
Maintains good discipline.	Not a good teamworker.
Discipline too harsh.	Not generally reliable.
Sometimes goes on a tear.	Uses poor judgment.
Drink is one of principal failings.

The report cards are for the six months that ended Jan. 1. Assessor Jacobs said they will not be distributed among the employés, but kept for office information. One of the reasons for getting the reports, he said, is to further his drive to place the employés of the office on a civil service basis.

Employés Get the Word.

Through the office grapevine employés have learned of the preparation of the report cards and have been working at maximum efficiency, according to department heads. The recent activity will rate little, it was said, against their performance during the six months' period.

SEEK TO DELAY BENCH ELECTION TO SAVE COST

Kelly Considers Plea to Legislature.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Gov. Horner may be asked to broaden the scope of the third special session of the general assembly which convenes at Springfield this morning.

This was learned yesterday when Mayor Kelly said he had taken under consideration a request of the city council committee on finance that he broach to the governor, who is now on a vacation in Arizona, the question of legislation for the postponement of the June judicial election until the state and county election next November. Such a postponement, it was estimated, would save the taxpayers something in excess of $200,000.

Mayor Considers Question.

"I have the matter under consideration," said the mayor. "The only objection raised is the old argument that judicial elections should be held separately so they will not be affected by bitter party battles for executive and legislative offices. I intend to give some thought to that question."

The proposal for a postponement of the bench elections was made by the council finance committee before the call for the third special session was issued on Feb. 3, but the governor failed to include the subject in his proclamation and the topic was dropped.

It was revived yesterday by a discovery that in 1912 William H. Stead, then attorney general of the state, ruled that the governor might issue an additional proclamation during a special session naming additional subjects for legislative consideration.

May Call New Session.

Until attention was called to this ruling it had been assumed generally that after thought subjects could not be brought before a special session. If the governor does not approve the additional proclamation, he may be asked to call a fourth special session to run concurrently with the third.

Several more assemblymen telegraphed THE TRIBUNE yesterday that they would support legislation for A Century of Progress in 1934 which is on the assembly program for this special session. They are Senator Frank J. Huckin Jr. [Dem., Chicago] and four state representatives, Robert J. Wilson [Dem., Kewanee] and three Chicago Democrats, Michael A. Ruddy [4th], Bernard J. Kewin [5th], and William J. Gormley [9th].

BOMB WRECKS BEAUTY SHOP IN DEVON AVENUE

The interior of Michael Muller's beauty shop at 2517 Devon avenue was wrecked early today by a bomb explosion. The blast jarred the immediate neighborhood. Witnesses told Lieut. James Devereaux of the Summerdale station that they saw an automobile stop in front of the place. Two men alighted, they said.

One of the men smashed the front window of the shop and the other threw a bomb through the opening. The explosion occurred inside the shop. Service equipment and compartments were smashed and total damage was estimated at $1,500.

G. O. P. DECIDES AGAINST SLATE FOR PRIMARIES

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—The Republican state central committee decided today to make no indorsements in the coming primary elections. In the absence of Chairman Franklin Stransky, John Tyrrell of Chicago, chairman of the managing committee, presided.

The chairman was authorized to call two conferences, one in Chicago and one downstate, after the primary election, to make arrangements for the state campaign. The committee adopted resolutions in memory of former Lieut. Gov. Fred E. Sterling and former Attorney General Edward J. Brundage.

Paul Prehn presided over the Young Men's Republican league. Former Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom, State Representative Richard Lyon, Lake county, and C. Wayland Brooks, Chicago, spoke.

COUNCIL AGREES ON $44,000,000 BUDGET FIGURE

Act to Finish Tentative Draft Today.

Members of the city council finance committee yesterday settled upon the figure of 44 million dollars as the amount available for appropriation this year and today they will proceed on that basis to complete a tentative draft of the 1934 budget. This budget will call for the expenditure of $3,883,000 less than the appropriations for last year.

Previously the aldermen had decided that the city would have only $39,500,000 to spend this year after taking up a deficit of approximately 6 million dollars. But by revising the figures for the loss and cost in the collection of taxes for the years 1928 to 1933, inclusive, they eliminated the deficit and obtained their new revenue figure. The loss and cost for that period, according to the aldermanic calculations, will average between 9 and 10 per cent ultimately.

Increase Appropriations Amount.

City Controler Upham, in his estimates, had listed $126,389,559 as taxes still collectible for the six year period, but had set up only $95,638,029 as available for appropriation against debits of those years. By its action the committee decided to increase the amount available for appropriation by over 5 millions. The move met with the approbation of Victor S. Petterson, deputy city controler.

"I think that a loss and cost figure of between 9 and 10 per cent is liberal," said Mr. Petterson. "There is a trend toward better business conditions; tax bills are being reduced to a point within the ability of property owners to pay—which will increase collections—and I'm told by County Assessor Jacobs that the 'wind' has been taken out of the personal property assessments. And I'm sure that the Supreme court has never recognized a loss and cost figure in excess of 10 per cent.

Favors Loss-Cost Change.

"Because of reductions in valuations there is a deficit of 6 million dollars on the basis of loss and cost figures used by the controler. If this deficit were to be taken up in one year it would produce an unbalanced and unsound budget. There are only two ways to straighten out the finances, either to get legislation or to change the loss and cost figures and I believe the latter way to be the best."

Mayor Kelly and Ald. John S. Clark [30th], committee chairman, pointed out that the normal salvage in appropriations at the end of each year is 5 per cent of the total appropriations. This amount, they said, will be set up as a reserve for delinquencies, thus actually making the loss and cost figure one of 15 per cent.

Scan Appropriation Figures.

With the revenue question settled the aldermen went on with their task of scanning the controler's recommendations for appropriations. They hazarded the guess that his figure of $43,767,518 would abolish 1,400 positions and asked the staff to check on that figure. The staff said that the controler had cut supply accounts below operating needs.

They decided to put the bureau of streets on the same basis as 1933—$6,377,391, which was $1,486,017 more than allowed by the controler. They talked of merging the board of local improvements with the department of public works, but were told that the statutes wouldn't permit the consolidation.

"A peculiar situation exists there," said Ald. John A. Massen [48th]. "The board goes ahead with plans for a bascule bridge in Ashland avenue, nullifying months of work in the department of public works on a fixed bridge and the fixed bridge policy of a council committee."

"There are a lot of good cigarettes. But I like OLD GOLDS because they're free of artificial flavoring. Just better tobacco . . . and nothing else. That seems to make them smoother and easier on the throat.
"Maybe that won't mean a thing to you! I'm just suggesting that you try OLD GOLDS for a few days. Then let your own taste decide!"

GIVES FORMULA CINCINNATI USES TO BEAT BOSSES

Henry Bentley Says Make Politics Amateur.

The formula by which Cincinnati not only elected a city administration pledged to good government, but has returned it to office four successive times, was described before the public affairs committee of the Union League club last night by Henry Bentley.

Mr. Bentley is chairman of the Cincinnati charter committee, which is the reform party in that city. His formula was simple: Make politics an amateur instead of a professional activity; match the ward and precinct organization of your opponents in the regular political party with an organization of volunteer, unpaid ward leaders, precinct captains, and block workers, all pushing doorbells in the interests of good government.

Budget Is Balanced.

Cincinnati is acknowledged today by political students to be one of the best governed large cities not only in the United States, but in the world. It has had a balanced budget and has taken advantage of every discount for prompt payment of municipal bills throughout the depression. It has reduced its bonded debt by $5,000,000 since 1926, when its governmental new deal started. It collected last year 93 per cent of the taxes it levied, the highest percentage of collection in any large American city.

By way of contrast, Mr. Bentley described the city government which the charter committee overturned as one of the most corrupt and inefficient in American political history. Students of political bossism came from afar to study it and left awed by its efficiency. It beat Tammany hall "all to pieces," he asserted, because whereas Tammany is a Democratic organization in a normally Republican state, the Cincinnati machine was Republican in a Republican county, state, and usually, nation. Set up in 1884 by George B. Cox, it ruled the city, with three brief intervals of unsuccessful reform administrations, until 1924.

Charter Is Revised.

The weapon which the charter committee used to break the machine was the home rule provision inserted in the Ohio state constitution in 1911. An amendment was put on the ballot by petition to provide for a city council of nine members, who would employ a city manager. A joker in the proposal gave the council authority within six months to revise the entire city charter.

The old city hall machine introduced two similar amendments, without the revisory power and without the charter committee's provision, that the councilmen should be elected at large in the city by the proportional, or cumulative, voting system. The charter committee's proposal was inserted between the other two on the ballot, so that those favoring the former had to be instructed to vote "No, Yes, and No" on the three propositions.

The charter committee recruited an army of volunteer workers who were put to work in the same ward and precinct organization used by the regular machine. In the four "downtown wards" of the city, where, as in Chicago "river wards," election corruption was most prevalent, "All-American squads" of ex-football players and former world war officers were organized to watch the voting. In the election in which the Republican machine rolled up 95,000 votes for Calvin Coolidge for President the committee polled 91,500 for its charter amendment to 41,105 for the two decoy proposals.

Committee Picks Candidates.

The following year, 1925, the first election under the new charter was held. The committee, Mr. Bentley said, considered whether it should put its own candidates in the field or should become merely an indorsing body for the candidates of the two national parties. It chose to put up its own slate. The speaker explained:

"Too many people think the way to defeat a political machine is to elect the candidates of opposite political faith. This is so naive as to be laughable. Defeat at the polls usually strengthens a machine. It is like sending a tired business man to a physical culture camp. The machine sloughs off its weaker members and is twice as strong in the next election."

The charter committee elected six of the nine candidates it had nominated. Col. Charles O. Sherrill was taken from his post as superintendent of buildings in the District of Columbia to be the first city manager.

Suggests Home Rule.

He was succeeded when he entered private business in 1930 by Clarence A. Dykestra, the present manager. At each biennial election since the charter committee has elected either five or six of the candidates it nominated to the council. In the 1933 election, which saw Tammany Hall overthrown in New York and the Republican city machines beaten in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, it kept a majority of one vote in the council.

The volunteer electioneering organization still functions and the committee's 7,000 workers and contributors, the latter including many suburbanites who earn their living in the city, elect its board of governors. This board picks the candidates which the organiaztion supports.

"The one thing Chicago business men must do is to get a home rule amendment to the state constitution," advised Mr. Bentley. "It is the bulwark of municipal reform. As I understand the situation in your state, southern Illinois wants a state income tax and will trade on that for home rule.

"Go to the People."

"Business men would rather see bad government in Chicago than pay the expenses of the state government through the income tax. Go to the people of the state, not the party bosses. The state of Illinois is ready for a home rule amendment right now. You can get your ward and precinct organization started right now, if only to see that candidates for the legislature, here and downstate, are pledged to the home rule amendment."

Asked if it were not possible to institute a city manager government in Chicago by legislative action, without amendment of the constitution, Mr. Bentley admitted that it was, but he added:

"The city manager plan is not going to give you good government. You can get it with a mayor and council if you have an aroused public spirit. If you have that spirit the city manager plan is a sharper tool for the work. But if it gets into the wrong hands it cuts the wrong way."

PRINCE MICHAEL CANTACUZENE.

'Separated Forever'

Boston, Mass., Feb. 12.—(AP)—The Princess Michael Cantacuzene, whose husband is a great-grandson of President Grant, announced today that she and the prince had "separated forever."

At the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pelham Curtis, the princess said: "Prince Michael Cantacuzene and I are permanently separated. With my daughter, Irina, and son, Rodion, I shall make my home here in Boston. There are no arrangements for divorce at present."

The prince, a graduate of Harvard, is in the real estate business in Chicago. He and Miss Clarissa Curtis were married in 1921.

The prince's father was a major general in the Russian imperial army at the end of the world war and was for 10 years aid de camp to the Grand Duke Nicholas, commander in chief of the imperial Russian army.

STARLINGS AS PESTS DISAPPEAR SOON AS PIE RECIPE APPEARS

Taylorville, Ill., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—Singing songs of mulligan and starling pot pie, midland Italians may have the answer to the oncoming scourge of the bird with the yellow bill and purple coat which sings like a canary, whistles like a quail, but destroys song birds and orchards and grape arbors.

Already a serious menace in Michigan, Pennsylvania, and Ohio, starlings are beginning to darken Illinois skies. Crow clubs are turning to starling hunts. Four hundred starlings were slain in John Hills' silo north of here last week.

Cy Jones, local plumber, attests the savoriness of starling pot pie. Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Biagoli can give the midland Italian recipe for a dish fit for a king.

Make a deep crust, put in a bit of onion, cabbage, tomato, green peas, salt park, anything edible that comes to hand, add your starling and bake.

TELLS DOCTORS THEY'VE FAILED ON MENTAL ILLS

Dean of Duke U. Advises Psychiatric Studies.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

The medical profession was taken to task yesterday for several matters, including allegedly unnecessary operations for appendicitis, by a nonmedical man, Justin Miller, dean of Duke university school of law, Durham, N. C. Dean Miller expressed his views in an address to the thirteenth congress on medical education sponsored by the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical association. His criticism brought a warm reply from Dr. Dean Lewis of Baltimore, president of the A. M. A.

Dean Miller spoke on "The Philosophy of Professional Licensure," and his charges concerning appendectomies were prefaced by a criticism of the attitude of physicians toward psychiatry and psychology.

Resist Psychology Tests.

"One of the greatest trials of the medical profession is due to the encroachment of miracle working religionists and psychic and psychological charlatans," the law dean declared.

"And yet, although it is generally known that many medical cases are mental rather than purely physical in character; although we are authoritatively told that over 50 per cent of hospital beds in the country are devoted to mental and nervous cases, still we find in some medical schools and among many physicians a strange resistance to the experimental work of psychology and a stupid unwillingness to develop the field of psychiatry.

"While the profession of medicine cannot be required to perform miracles or solve mysteries of mental science it can be, and is, expected to devote a reasonable attention to the field. Failure to do so is unfair to the public and the profession.

Fakers and Physicians.

"If it be true, as it has been stated to me, that from 40 to 60 per cent of all operations for appendicitis are unnecessary and that a considerable portion could be avoided by proper psychiatric diagnosis, then the public has only a little more to fear from fakers than from physicians."

For the medical profession to assume responsibility for great public problems instills confidence in the public, Dean Miller continued.

"The success of the medical profession in eliminating great plagues, such as yellow fever and smallpox, has done more to dramatize the integrity and usefulness of the profession than all the engaging bedside manner of the ages.

"The failure of the profession to reduce the maternal mortality rate, recently revealed by the report of the New York Academy of Medicine, will be charged seriously against it, constituting as it does gross negligence in the handling of a problem of large magnitude which can be solved only by the members of the profession."

Urges Culture Courses.

Urging, as Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Leland Stanford university, had done in the opening address of the congress, more emphasis on cultural courses for medical students, Dean Miller quoted from the Journal of the Association of American Medical Colleges [April, 1931], as follows:

"Our students are the most uninteresting of men. They are ignorant of either art or literature. They only read sporting papers and cheap magazines. They do not even know their own language, nor can they spell. They are in fact semi-illiterate."

Alluding to the quotation, he continued: "If it is upon such men as these that we are to depend to interpret our professions to the public and to plan intellectual development, God help us."

More emphasis on cultural education for the physician also was advocated by Robert G. Sproul, president of the University of California, who declared:

"Too many doctors today are little more than plumbers. From earliest times the physician has been honored by society, usually because he was a person of broad learning and high ethical standards. He cannot continue to hold his place divested of the very attributes that placed him there."

Lewis Replies to Critics.

Dr. Lewis, president of the American Medical association, who followed Dr. Sproul on the program, departed from his prepared address to take a jibe at lay critics who advocated more culture for doctors and to answer Dean Miller's appendicitis attack.

In his prepared speech he pointed out that the depression had done much to restore some of the old order and convince many persons that they could be treated satisfactorily in their own homes by their family physicians.

After completing his paper the doctor smiled quizzically and said he was interested to hear of Dean Miller's discovery that half the appendicitis operations performed were unnecessary.

"I'm wondering," he said, "whether he was told that by the chief psychiatrist in one of those institutions for mental cases he speaks of, or by one of the inmates."

The assembled physicians roared with laughter.

"Now something was said here about introducing the humanities into medical schools," Dr. Lewis continued. "I thought that function belonged to colleges and universities. I'll tell you what I think now. It's that education and discipline have been divorced, and that's not the fault of the medical men. When they're united again, we'll have character in our students. That's what is needed."

On University Clinics.

Opposite views of university clinics were taken in the afternoon by Dr. Henry Houghton, director, University of Chicago clinics, and Dr. Nathan B. Van Etten, New York, vice speaker, American Medical association house of delegates.

Dr. Houghton said that university clinics were criticized for allegedly "making a great deal of money," and said in reply that the in-patient and out-patient services at the University of Chicago clinics had an annual operating deficit in excess of $200,000.

As for another familiar criticism, that they competed with local private physicians, he declared they afforded less competition than if the doctors in the clinics were practicing in the community at large.

Dr. Van Etten declared, on the other hand, that "competitive practice of medicine by an incorporated medical school or clinic is the corporate practice of medicine, and is distinctly unprofessional."

He criticized doctors who charged big fees. He declared that "a thousand dollar obstetrical fee may be right for a millionaire, but if asked of a struggling young man who wants his wife to have an obstetrician of repute the report of this familiar story reflects seriously upon the reputed altruism of the profession."

Socialized Medicine Growing.

At a dinner meeting of the Federation of State Medical Boards of the United States held in connection with the congress in the Palmer house last night Walter A. Jessup, retiring president of the University of Iowa and new head of the Carnegie Foundation, spoke on the relation of education to licensure.

"In these days of curtailing powers and increasing restrictions it is foolish to close our eyes to the growth of socialized medicine," he said. "In the light of this it is imperative that the medical profession hold at least the flower of its achievement. Meanwhile it should educate the public in the difference between the best the profession has to offer and the mediocre."

Speaking at a night meeting of the American Conference on Hospital Service held in the Palmer house Dr. Lewis deplored the recent trends toward the mechanization of medicine and the introduction of business methods in the profession. Brain power and integrity cannot be displayed in a signboard or flashed forth in pamphlets, and "a little touch of humbug is effective in dealing with the public, but not necessary," he declared.

TOUHY TRIAL ON TODAY WITHOUT BASIL BANGHART

First Must Face Charge of Robbing Mail.

Basil Banghart, member of the notorious Touhy gang, who was captured Sunday in Baltimore, will not be brought back to Chicago for trial in the John Factor kidnaping case until after he has been tried for a $105,000 mail truck robbery at Charlotte, N. C., according to Baltimore dispatches yesterday.

The state's attorney's office here had been hopeful that Banghart would be extradited to Illinois in order that the kidnaping charges against Roger Touhy, Gus Schaefer, and Albert Kator might be strengthened. But the second trial of the three defendants will start this morning without regard to the developments in the Banghart case, Judge Michael Feinberg announced. The first trial ended ten days ago in a jury disagreement.

Loot Is Identified.

Banghart was indicted at the same time as the other three defendants. He will be tried separately if he is finally brought back to Illinois, the state announced. He has been positively identified as one of the two men who tried to collect a second ransom from Factor and escaped after accepting a decoy package containing $500.

The decision to try Banghart first for the North Carolina mail robbery came after postoffice inspectors had identified $12,495 in $5 bills found in his apartment, as part of the loot taken in that robbery. The postal authorities immediately demanded that Banghart and three others taken with him be held for trial in North Carolina. Banghart had already been indicted in the case after his fingerprints had been found on a beer bottle in a Charlotte apartment which he had occupied under an assumed name.

High Bonds Fixed.

Banghart and three others arrested with him were held last night by Baltimore authorities in large bonds on charges of possessing money taken in the mail robbery, possession of machine guns and revolvers, and possession of a stolen automobile. Bail of $60,000 was set for Banghart, Isaac Costner, and Mrs. Mae Davis, who posed as Banghart's wife, and Mrs. Jessie Touhy was held in $32,000 bail. The action was taken by State's Attorney H. R. O'Connor of Baltimore. Federal warrants were drawn charging Costner and the two women with participation in the mail robbery.

Costner is said to be another member of the Touhy gang wanted here in connection with the Factor kidnaping and Mrs. Touhy is reported to be the wife of Thomas Touhy, brother of Roger. One theory advanced yesterday was that she had gone east to appeal to Banghart for money for a defense fund in the kidnaping trial.

Confesses Mail Robbery.

Banghart, according to Baltimore officials, confessed to the mail robbery but denied any connection with the Touhy gang or the Factor kidnaping.

Charles [Ice Wagon] Connors, another member of the Touhy gang indicted for Factor kidnaping, and Ludwig Schmidt were sought by Baltimore police, who were informed that both had recently visited the Banghart apartment. Connors and Schmidt are also wanted in connection with the Charlotte mail robbery.

In his reported confession to the $105,000 mail robbery, Banghart was said by police to have declared that his share of the proceeds had been $30,000 but that he had spent all but the $12,495 found in his apartment.

Warrants charging the interstate transportation of a stolen automobile and charging Banghart and Costner with violation of the Mann act for taking the two women over state lines were also authorized.

Seek to Delay Trial.

Although the reports from Baltimore indicated that Illinois will have to wait for Banghart until after North Carolina has tried him, there is a possibility, First Assistant State's Attorney Crowley said, that Factor and other witnesses may be sent to Baltimore to identify Banghart and Costner. The latter is believed to have been the member of the kidnaping gang who, Factor testified, was "good to him." Costner might be induced to be a state's witness, Crowley believed.

Although Judge Feinberg was emphatic in his assertion that selection of a jury to try Touhy, Schaefer and Kator will start this morning, Attorney William Scott Stewart asserted he will use every legal means to delay the start of the trial and to have himself dismissed as attorney for the defense.

"I have told the court that I don't want to represent these men at a second trial and I mean it," said Stewart, who has represented the Touhys since they were captured last July. He piloted them to an acquittal in the Hamm kidnaping case at St. Paul and through the recent trial which ended in a deadlock of the jury, 8 to 4, for conviction.

Fees Reported Lacking.

"I will ask for a change of venue and I will present every other legal motion I know of in order to avoid serving as an attorney in the case any longer," Stewart continued. He refused to explain his reasons for his anxiety to leave the case but it was reported that the failure of his clients to pay legal fees for his services was responsible.

Prosecutor Crowley said every effort will be made to speed the selection of a jury. Two weeks were spent selecting a jury in the first trial. The admitted perjury of two jurors during examination by the attorney's resulted in a jail sentence of six months for one and a reprimand for the other.

State's Attorney Courtney returned from a trip to Washington, D. C., where he said he had been assured by Attorney General Homer Cummings that Factor would not be ordered back to England to stand trial for fraud until after all the defendants in his kidnaping case have been tried.

State Ready This Time.

The second trial of the Touhy gangsters will find the state prepared in advance for the unexpected defense offered by Attorney Stewart at the first trial. One of the features of the first hearing was the mystery concerning the kind of defense to be offered. A heated argument is expected to develop over the admissibility of the evidence of Father Joseph Weber, Catholic priest of Indianapolis, who testified that Roger Touhy denied to him that he had kidnaped Factor. The priest's testimony split the jury, it was reported, and lawyers have differed since then concerning the legality of Father Weber's evidence.

At the first hearing, Stewart asserted he would prove that the indictment and prosecution of the Touhys was a plot engineered by the Capone syndicate which was jealous of the Touhy gang's influence in the northwest part of the county. He also indicated that Touhy would take the stand in his defense. Actually, however, he offered the brief testimony of only five witnesses and none of his assertions concerning the Capone syndicate were supported by evidence. None of the three defendants took the stand.

Once Powerful Touhy Gang Broken

The capture of Basil Banghart and Isaac Costner in Baltimore Sunday was regarded by police here yesterday as the finishing blow to the once powerful gang which controled all Cook county north of Irving Park boulevard.

Not one of the six Touhy brothers who gave the gang its name are now in action, a survey revealed. Other members of the gang are fugitives from justice, missing, or dead.

Jimmie Touhy was killed in 1917 and Johnny Touhy was slain ten years later. In 1929 a third brother, Joseph, fell a victim of bullets in gang war fare. Of the remaining three, Tommy Touhy is reported to be dying, a victim of an incurable disease; Eddie Touhy has been missing for several years. Roger, leader of the gang, has been locked up since July, 1933, and goes on trial again today with Gus Schaefer and Albert Kator for the Factor kidnaping.

Willie Sharkey was known as one of the most merciless members of the gang and, known as an expert with a machine gun. He hanged himself a few weeks ago in a St. Paul cell after he, Roger Touhy, and two others had been acquitted of the kidnaping of William Hamm Jr., St. Paul brewer.

Jimmy Tribbles and Porky Dillon were other Touhy henchmen who have been fugitives from justice since the Factor kidnaping.

Edward [Father Tom] McFadden, former business agent, was a co-defendant with Touhy, Schaefer, and Kator at the first Factor trial, but the charges against him were nol-prossed by the state. He was arrested immediately on a Wisconsin charge of carrying concealed weapons.

Children, Hunting Skates in Closet, Start $50 Fire

While lighting matches to look for their roller skates in a clothes closet yesterday four young children of Mrs. Josephine Farnham, 634 East 75th street, a widow, set fire to a dress hanging there. Mrs. Farnham, who was baking in the kitchen, smelled the smoke and summoned firemen, who extinguished the blaze, which caused $50 damage.

GUARD BOAT CUTS WAY THROUGH ICE TO CREW ON CRIB

The United States coast guard cutter Escanaba arrived here yesterday after a two day battle with heavy ice floes encountered on the trip from its home port at Grand Haven, Mich., and cut a path through the thick ice from the Chicago harbor to the outer water crib three miles off Chicago avenue where crib tenders have been marooned for more than a week. The 165 foot patrol vessel was summoned here when tug boats were unable to cut their way out to the crib with supplies and a relief crew.

Capt. Louis Perkins, who is in charge of a crew of 80 men, said that despite his vessel's great power it had a difficult time getting here. The most stubborn ice floes were encountered about twelve miles off Evanston, when the boat could make only about two ship lengths an hour. It took five hours for the Escanaba to reach the Chicago harbor from Evanston.

The coast guard ship was followed by three tugs when it plowed out to the crib. Two garbage scows were towed out by the fleet and their loads dumped in the lake. On its way here the Escanaba stopped at Port Washington and Sheboygan to open paths from the harbors to open water so fishermen could attend their nets.

JAIL WILL KEEP JOHN DILLINGER IN CROWN POINT

John Dillinger, notorious outlaw, will be kept in the county jail at Crown Point, Ind., instead of the Indiana state prison at Michigan City, pending his trial for murder, which is to begin March 12. He is accused of killing Policeman Patrick O'Malley during a bank robbery in East Chicago.

Decision to keep Dillinger in the county jail was reached at a conference yesterday between Sheriff Lillian Holley, Prosecutor Robert G. Estill, and Judge William J. Murray. It was a victory for the woman sheriff.

Against suggestions that Dillinger would be safer from rescue if he were confined in the state penitentiary, Sheriff Holley replied that the county jail has been converted into an armed camp, and that the jail was consequently better for his detention than the prison.

ENDS LIFE BY SHOOTING.

Joseph Hoppe, 74 years old, 4418 South La Salle street, committed suicide yesterday by shooting himself in the temple with a revolver while in the bedrom of his home. He had been in ill health.

PLEAD TODAY FOR BILL TO RESCUE CHICAGO SCHOOLS

has set up headquarters in Washington and has started to amass data for the campaign.

ASK LEGISLATORS' AID

Several thousand school teachers called at the homes of 16 state senators living in Chicago yesterday to ask their support of bills to help teachers obtain their back salaries. The bills will be introduced at the third special session of the legislature which opens in Springfield today. They are sponsored by Mayor Kelly and the board of education.

The teachers assembled in groups of from 200 to 500 and each group was assigned to call on one senator. Their pleas were presented by spokesmen in the form of petitions which were received favorably in nearly every instance. Most of the senators promised to do everything they could to help the teachers, but refrained from making specific pledges until seeing the proposed measures. Only three assemblymen were absent from home when the teachers called.

Demonstrations Are Peaceful.

The peaceful demonstrations were directed by John Fewkes, teacher at Tilden Technical High school, and by the Teachers' Volunteer Emergency committee. Fewkes and his fellow leaders established headquarters at the Auditorium hotel where they received reports from the 16 groups.

The legislative program includes the sale of $40,000,000 school bonds to the Reconstruction Finance corporation. To make the bonds more marketable, the legislature is asked to pass a bill permitting the board of education to pledge its realty not in use for school purposes as security for the bonds. Richard S. Folsom, attorney for the board, is in Washington to negotiate for the sale of the bonds.

Other proposals to come before the legislature include provision for the transfer of part of the school tax rate from the building to the educational fund and the right to take up tax warrants with bonds.

Woods Demands Economy.

Senator Roy C. Woods [5th] received the teachers in the apartment building in which he lives at 5100 Cornell avenue. He pledged his support to legislation designed to aid teachers, policemen, and firemen, but warned that the only permanent solution must come through cuts in the cost of government and elimination of political graft.

Mr. Fewkes announced yesterday that the leaders of the volunteer committee would meet tomorrow in the Medical and Dental Arts building to map further plans. President McCahey of the school board issued a warning to the teachers yesterday against demonstrations "unbecoming the teaching profession."

DECLARES KIDNAPERS CONCEALED BREMER ON A FARM IN IOWA

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Edward G. Bremer, kidnaped St. Paul banker, was held prisoner on a farm nine miles southwest of Creston, Ia., Park Findley, chief of the Iowa state bureau of criminal investigation, said tonight.

Findley said positive information had been given him that Bremer was in the farmhouse almost all of three weeks he was imprisoned.

"I can't violate the confidence of these sources," the bureau chief was quoted as saying, "and naturally there are some things that cannot be told while the investigation is continuing."

Findley has recommended to Chicago agents of the department of justice that Bremer be taken into southwestern Iowa to identify the farmhouse.

PARK EMPLOYES ACCEPTING BONDS FOR BACK SALARY

West park employes were reported yesterday to be accepting refunding bonds in payment of salaries due almost 2 years, despite advice in certain quarters, against their accepting the bonds. The present park board, headed by President Harry Joseph, with Controler Edward N. Heinz, worked out the plan to pay wages earned under a former administration, and the bonds are all that is available for this purpose, they said.

Attorney Michael F. Ryan, representing many civil service employés, said the bonds are selling at 60 cents on the dollar and that this condition equals a 40 per cent reduction in the back pay. Employés already have received salary reductions of 20 to 50 per cent, he pointed out. Ryan said the collection of delinquent taxes should enable payment of back salaries in cash.

Controler Heinz stated that the board is doing its utmost to meet the obligations incurred by the previous board and that, whereas defaulted bonds are quoted at 75 bid, the new bonds should sell for as much or more. A practice of enabling employés to buy and sell certificates in amounts of less than $100, so that the certificates could be exchanged for $100 bonds the lowest amount in which they may be issued—was discontinued Saturday, he said, because of complaints that the employés were getting only 60 cents on the dollar. The amount of back pay owed is $2,400,000, according to the controler.

DUNHAM SEEKS U. S. RELIEF AID FOR STUDENTS

Robert J. Dunham, chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, yesterday forwarded to Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief director, the applications of seven Illinois colleges and universities for federal funds to provide part time financial assistance for their students.

The institutions which applied, and the amount of their applications, were Loyola university, $1,515; University of Chicago, $6,300; Central Y. M. C. A. college, $1,515; University of Illinois, $14,850; Northwestern university, $7,335; Armour institute, $1,245; Monmouth college, $630.

Copies of the applications were also sent to Francis G. Blair, state superintendent of public instruction.

1,000 RELIGIOUS LEADERS BEGIN 10 DAY SESSION

Nearly 1,000 leaders in religious education assembled yesterday for the annual meeting of the International Council of Religious Education at the Stevens hotel. Sessions, including the biennial convention of the council, will continue for ten days.

At one of yesterday's sessions Dr. Hugh S. Magill, executive secretary of the council, declared the New Deal has its roots in religion and that a new task of the religious educator is "to find folks motivated by a high regard for service to their fellow men."

Dr. Magill pointed to indications that men still do not realize that public service must be honest, and mentioned President Roosevelt's fight for probity in the Civil Works administration.

"You can turn things over to the state," he said, "but if the men at the head of this collective life are not honest, conditions will not be better."

Dr. Magill said a new trend in religious education is the new union between secular educational agencies and religious education. He urged that religious agencies aid the character building programs of secular schools.

His Hair Roots are NOT Dead

Hair roots are a part of the human body and do not "die" as long as the body itself lives. They become inactive when (1) they are attacked by some local scalp disorder (such as dandruff) or (2) when they have not received sufficient nourishment. Hair roots are alive, even in a bald scalp and are ready to respond to proper stimulative treatment.

Seventeen years ago Paul A. Thomas discovered the proper method of stimulating the dormant sources of hair growth. His method has been improved each year and today is as near perfect as any scalp treatment can be. First, Thomas treatment overcomes all local scalp infections, stops scalp itch and abnormal hair fall. It then stimulates the tiny glands in the scalp which nourish the hair. Thus, "sleeping hair" obtains sufficient strength to grow again and become visible on the scalp.

Come in today and learn how Thomas can help you to have a good, healthy head of hair. Thomas never makes a charge for consultation or complete scalp examination. All service is rendered in private.

the abc of pipe tobacco

The best tobacco for pipes comes from Kentucky . . and it's called "White Burley"

WE use White Burley in making Granger Rough Cut. It comes from the Blue Grass region of Kentucky—ripe, mild leaf tobacco that just about tops them all for fragrance and flavor.

From the right place on the stalk we select the kind that's best for pipes. Then we make it into Granger by Wellman's Method and cut it up into big shaggy flakes.

White Burley tobacco—made the way old man Wellman taught us how to make it—that's Granger.

G. O. P. LEADERS SOUND CALL TO GUARD FREEDOM

Speakers Rally to Defense of U. S. Constitution.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Republicans high in present and past councils of the party commemorated the birth anniversary of its party's first leader tonight by sounding cries for their partisan colleagues to rally to a defense of the constitution and to beat down what they called a threat to individual freedom.

From Arthur M. Hyde, the Hoover secretary of agriculture; James M. Beck, a former solicitor general of the United States, now representative from Pennsylvania; Everett Sanders, chairman of the Republican national committee; Henry P. Fletcher, former ambassador to Italy, and numerous others came speeches exhorting partisans to rallies in honor of Abraham Lincoln to look ahead to the future and do battle with the Democrats.

Rule by Dictation.

Ex-Gov. Hyde, speaking before the National Republican club in New York, pointed to the developments of the last eleven months and said:

"The President has the power to make his administration a complete dictatorship." He added, however, "It cannot be said that he proposes a dictatorship."

Hyde said such epithets as "tory," "chiseler," and "dead cats" filled the air when criticism was offered.

"Washington has become not alone the capital, but the city hall of the nation," he said.

Mr. Hyde pictured the house of representatives as "gagged" and the senate as "cowed." The "bewildered" business man, he said, "has surrendered his right to conduct his own business."

"Harried" bankers do not dare refuse to sell the government a part of their capital stock, he continued, while the farmer "is in process of trading his birthright of freedom and independence for a mess of pottage."

Baited by Relief Funds.

"The states, baited thereto by relief funds, have surrendered their independence," said Mr. Hyde. "There has been an enormous increase in burocracy, feeding now upon emergency funds planned for the needy.

"The dollar, after floating for months off the gold standard, has been 41 per cent debased. It is true that violent inflation has not yet taken place, but the stratosphere balloon is in position, and only one man is clinging to the ropes which hold it to earth.

"That there are good features in some of the measures enacted will not be denied," Mr. Hyde continued. "That the new deal was planned in all good faith will be accepted. But I do deny that any good has been accomplished which could not have been accomplished within the limits of the constitution, in harmony with American institutions, and with the full knowledge and approval of a majority of the American people."

Mr. Beck's Criticisms.

Representative Beck, also speaking at the National Republican club meeting in New York, charged that if the New Deal becomes permanent our government "will differ in degree, but not in kind, from the governments that now regulate the industrial life of the individual in Italy, Germany, and Russia."

"We Americans may prefer to give a further trial to these policies," he asserted, "but whether they are successful or unsuccessful, the American people will at no distant day be confronted with the fact whether we wish to substitute for the ordered freedom of the constitution the vague political philosophy of the brain trust."

The Republican party, Beck said, will support President Roosevelt's "wise" policies without respect to politics, and it should also support those which are "reasonably debatable."

Even if Unpopular.

But policies which "have compromised the honor of the nation" or are "destructive of the form of government under which this nation has grown great" will be opposed, he said, even though opposition is either suppressed or unpopular.

One feature of the new deal attacked by Beck was what he called "a conscious and deliberate redistribution of prosperity by milking the industrial states for the benefit of the agricultural states." The states of New York, Pennsylvania, and Illinois, he said, will have to pay more than half the ten billion dollars being spent by the administration this year, and will receive a "disproportionately small benefit" from the expenditures.

G. O. P. Worth Fighting For.

Mr. Fletcher, addressing the Western Maryland Republican dinner at Hagerstown, said the principles of the Republican party were worth fighting for and "this is no time to quit."

He said that under the new administration bank clearings had declined from 256 billions in 1932 to 241 billions in 1933; new capital investments had declined from 643 millions to 381 millions in the same period; "freight loadings did show a tiny increase from 26.1 millions in 1932 to 26.9 millions in 1933," but still were below 1931; and new building construction dropped from 1,351 millions to 1,255 millions.

Mr. Fletcher pointed out that Canada, which had refused to accept an NRA principle, was on the upgrade economically.

"Never in our memory has there been a greater need for the fearless reaffirmation by our party of the ideals and faith and hard common sense of that great American whom we have met to honor tonight," he said.

Everett Sanders Talks.

Everett Sanders spoke at Gettysburg and confined most of his speech to a recital of the virtues of Lincoln. In the end, however, he added:

"There is the same need upon the part of every citizen today to exhibit the high and unselfish devotion to duty that Lincoln exhibited. There is the same need among public men of the possession of the courage of their convictions as well as the courage to express their convictions of the consequences on their personal political fortunes."

Stone Crusher Wrecks Factory

LINCOLN DESCRIBED AS NOTABLE PRODUCT OF HIS ENVIRONMENT

Fort Wayne, Ind., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—"Lincoln was the product of his environment," Dr. William A. Evans, health director of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE declared here tonight at a Lincoln's birthday meeting of the Allen County Fort Wayne Historical society at which he was the principal speaker. He stressed the vision, preservance and clear headedness of the great President.

Earlier in the day Dr. Evans addressed Boy Scouts from Fort Wayne and nearby communities.

Flames Peril Thirty

Two young women and a youth were injured, a fireman was cut by flying fragments of glass, and 30 other persons were endangered yesterday afternoon when fire swept through an old remodeled brick building at 15544 Park avenue in Harvey. Six occupants of the building were carried down ladders by the firemen and two firemen were overcome by smoke, but returned to duty.

Mrs. Margaret Wise, 29 years old, was the most seriously injured. She incurred severe burns when she groped her way down the burning staircase from the third floor to the second floor, where she was rescued by firemen. Miss Sylvia Radius, 17 years old, fractured both her wrists when she leaped from the second floor window. Joseph Pelt, 17 years old, received cuts and burns in fighting his way through the flames. Floyd Hough, a fireman, received cuts on both hands. All were taken to the Ingalls Memorial hospital.

Damage to the building was estimated at $25,000. All of the contents were destroyed.

The fire started in the basement, presumably near the steam heating boiler, and spread with unusual rapidity throughout the building.

Incidental to the fire, considerable damage was done to the building of the Austin Western Manufacturing company, which is across the Illinois Central railroad tracks.

A switch engine was pushing a flat car carrying a stone crushing machine through the large doorway. According to witnesses, the engineer was watching the fire and did not notice that the engine was too high to pass under the arch until it struck, tearing down a portion of the wall.

PRINCESS ALICE ENJOYS FITTING 50TH BIRTHDAY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Alice Roosevelt Longworth's 50th birth anniversary today began with tapping of her typewriter. Then she spent some time with her daughter Paulina, who'll be having a birthday party of her own on Wednesday, Valentine's day.

Friends called to congratulate and Mrs. Longworth was invited to the White House for a musical.

The official White House social season closed last week, but one last dinner party for seventy-five, with added guests afterward, was scheduled tonight.

URGE INTENSIVE HUNT FOR KILLERS OF BANK GUARD

A coroner's jury yesterday urged an intensive search by police for the three bandits who shot and fatally wounded Peter De Young, a watchman in the South Holland Trust and Savings bank, in the village of South Holland, shortly before the bank was opened Saturday. The jury returned a verdict of murder by persons unknown.

According to testimony of Sergts. Fred Mulhausen and Edward Foley of the county highway police, De Young told them he had been shot because the robbers apparently believed he had set off a burglar alarm. The men were hiding in the bank when De Young arrived, and shot him down without warning. They then fled without loot.

Louis De Vries, garage owner of South Holland, told the jury how the bandits had attempted to rob him of a car after they left the bank. He said he would be able to identify them. Police will have De Vries view photographs of robbers at the detective bureau later.

THOUSANDS JOIN IN LINCOLN BIRTH DATE TRIBUTES

Memorial Services, Relic Exhibits Draw Throngs.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Chicago celebrated the 125th anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln yesterday. Flags decked the downtown streets and were flown from loop buildings and commemorative services were held in widely separated sections of the city in tribute to the memory of the Great Emancipator.

Club organizations and Boy Scouts, Sea Scouts, and Legion organizations participated in far flung ceremonies and sidewalks of loop streets were crowded with holiday crowds enjoying the springlike weather. Many among them paused to attend the various Lincoln services or visit the museums exhibiting Lincoln relics.

24,000 at Historical Exhibits.

Two of the most significant events of the day's program were the exhibition of relics associated with Lincoln's life at the Chicago Historical society and the memorial services conducted by veterans of the civil war, who met in the memorial hall of the Chicago public library. Approximately 24,000 persons had visited the historical society's exhibits before closing time, society officials estimated.

At 9 a. m. at least 5,000 persons were awaiting the opening of the Historical society building in Lincoln park. The interest in the program was widespread. The feature was D. W. Griffith's picture, "Lincoln."

An incident to the trooping of thousands through the historical society's building was the discovery that some articles had been taken from the walls and that showcases had been broken open during the day. Lincoln park police were called to restore order.

Officials reported that nothing of value had been taken. The glass cases in the lower halls were broken, it was explained, chiefly by the unusually large crowds pressing against them. A number of maps in the maproom were torn from their hinges.

Eighteen Veterans Attend.

Only 18 civil war veterans attended the Lincoln program in Memorial hall. Most of them sat in two rows directly facing the rostrum overhung with American flags and a portrait of Lincoln.

George Mason, 94 years old, the eldest of the assembly, and president of G. A. R. Hall and Memorial association, welcomed the veterans, saying with the dignity of his years and his office:

"We have come here to honor our commander in chief, the greatest President we have ever had."

But no moment on the entire program was more thrilling to the old soldiers than when Charles W. Beam, chaplain of George H. Thomas post, stepped firmly across the stage, a medal dancing on his blue uniform, and began to recite in a strong, clear voice Lincoln's Gettysburg address. As the last sentences died away: "That this government, by the people, of the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth," the assembly, composed also of affiliated patriotic organizations, burst into thundering applause.

The old soldiers were enthusiastic over the old songs, too.

The principal speaker was the Rev. R. A. White of the People's Liberal church.

Other Observances.

Among other meetings was the one at the Chicago Woman's club where foreign consuls, and religious and educational leaders were the principal speakers. Dr. Albert W. Palmer of the Chicago Theological seminary was the principal speaker. Another meeting was that of the Gen. Henry Dearborn chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, held at the Congress hotel. The Rev. Paul Austin Wolfe, of Evanston, was the speaker.

Chicago Boy Scouts and Sea Scouts placed a wreath at the foot of the Lincoln monument in Lincoln park. The Chicago Board of Trade post, No. 304, of the American Legion, held a program last night in the Civic Opera house, presenting the American Legion Frolics of 1934.

Many Northwestern university students and faculty members attended a Lincoln's birthday convocation in Thorne hall. The speaker was Judge Andrew A. Bruce of the law school.

Indiana Remembers Lincoln at Grave of Nancy Hanks

Lincoln City, Ind., Feb. 12. — [Special.] — Khaki clad youths from the CCC camp in a state park near by stood with bared heads at the grave of Nancy Hanks Lincoln here today at a brief ceremony commemorating the birth of her son, Abraham Lincoln.

The speaker was J. I. Holcomb, president of the Indiana Lincoln union, which organization, under the leadership of Richard Lieber, Mrs. Anna Studebaker Carlisle, now dead, and Holcomb, sponsored the movement to establish the Indiana memorial to Lincoln and his mother here on these grounds where she died and where he spent the fourteen formative years of his life.

Holcomb placed a wreath on the grave of Nancy Hanks.

Recalls Singular Elopement.

Anderson, Ind., Feb. 12.—[Special.] —"Every year Mr. Lincoln's birthday brings back our elopement clearer than ever," Mrs. Elizabeth Chandler of Anderson, unofficial White House bride of 1862, said today when recalling her marriage in the presence of Abraham Lincoln and his family after eloping from Virginia with James H. Chandler, who died in Anderson thirty-six years ago.

When she and Mr. Chandler called at the White House, President Lincoln at once sensed their bewilderment, had them ushered in, heard their story of romance, sent for a Baptist minister, witnessed the wedding and had refreshments served in the dining room.

President Sends Wreath.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Springfield, where Abraham Lincoln lived the 25 years preceding his election to the presidency, the city which is visited annually by thousands who desire to stand in reverence before his tomb, joined in the observance of his 125th birthday anniversary with a multitude of ceremonies.

The President of the United States, following a White House custom of many years' standing, sent a wreath which was placed on the sarcophagus in the beautiful tomb at Oak Ridge cemetery with simple ceremonies.

The tomb was visited by Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, tottering veterans of the civil war, members of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, political leaders, and private citizens.

The Abraham Lincoln association, founded in 1909 on the centennial of Lincoln's birth, heard Prof. Frederick L. Paxson of the University of California declare that the development of Lincoln from a political leader of little more than local repute to national prominence was a miracle which "neither historian nor prophet of that day could have foreseen."

PRESIDENT CARRIES WREATH PRIVATELY TO LINCOLN STATUE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt marked Abraham Lincoln's birthday today with a visit to the Lincoln Memorial, five blocks from the White House.

Calling his car at about 4 p. m., he drove there with Mrs. Roosevelt, Secretary Ickes and a small party of friends.

The President remained in his car while Mrs. Roosevelt, accompanied by Col. Edwin M. Watson, White House military aid, climbed the long flight of steps leading up to the memorial and placed a wreath among many already laid at the feet of the statue.

There were no ceremonies and the President made the trip without even a motorcycle escort. His plan to make it had not been announced.

INJURED AT DRINKING PARTY.

Nels Sundin, 40 years old, was taken to the county hospital with a skull fracture received in an altercation with a room mate during a drinking party in their room at 741 Aldine avenue early yesterday. John Hultgren was arrested as his assailant.

Berwyn Police Searching for Poisoner of 20 Dogs

MR. MacCRACKEN CATCHES HIS COP AND A $100 FINE

He Sleeps in a Swanky Senate Jail.

that MacCracken actually was in custody, which finally saw Jailer Jurney making a hairbreadth escape from Prisoner MacCracken.

The first writ was made returnable this morning and a jammed courtroom and corridors saw the elusive senate sergeant at arms, resplendent in frock coat, with a crimson handkerchief blossoming from his breast pocket, appear in the courtroom to tell how MacCracken had "crashed the door" of his home last Saturday night and demanded to be arrested.

The craning spectators heard Mr. Jurney tell how the senate warrant for MacCracken's arrest had been left in his office, how he had told MacCracken that he could not arrest him.

Strategy Hits a Snag.

The strategy, of course, was this: The senate was not in session. Could MacCracken have succeeded in getting arrested, then a writ of habeas corpus would have brought him into the courts before the senate had a chance to question him.

The sergeant at arms, on the other hand, was acting under instructions not to make an arrest until the senate met again, so that MacCracken could be brought to the senate floor, temporarily safe from court interruption, there to be tried for his alleged contempt in having tampered with his files.

The story to the court went on. The justice had issued the writ late Saturday night on the strength of the "arrest." But yesterday, Jurney went riding with MacCracken and succeeded in leaving him at the curb.

MacCracken told his side of the story; he admitted that Jurney had denied he was under arrest. The justice fixed him with a stony eye. There was no geniality in his manner. He found that there had been no arrest, then he continued:

"The court now calls upon MacCracken to arise and make known why he should not be held in contempt for misrepresentations in obtaining the writ."

MacCracken Loses Smile.

For the first time the genial face of the air mail lawyer lost the smile that said, "Isn't this a swell comedy?" He did his best to explain, but the explanation did not melt the frozen grimness of the justice's face.

Attorney Hogan tried his hand at pleading. As counsel for Edward Doheny in the oil scandal cases, Mr. Hogan had the distinction, unique perhaps, in the annals of the bar, of having been able to persuade a jury that, though former Secretary of the Interior Albert Fall might be guilty of accepting a bribe from Doheny, Doheny was not guilty of giving a bribe to Albert Fall. But this was not a jury to whom Mr. Hogan was appealing.

"The court finds MacCracken guilty of contempt," said the justice, and imposed a fine of $100 or 24 hours in jail.

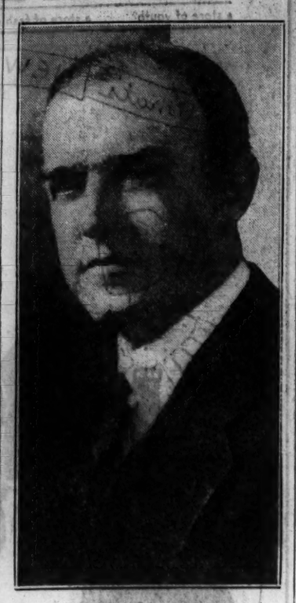
The Scene Shifts.

That was only the first act. At the clerk's office, where the fine was to be paid, Sergent at Arms Jurney was waiting, with him Policeman Brown of the capitol force, noted for being only a couple of inches less than seven feet tall. MacCracken and Hogan sat at the table usually reserved for bashful brides and grooms to fill out their marriage license applications.

In another office Edmund Jones, Hogan's partner, was making out an application for a second writ of habeas corpus. The required hundred dollars in cash arrived from Hogan's office.

With his right hand MacCracken shoved over the roll. At the same moment the sergeant at arms' fist closed over his left wrist and the rotund Jurney's voice read the warrant summoning MacCracken to the senate. But MacCracken's right hand was busy again; he was signing a second petition for a court writ.

Center of Battles



WILLIAM P. MacCRACKEN JR.

Off for the Senate.

Then through dense crowds that almost barred the way Jurney, MacCracken, and the towering capitol policeman made their way to their waiting car and dashed to the senate.

"Jurney's got him," was the word that passed around the senate wing of the capitol.

Senator Robert M. La Follette, Wisconsin radical, wanted to take the floor on a matter of personal privilege, but Democratic Leader Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas slipped over and whispered the tidings in the Wisconsin senator's ear. Senator Hugo L. Black [Dem., Ala.], chairman of the air mail committee, was scurrying busily about in important consultations.

"The sergeant at arms will make his report," intoned Vice President Garner.

Delivers His Prisoner.

Breathless, but elegant as always, Mr. Jurney strode to the rostrum.

"I have this twelfth day of February, 1934, arrested and taken into custody William J. MacCracken Jr. and now bring him to the bar of the senate," proclaimed Mr. Jurney triumphantly.

And then it appeared for a time that Abraham Lincoln, the Emancipator, might serve to save his Republican follower, MacCracken, from custody. For Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, Republican leader, arose to voice a complaint.

Both Republican members of the investigating committee, and 11 Republicans in all, were absent "because of the occasion of which we all know, we having memorialized it ourselves today."

In other words, the Republicans were off making Lincoln's birthday speeches, and Leader McNary didn't want anything drastic done in their absence. But he wouldn't press his objection for the time being, he said, and the proceedings went on.

The MacCracken smile, like the Republican senators, also was absent. With bowed head he sat in the chair placed before him in front of the senate and at the focus of the staring eyes looking down out of packed galleries.

Only when Vice President Garner read the order reciting his alleged offense did he snap up. The heels that clicked together, the arms straight at sides, the outthrust chin, told of the war days he spent winning honors in the army air corps.

"Have you anything to say in extenuation?" demanded the Vice President.

Here was Attorney Hogan's turn. He hadn't been fined $100 for contempt of court; he didn't face the possibility of another punishment for contempt of the senate. He smirked at the galleries, winked at a newspaper friend in the press gallery. And to the formal question from the chair he presented a typewritten answer on behalf of his client.

Reiterates Previous Contentions.

It reiterated, briefly, the contention made in MacCracken's letter to the senate last week, when he refused to appear before it on a citation, and was therefore ordered arrested.

The statement read:

"Being advised and convinced that the proceedings which have resulted in my appearance before your honorable body are alike violative of the constitutional powers of the senate and my constitutional rights as a citizen of this country, I respectfully deny the senate's right or power to try or pass judgment upon me for the matters and things set forth in the citation ordered to be issued by the senate on Feb. 5, and in the void warrant issued to your sergeant at arms on Feb. 9.

"I respectfully refer to my statement of the facts and of the applicable law, as I understand it, contained in my communication to the senate dated Feb. 9, 1934. [Signed]

"WILLIAM P. MACCRACKEN JR."

Chairman Black was anxious to go ahead and get down to finding MacCracken guilty or not guilty. He offered to have the evidence taken by the committee and the committee's report on it put into the record without reading unless Mr. Hogan desired it read.

Senate Hearing Is Halted.

"Having denied the right and power of the senate, we have no request of any kind to make," was Mr. Hogan's complacent answer.

The clerk thereupon began the four or five hours' job of reading before him. But he was to get only half way through. For the petition for a second writ that Mr. MacCracken had signed just as he was being led away from the courthouse had finally been granted by Justice O'Donoghue. Deputy United States Marshals Stephen B. Callahan and John B. Clarkson were cooling their heels outside the senate doors, which they might not enter.

There were more consultations. It was decided to call it a day and let Mr. Jurney be served by the court officers. Once again the trek led back to the courthouse. Jurney and his prisoner went first to the office of United States Attorney Leslie C. Garnett, who would handle the senate's case. The crowd surged to Mr. Garnett's office.

Back to the Courtroom.

Justice O'Donoghue finished the case he was hearing and went to his chambers. The mob dashed from the Garnett office to the justice's chambers and almost pushed the partitions down. Word was flashed that MacCracken was coming; word was flashed that he was going to get out on bond. The justice walked out of his chambers. The procession trailed him. He walked back again. Back rolled the crowd.

"Everybody in the courtroom," shouted a bailiff, and the mob pushed down the stairs. Side by side, MacCracken and Jurney strode down the corridor at the head of their own crowd—one worthy of recent news dispatches from Paris. All it lacked was the "Marseillaise."

If anything, the judicial visage was more granitic than before.

"In producing Mr. MacCracken," said the polished Mr. Garnett, "I desire to advise the court that when the writ reached the senate the senate was in the process of trying Mr. MacCracken for contempt. But the senate did not desire to be discourteous and ordered the sergeant at arms to accept service of the writ."

Mr. Hogan pleaded for time. He had had no lunch, he had a cold, he was about ready to come down with the grippe.

Justice O'Donoghue gazed down coldly and spoke one brief sentence.

"The court is going to dispose of this matter now," he declared. The court glanced at the hands of the clock, which pointed to ten minutes past four.

"Time," pleaded Mr. Hogan. "I haven't my books here."

"The court will give you time," said the court. Mr. Hogan brightened. "We will recess until four thirty," the court concluded.

Lack of his books didn't prevent Mr. Hogan from talking for an hour when the court met again. Finally he got down to the point of his argument.

"This is a question of the power of the senate to impose punishment as punishment," he said.

Argues Question of Jurisdiction.

Here, he argued, was no question of the senate's attempting to exercise a coercive right to force some one to do something; no question of prohibiting some one from doing something. These powers, he admitted, the senate and house must have in order that their legislative authority might not be impeded.

"But in this case the right is asserted," he said, "to take this man into custody and mete out punishment as such on the strength of a past and completed act against the dignity of the senate."

He quoted at length from the Supreme court decision in the case of Marshall vs. Gordon.

If the senate wished to punish, he declared, then it had only one method to pursue, and that was to go into the courts.

By comparison, Mr. Garnett was brief. The only question, he maintained, was of the senate's jurisdiction over the "prisoner," he said first and then corrected it to "petitioner." And he, too, quoted from Marshall vs. Gordon.

The opinion of the late Chief Justice White, he declared, clearly upheld the right of a house of congress to punish for an act, even though past and completed, on the strength of its inherent power of self-protection. He quoted chapter and verse.

"If my friend is not hoist by his own petard," he declared, turning to Mr. Hogan, "then I never saw a man up in the air."

All this time Justice O'Donoghue had sat statuelike. Now, at last, he opened his lips, and, in one sentence, punctured all the oratory. There was no explanation, no discussion of the law.

"The judgment of the court," he said, "is that the petitioner be remanded to the custody of the respondent and that the writ of habeas corpus be discharged."

Refuses Plea for Bail.

Mr. Hogan pleaded for bail.

"The court denies bail," said the justice, then a wintry smile broke through, and he added, "at this time."

"This time is when we wanted it," said Mr. Hogan ruefully as he served notice of an appeal, and said privately he was ready to go to the Supreme court, if necessary.

So once more the two bunkmates, Messrs. MacCracken and Jurney, wandered off to bed.

"We're getting three rooms at the Willard," said Mr. Jurney. "Sure, the senate will pay for them."

"Which one will MacCracken sleep in?" inquired a reporter.

"The last one," said Sergeant at Arms Jurney, and moved off firmly with his prisoner.

"—MY KIND OF TRAVELING TAKES HEALTHY NERVES, TOO"

Earle W. Schoonmaker of Nutley, N. J. travels thousands of miles every year as a commuter. He says:

"I'm quite a traveler, too! And I think I know something of nerve strain. Rushing through breakfast, racing for the 8:04, then facing the same old trip again at the end of a hard day... six times a week, fifty weeks a year. I'm a constant smoker. Morning, noon, and night. My brand? Camels, of course. Because I can enjoy Camels steadily and I never have to worry about jangled nerves. To me Camels are the mildest cigarette. They've got what I call real flavor!"

Thomas Olsen, who sailed a 26-foot boat across 9,000 miles of ocean, says:

"There's one cigarette that I can smoke steadily without getting nervous or 'fed up' with smoking. I mean Camels. They taste mild—never flat—and there is a delicate flavor to Camel's costlier tobaccos that certainly does set Camels apart from other cigarettes."

How Are YOUR Nerves?

Most all of us know jangled nerves by these telltale signs—jumping when doors slam, scolding, worrying, nail-biting, frowning, foot-tapping. No wonder "nerves" are being put forward as one of the great questions of the day affecting men and women in every station of life. If you are the nervous type, check up on your eating, your sleeping, your recreation. And be on the safe side about smoking—take up Camels now.

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS than any other popular brand.

Thousands daily are turning to Camels. And finding a new zest for smoking... an enjoyment that each Camel refreshes and renews.

Enjoy Camels as often as you wish. Your taste will always respond to their finer flavor. And they never get on your nerves.

ROOSEVELT AID REBUKES LINDY AS DISCOURTEOUS

Declares Protest Sent for Publicity's Sake.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—The White House today issued a statement rebuking Col. Charles A. Lindbergh for making public a protest on the administration's air program before the protest had been received and read by the President.

Col. Lindbergh's protest made public in New York last night follows:

"The President, White House, Washington, D. C.:

"Your action of yesterday affects fundamentally the industry to which I have devoted the last twelve years of my life. Therefore I respectfully present to you the following considerations:

"The personal and business lives of American citizens have been built up around the right of just trial before conviction. Your order of cancellation of all air mail contracts condemns the largest portion of our commercial aviation without just trial.

"No Hearing Allowed."

"The officers of a number of the organizations affected have not been given the opportunity of a hearing and improper acts by many companies affected have not been established.

"No one can rightfully object to drastic action being taken provided the guilt implied is first established, but it is the right of any American individual or organization to receive fair trial.

"Your present action does not discriminate between innocence and guilt and places no premium on honest business.

"Americans have set their lives in building in this country the finest commercial air lines in the world. The United States today are in the lead in almost every branch of commercial aviation.

"Superior to Any."

"In America we have commercial aircraft, engines, equipment, and air lines superior to those of any other country. The greatest part of this progress has been brought about through the air mail. Certainly most individuals in the industry believe that this development has been carried on in cooperation with the existing government and according to law.

"If this is not the case, it seems the right of the industry and in keeping with American tradition that facts to the contrary be definitely established. Unless these facts leave no alternative, condemnation of commercial aviation by cancellation of all mail contracts and the use of the army on commercial air lines will unnecessarily and greatly damage all American aviation.

"CHARLES A. LINDBERGH."

Reply Made by Early.

After Col. Lindbergh's protest had been received in the mail today, Stephen Early, secretary to the President, issued this statement:

"Except when the senders of telegrams or other communications act primarily for publicity purposes, the common practice is to allow the President, when he is addressed by them, the courtesy of receiving and reading their communications before they are read by others.

"In this instance the giving out of a telegram which bears the name of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh by his attorney and legal adviser, Col. Henry Breckenridge, would indicate the message obviously was sent for publicity purposes—at least it was published before it was received by the President.

Denies Order by President.

"The President's executive order under date of Feb. 9 was issued after the postmaster general advised the President that 'all domestic air mail contracts for carrying the mails have been annulled.' The postmaster general annulled these contracts. Col. Lindbergh's telegram is in error in that it states the President ordered the cancelation of all air mail contracts.

"Col. Lindbergh's telegram will be referred to the postmaster general and to the secretary of commerce for consideration and action."

Congressman a Critic.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's telegram to President Roosevelt criticizing the cancellation of air mail contracts was described today by Representative F. H. Shoemaker, Farmer-Labor member from Lindbergh's native state of Minnesota, as "bean shooter" tactics.

"I don't know," Shoemaker said, "why this whippersnapper of a kid should take a bean shooter and aggravate the President. If it had been his father it would have been different. But former Congressman Lindbergh's son, who married into the Morgan millions, has deserted every principle his father ever stood for."

Chamberlin Defends President.

New York, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Clarence D. Chamberlin, trans-Atlantic airman and former army pilot, today went to the defense of the President's cancellation of air mail contracts. In a telegram to the White House Chamberlin said:

"Most all individual pilots in this country salute your characteristically firm stand. Your action will in no sense wreck anything. Rather, it will help bring about immediate healthy benefit to everyone in flying. A few growlers with personal axes to grind cannot assume to speak for the thousands of individual airmen.

"Most of us believe that under your inspired leadership the aeronautical industry will at last really begin to develop in America."

U. S. Will Operate Only Half of Air Mail Lines at First

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—Air mail service will be operated at much less than half of its present efficiency when the army takes over deliveries next Monday, it was revealed today.

Postmaster General Farley, in announcing the routes over which service will be continued during the emergency growing out of the cancellation of all private mail contracts, disclosed that service will be available on only 11,106 miles of air lines, compared with the present mileage of 27,079.

Many important air lines will be shut down entirely for the present and others will be curtailed sharply. But Mr. Farley threw out the hope that before long a new air mail facility will be developed of as complete efficiency as the present or better.

May Form U. S. Corporation.

There were hints in the air that President Roosevelt intends to take advantage of the chaotic condition resulting from the cancellation of the private contracts and will set about forming a new government corporation to take over the air lines in their entirety.

Since most private air lines cannot function profitably without air mail business, it was plain that the postoffice department either will have to restore the air mail contracts, in some modified form, or the government will have to fly mail and passengers too.

The problem was under a long discussion at the White House at a conference to which the President summoned Mr. Farley, Attorney General Cummings, Secretary of Commerce Roper, and various assistants of these cabinet officials, including Eugene Vidal, director of aeronautics for the commerce department.

The postmaster general, in announcing the routes which would be ready for service under army direction on Monday, said they were regarded as the most essential in the system, and that Maj. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, chief of the army air corps, had worked out details for manning the routes.

Schedule of Routes.

The following table was prepared showing the routes to be flown, the number of airplanes and pilots assigned, and the speed of the planes:

	Airplanes.	Speed.	Pilots.
New York-Chicago	12	130	25
Chicago-Salt Lake	11	140	25
Salt Lake-San Francisco	10	140	12
Salt Lake-Seattle	5	135	12
Salt Lake-Los Angeles	5	135	12
Cheyenne-Pueblo	2	130	3
New York-St. Louis	7	110	15
St. Louis-Kansas City	2	140	4
New York-Miami	7	110	15
New York-Atlanta	7	110	10
Chicago-Dallas	5	100	10
Cleveland-Fort Worth	8	130	15
Chicago-Jacksonville	8	130	15
Washington-Cleveland	10	130	15

Gen. Foulois estimated the initial assignment of men and equipment would require 200 officers, 324 enlisted men and 122 planes.

Additional Routes Planned.

Mr. Farley announced that soon after service began, perhaps before next Monday in some instances, additional routes would be made ready as follows:

Chicago-St. Paul.
Boston-New York.
Atlanta-New Orleans, via Birmingham.
Fort Worth-Brownsville.
Fort Worth-Houston.
Detroit-Toledo.
Chicago-Memphis.
Portland-San Diego.
Kansas City-Los Angeles, via Wichita, Amarillo, Albuquerque, Phoenix.

Mr. Farley's assistant, Harllee Branch, in charge of air mail, disclosed that the army plans to absorb as many regular air mail pilots into the army service as can possibly be done.

Many Reserve Officers.

Many of the pilots, according to Maj. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, are army reserve officers, and can be taken into service as such. The others, Mr. Branch said, would be hired temporarily as civilian employés of the army.

It was indicated at the postoffice department that some agreement or compromise may be worked out with the regular air mail companies whereby new contracts will be signed, but Mr. Farley refused to discuss this.

However, it was learned that in making the new setup, whatever form its financing might take, the government hopes to end for all time the granting of federal subsides for flying the air mail. The service will be put on a cost plus basis, it was indicated.

SECOND AIR LINE WILL CARRY ON WITHOUT MAILS

American Airways Head Announces Decision.

BY HUGH SEXTON.

Lester D. Seymour, president of American Airways, announced yesterday that all routes of the American Airways system will continue to be operated for passengers and express without any reductions in schedules despite the cancellation of air mail contracts effective next Sunday at midnight.

Mr. Seymour's announcement followed a similar statement made on Saturday by W. A. Patterson, vice president of United Air Lines, that the United system will continue to operate on full schedules after the mail contracts are taken away. These two systems are the largest air lines in the country. Together their planes cover about 60 per cent of the mileage flown by the air mail contracting lines.

Other Lines May Continue.

The lines that fly the other 40 per cent have not indicated what they will do after they lose their mail contracts, but it is thought that some of them may continue operations on a skeleton basis. American Airways has routes 8,587 miles long and flies and average of 29,087 miles daily. United Air Lines has routes 6,299 miles long and flies an average of 38,398 miles daily. Both systems have headquarters in Chicago.

Mr. Seymour said that American Airways will go ahead in its program of replacing present equipment with high speed passenger transport planes. Thirty such planes are under construction for the company at a cost of about 2 million dollars. These planes will be put into service just as rapidly as they are delivered, Mr. Seymour said.

United Air Lines put a fleet of 60 high speed transport planes in service last spring and is adding ten new faster planes this spring.

A Blow to the Industry.

"The loss of the air mail contracts is the hardest blow any young transportation industry has ever had in the history of the movement of men and goods from one point to another," Mr. Seymour said. "Our company, despite the loss of contracts, has unlimited faith in the future of air transportation and feels that any curtailment at this time would be a breach of faith toward the young men and women who have chosen air transportation as their field."

Mr. Seymour said he believed his company's decision to continue operation would meet with the hearty support of the thousands of stockholders in American Airways. The stockholders, he declared, indicated their support of the company in the past while not receiving any dividends and in face of an increasing annual deficit. He said the decision to continue was influenced by a desire to assist so far as is possible the President's recovery plan.

American Airways is controled by E. L. Cord, Chicago airplane and automobile manufacturer, and is a subsidiary of Aviation corporation. United Air Lines is a subsidiary of United Aircraft and Transport corporation.

Army Makes Its Plans.

Army officials at the Sixth corps area headquarters yesterday were informed that Lieut. Col. Horace M. Hickam of the air corps has been ordered to Chicago to take charge of the central zone of the army's plan for carrying the air mail. Other army officers will be in charge of an eastern zone, with headquarters at Newark, N. J., and a western zone, with headquarters at Salt Lake City, Utah.

In preparation for Col. Hickam the air office at Sixth corps headquarters started a survey of all planes available in this zone and all pilots available. Army officers here understood that Col. Hickam left Washington yesterday in an army plane en route to Chicago.

J. J. Doheny, superintendent of the railway mail service, had received no information from the postoffice department at Washington yesterday on what air mail routes will be operated by the army and how many air mail schedules will be consolidated.

FLEES CAR AFTER CRASH, FORGETS ABOUT DAUGHTER

Fred Lange, 808 South California avenue, a mechanic, forgot all about his 4 year old daughter, Eleanor, after he crashed his automobile into a pole at 18th and Paulina streets, early yesterday.

Following the accident, Lange disappeared. Witnesses running up to the wrecked car found Eleanor inside, crying for her father. Police traced the license number to Lange and took the girl home. Lange did not show up for hours and police spent some time looking for him. Finally detectives found him back home.

"After the accident I became excited and I was also dazed," explained Lange last night to Lieut. Edward Collopy of the Marquette station. "I wandered around for a while before I came home, but I forgot about Eleanor."

11 ARMY PLANES FIT FOR USE AT MITCHEL FIELD

New York, Feb. 12. — [Special.] — Mitchel field, New York City's single air defense base, has only thirty-six planes assigned to it and only eleven of these are serviceable in case of war.

The others are either obsolete and fit only for light training purposes or out of commission altogether. This was learned today as preparations were made to equip the planes for carrying mail.

Only two of the eleven available ships at Mitchel field have a speed approaching that of the privately operated planes carrying mail, it was also learned. These are Douglass monoplanes with Curtiss Conqueror motors and can fly 175 miles an hour.

Twelve of the thirty-six planes which the war department records show assigned to Mitchel field are reported to be out of commission permanently, because funds were lacking to recondition them after they had met with accidents.

The others are said to be too slow or not in condition for night or forced flying through heavy weather.

London Salvage Corps Head Gets 4 Years in Fire Fraud

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Feb. 12.—Capt. Brynmor Eric Miles, chief of the London salvage corps, was sentenced to four years' imprisonment today for corruption and for "conspiring to pervert the administration of justice." A jury at Old Bailey found him guilty of accepting bribes from Leopold Harris, fire assessor who recently was sentenced to fourteen years for arson. At the time Harris was convicted the judge asserted insurance companies had been "systematically defrauded" of $2,500,000 annually by fires in which he was involved.

STEEL CHIEFTAIN ASSAILS LABOR BOARD AS UNFAIR

Weir Declares Tribunal Is Prejudiced.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Ernest T. Weir, the steel man, leveled a finger at the National Labor board today and called it an organization "prejudiced, biased and unfair to industry."

Involved in a controversy of his own with the board on collective bargaining, Weir attacked two of its members as financially interested in matters that have come before them.

He named William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers, who sat in the "captive" mine hearings, resulting in union victories.

Defends His Firm's Acts.

The chairman of the Weirton Steel company made his charges in an address before the Catholic conference on industrial problems, in which he defended his company's employé representation plan as fair and without any company interference.

The labor board is taking steps to ascertain whether Weirton employés are satisfied with the system. It has a petition of 4,600 names asking for a new election. Last week Weir refused to turn over the company's pay roll list for use in a poll.

Weir told the conference he does not oppose governmental regulation of collective bargaining if the agency set up is "fair and impartial."

However, he said, "if the national labor board is to be regarded as a court with the right to sit in judgment upon controversies between employers and employés, it should be composed of men possessing the same freedom from influence as federal judges now possess."

Blames Lewis' Advocacy.

When "captive" mine owners were before the board, Weir said, Green presided at the session and Lewis "came down off the bench and argued the case for the United Mine Workers."

"Is not such a picture revolting to the American sense of justice?" Weir asked.

The union check-off was involved, said Weir, and "Mr. Green and Mr. Lewis each had a financial interest in that controversy."

"Is it any wonder industry rebels at such a tribunal?" the steel leader questioned.

Reaffirming his belief in the NRA and asserting he had pledged his support to President Roosevelt, Weir declared he did not intend to be "carried away by slogans, newspaper tirades, or bombast."

Rules Noncode Oil Firms Not Liable to NRA Penalty

Sherman, Tex., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Federal Judge Randolph Bryant ruled today that penalties under the NRA petroleum code could not be applied against oil companies which have not signed the code or which engage only in intrastate commerce.

He expressed the opinion that the President or his agents could exercise no greater authority than might affect interstate commerce and he said he had "the greatest misgivings if not the absolute conviction" that even that phase might be invalid.

The decision was made in the cases of the Panama Refining company and others against A. D. Ryan, an interior department agent, and the Amazon Petroleum company and others against the state railroad commission.

Would Keep Agents Off.

The plaintiffs had contended that federal agents should not be permitted to go on their properties to gauge production to determine whether they were violating the provisions of the code pertaining to a state's maximum oil production.

Before Judge Bryant made his ruling, a three judge court composed of Judges J. C. Hutcheson, T. M. Kennerly, and Bryant held that it had no jurisdiction in the code phases of the suits and announced that it had decided to submit those issues to Judge Bryant. The court held, however, that the Texas railroad commission's oil allowable order for the east Texas field of last November was valid and denied injunctive relief which the plaintiffs sought. Judge Bryant dissented from the three judge court opinion.

Case to Be Appealed.

It was announced at Washington that the government would appeal the case to the United States Supreme court.

"It being made clear from the evidence in this case," Judge Bryant said in his decision, "that the complainants have not subscribed to such [NRA] code and are not engaged in interstate commerce, they are not subject to the pains and penalties provided by the act for violation of such code because they are clearly not engaged in any transaction in or affecting interstate or foreign commerce.

"Entertaining as I do the gravest misgivings, if not the absolute conviction that this provision of the act is invalid by reason of its delegation to the executive of legislative authority, yet conceding it for the purpose of the decision to be valid, it is obvious that the President and his agents in their rules and regulations could exercise no greater authority nor to any greater extent than that which was exercised by congress itself.

"This is limited to the transportation in interstate and foreign commerce of petroleum and the products thereof."

1,800 ON STRIKE AT BED FACTORY; ASK PAY BOOST

Simmons Kenosha Plant Is Closed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kenosha, Wis., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—A strike of 1,800 employés of the Simmons company, manufacturers of bedsteads, springs, and mattresses, closed the plant here today. Men and women pickets surrounded the factory and prevented all employés except executives from entering the premises.

The strike followed the refusal of company officials to grant a wage increase of about 25 per cent which the workers had scaled down from original demands of 65 per cent.

What Manager Declares.

J. C. Novascone, general manager of the company's central division, told officials of the federal labor union of the Simmons company, which is an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor and claims 80 per cent of the factory pay roll in its membership, that the company's business did not warrant any increases in pay.

No official statement purporting to represent the company's stand in the dispute was issued but late tonight Elmer Hanak, general manager of the plant, said operations at the factory will be resumed tomorrow and that all employés who report for work will be given employment.

Meanwhile police made preparations to place guards at the factory gates to prevent disturbances. No serious disorders were reported today although the strikers halted a switch engine from pulling sealed freight cars out of the yards. However, the men permitted the cargo to leave when it was explained the cars contained shipments sealed Saturday.

Disagree on Wage Figures.

The company and union officials were unable to agree in their statements regarding the average wage paid at the plant. John Kuehni, attorney for the union and spokesman for its executive committee, asserted that his figures showed the average wage to be 42½ cents an hour. He said the strikers were demanding an increase to 54 cents before returning to work.

Hanak declared that no one in the factory has been paid less than 40 cents an hour and that the scale ranges to 70 cents, bringing the average to around 52 cents an hour.

The strike here is expected to affect the company's plants in other cities where the federal union is organized. Other factories are located at Elizabeth, N. J., San Francisco, and Atlanta, Ga. An appeal has been sent to workers in these plants to join in a sympathy movement to stop all American operations of the company.

U. S. TO GO AFTER ATTORNEYS WHO SHARE RANSOMS

Keenan Calls on Bar to Aid Fight.

Providence, R. I., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—Joseph B. Keenan, assistant attorney general of the United States in charge of the federal drive against kidnapers and racketeers, declared today the next step contemplated by the government is to "find out who these gangster lawyers are and to what extent they benefit in large fees from the huge ransom payments."

Mr. Keenan spoke here several times today, largely on his present anti-racketeer work. He said the federal government "would have no hesitancy in indicting lawyers who are collecting large fees from ransom money." He called upon bar associations to discipline such "gangster lawyers and to expel them from their honored ranks."

For Firearms Control.

He also advocated enactment of a federal firearm control law to strengthen the government's hands in its battle against the "roving bandits of today who are equipped with all modern contrivances."

With 60 per cent of the nation's list of most notorious public enemies captured during the past seven months the government is well on its way toward eradicating the menace of kidnaping, Mr. Keenan said.

Mr. Keenan feels that "what criminals most fear is a certain, swift and severe punishment." Only by giving ruthless battle to the public enemies and by prompt and vigorous prosecution can the blight of kidnaping and racketeering be removed, he said, and an end put to the régime under which "the criminal is given too much of a break and the public too little of a break."

Alumni of Bootlegging.

He said he was not in favor of and did not consider practicable a law which would make the payment of ransom a felony, but did favor prosecution of the families of abducted persons who failed to disclose all facts and cooperate with the investigating authorities after the victims had been freed by the kidnapers.

"A good deal of the kidnaping element comes from those who have been engaged in bootlegging activities," Mr. Keenan asserted. He cited undue delays in prosecution and too much laxity in letting dangerous criminals go free on bail as major causes of crime.

In the Touhy case, Mr. Keenan said the government presented strong evidence but it was insistent that the defendant be given the constitutional benefit of a reasonable doubt.

NATION TO DRINK 440,000,000 GALS. OF BEER IN YEAR

The American public will drink 440,000,000 gallons of beer during the current year, it was estimated yesterday by Frank P. Van de Westelaken, president of the Master Brewers' Association of America.

Mr. Van de Westelaken met at the Germania club with the fifteen directors of the association, whose membership is composed of leading brewmasters of the country. The meeting was for the purpose of adopting a constitution and bylaws and arranging for the annual convention to be held in October in New York.

In his discussion before the directors Mr. Van de Westelaken added that the inflation has helped brewers and increased employment in breweries through its stimulus on beer sales.

LAMONT DENIES MORGAN FIGHTS ADMINISTRATION

Avers Banking House Supports Roosevelt.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Thomas W. Lamont, in a letter read to the senate today, said J. P. Morgan & Co., of which he is a member, has "cordially supported" the Democratic administration. He lauded President Roosevelt's "withdrawal" from the gold standard.

The letter was written to Senator La Follette of Wisconsin to deny the senator's charge that the Morgan firm and allied interests were "seeking to destroy this administration" and "seeking to prevent ratification" of the St. Lawrence treaty.

La Follette read the Lamont letter to the senate, together with his reply, in which he reiterated his charge that the house of Morgan was opposing the treaty.

"Without Foundation."

Lamont said both La Follette's statements were "absolutely without foundation."

"In more detail," he added, "we should like to point out that not only have we not opposed the present administration at Washington but from the very start have cordially supported it.

"For example, immediately upon the administration's withdrawal last April from the gold standard, Mr. Morgan issued a public statement—a thing very rare for him to do—upholding the administration's declaration.

"Members of this firm have since made it clear upon many occasions that we regarded this step as having been of extraordinary benefit to the American people as a whole, who we believe have not always realized the renewed or increased hardships from which this decision, made in the early days of the present administration, saved us.

Charge Called "Baseless."

"With great respect, but very frankly, it is difficult for us to understand how you could feel justified in uttering such a baseless charge, so needlessly provocative in its effect upon the public mind.

"As to your second statement, permit us to say that in no way, shape, nor manner are we 'seeking to prevent ratification of this treaty,' nor has the thought ever occurred to us to suggest or encourage opposition on the part of others, as you intimate."

Lamont added that La Follette's assertion J. P. Morgan & Co. controled or dominated certain public utilities was "without basis in fact."

RENEW BATTLE TODAY OVER WIRE TAPPING IN CONSPIRACY TRIAL

The legal battle over wire tapping testimony by Clarence L. Converse, federal investigator, will be renewed today when the racket conspiracy trial is reconvened before Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court, after a three day intermission.

Converse and other federal agents, according to testimony, listened to conversations of Attorney Morris I. Kaplan, one of the principal defendants in the trial, on a tapped telephone wire during the period from June 15 to July 20, 1932. Kaplan was attorney for several trade associations, including the Cleaners and Dyers Institute, which set up Dr. Benjamin B. Squires, University of Chicago economist, as dictator of the cleaning and dyeing industry.

The conversations overheard by the agents, engaged in an investigation for the government, were said to include a number between Kaplan and Murray Humphreys, public enemy No. 1. Humphreys was indicted in the racket case on the charge that he was responsible for a large part of the violence and terrorism inflicted on independent cleaners. He is a fugitive.

Defense attorneys, headed by Benedict J. Short, counsel for Kaplan, are making a strenuous effort to have Converse's testimony excluded. Special Prosecutor Edwin J. Raper will reply today to the argument made last Friday by Attorney Short on a petition to suppress the testimony.

SCOUT COUNCIL LISTS GOODS IT SEEKS FOR POOR

Articles for the needy which may be collected by Boy Scouts as their "national good turn" requested by President Roosevelt last Saturday, were listed yesterday by the Chicago council of Boy Scouts.

The articles include furnishings of all kinds, tables, chairs, bedroom furniture, dishes, cooking utensils, bedding such as mattresses, pillows, sheets, pillowcases, blankets, quilts, clothing for men, women and children including underwear, stockings, sweaters, overcoats, shoes.

The Chicago council estimated that the city's 17,000 Scouts will be in touch with at least 200,000 homes by discussing the campaign with their parents and neighbors. Families who do not know a Scout are asked to telephone the council at 9 West Washington street, telephone State 3990. A neighborhood Scout will call for the equipment.

The collecting of the articles will start immediately, and will be stored by the Scout troops until the troop receives instructions to hand the material over to the Illinois relief commission, which will see to sorting, repairing, and distributing. When troops are located in churches or other institutions, it was explained, the material may be turned into those institutions which have relief programs.

MRS. DOUBLEDAY PREPARES TO SUE H. F. M'CORMICK

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 12.—(AP)—A series of depositions for use during trial of the $1,500,000 breach of promise suit Mrs. Rhoda Tanner Doubleday, New York and Santa Barbara socialite, brought against Harold F. McCormick, harvester magnate, will be taken here the latter part of this week.

Mrs. Doubleday said today they will be obtained from hotel employés. She said she could not divulge the nature of the depositions "at this time," but "I don't think they will be very startling during the early stages of the case."

Mrs. Doubleday, divorced wife of Felix Doubleday, son of the book publisher, filed the suit against the millionaire harvester man on Oct. 24, 1933. She said McCormick proposed to her in November, 1932, after an ardent courtship of eleven months.

In March, 1933, the 33 year old divorcée charged, McCormick wrote her a note saying, "There is no marriage for me." She has been residing in Santa Barbara since last February. After the depositions sessions the case probably will be tried in Chicago.

ZASU PITTS WED AGAIN, SHE TIPS OFF EX-HUSBAND

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 12.—(AP)—The secret marriage of Zasu Pitts and Edward Woodall in Minden, Nev., last Oct. 8, while the actress was on location in that vicinity with a film company, was disclosed today after she and her husband, former tennis player, had left here for New York.

The secret was disclosed after Miss Pitts had confided it to friends, among them Tom Gallery, her former husband. The trip to the east is a belated honeymoon. They expect to remain there several weeks.

Woodall, now a broker, met Miss Pitts while instructing Marion Davies, film star, in tennis. The marriage was his first. Miss Pitts, who married Gallery in 1920, was divorced from him nearly two years ago. They had one child, Ann, 11 years old, and an adopted son Don Mike, son of the late Barbara La Marr, film actress.

SUPREME COURT OF MEXICO RULES FOR A FREE PRESS

Decision Upholds Right to Criticize Government.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 12.—The Mexican Supreme court has just announced an interesting decision regarding freedom of the press. It indicates the government considers itself stable.

The case is that of El Dictamen of Vera Cruz which editorially criticized the government of Col. Adalberto J. Tejeda, retired governor of the state of Vera Cruz. He is now an independent candidate for president. The newspaper said his government was responsible for the bad financial and agricultural condition of the state.

Upholds Right of Criticism.

The decision written by Judge Fernando de la Fuente in part follows:

"That as the articles censured local politics of the state during the government of Col. Tejeda, the writer was acting within his rights. Every Mexican citizen and more especially those, whose business it is to direct public opinion by means of the press, have a perfect right to criticize all things done by public authorities.

"To the rights conceded our people in the constitution there is no other limit than that exacted by the well being and progress of the nation. These rights have double aspects; liberty of thought and liberty of action, which constitute a characteristic necessity granted by nature to man and are absolutely necessary to him.

"Liberty of action ought to be assured by law and is our magna charta, leaving man free to exercise each and every activity not opposed to stability, order, public institutions and peace, and provided he does not interfere with the rights of others.

Check on Government.

"Liberty of expression of thought is absolutely indispensable to the progress of society. It is manifestly in the great institution of the press which is a mighty pedestal upon which stand all ideas. When expression of ideas by means of the press is directed to the censure of arbitrary acts of public authorities, it becomes of more importance for social functions and liberty of thought, because this inspires in man the idea of his own dignity and personality and breaks the bonds of slavery, thus forcing incompetent authorities to obey the law."

While the authorities of some Mexican states still are ready to crack down on newspapers in opposition to the government, the press of Mexico City is fairly free although there is little criticism of leading government figures. The government subsidizes one daily newspaper here. Its two big Goss presses are named after Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles and President Abelardo Rodriguez. This paper, El Nacional, has the most modern plant in Mexico. It presents government activities and policies in a news manner.

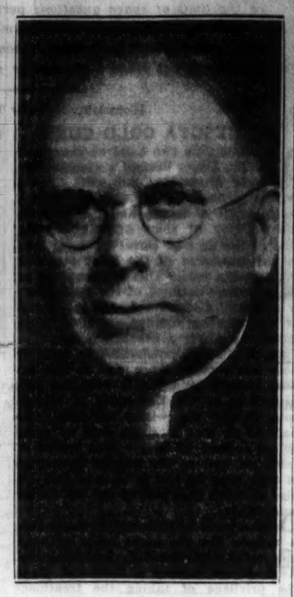
Two Catholic Leaders Made Bishops

MSGR. MOSES E. KILEY.



MSGR. W. D. O'BRIEN.

CHURCH ELEVATES MSGR. O'BRIEN TO THE EPISCOPACY

Appointed Auxiliary Bishop in Chicago.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. William D. O'Brien, president of the Extension society of the Catholic church, 360 North Michigan avenue, yesterday was notified of his appointment to become auxiliary bishop of the archdiocese of Chicago. The appointment was announced at Washington, D. C., together with announcement from Rome of the elevations of three other priests to the episcopacy.

The elevation of Msgr. O'Brien will create two auxiliary bishops for the archdiocese of Chicago, the other being the Most Rev. Bernard J. Shiel. Msgr. O'Brien stated that his local work as bishop will consist largely of assisting Cardinal Mundelein and Bishop Shiel in confirming the increasingly large classes being presented by the pastors of Chicago churches.

Will Retain Present Posts.

Msgr. O'Brien, in speaking of his elevation, stated that he would remain as president of the extension society and as pastor of old St. John's church, 18th and Clark streets, after his consecreation, which will occur within a few weeks. He was born in Chicago 55 years ago and since his ordination 31 years ago his entire priesthood, with the exception of three years as missionary in the northwest, has been spent in Chicago.

A record said to be unique in the hierarchy of the Catholic church in America will be accorded to Msgr. O'Brien at the time of his elevation. His consecration in Holy Name cathedral will climax a succession of religious events in the bishop designate's life in that edifice beginning with his baptism and continuing through first communion, confirmation, ordination, and elevation to domestic prelacy.

Long Connection with Missions.

Msgr. O'Brien's entire priesthood has been closely related to domestic missions. Shortly after his appointment as pastor of St. John's in 1924, he was elected acting president of the Extension society, succeeding the Most Rev. Francis J. Kelley, who became bishop of Oklahoma. Six months later he was appointed to the presidency of the society by Pope Pius. Msgr. O'Brien was appointed to a minor office in the extension in 1907.

The bishop designate is an orator of widely recognized ability. He was the preacher on the occasion of the 20th anniversary of Cardinal Mundelein's episcopate, as well as at the jubilees of the churches of Our Lady of Sorrows and St. Vincent.

The other monsignor and the priests appointed to episcopate yesterday by Pope Pius are the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Moses Kiley as bishop of Trenton, N. J.; the Rev. Francis P. Keough as bishop of Providence, R. I., and the Rev. Robert E. Lucey as bishop of Amarillo, Tex.

State Bar Association Will Meet in Waukegan

The annual convention of the Illinois State Bar association will be held at Waukegan May 31, June 1, and 2, it was announced yesterday by Hervey C. Coulson, president of the Lake County Bar association. He said the board of governors of the state organization met at Peoria Saturday and decided to accept Waukegan's invitation. The meetings will be held at the Glen Flora Country club. It is expected that more than 500 attorneys will attend. Attorney General Otto Kerner, Gov. Horner, several justices of the United States Supreme court, and other notables have been invited.

UNDERTAKER'S EQUIPMENT STOLEN.

Stanley P. Mazeika, 3319 Auburn avenue, an undertaker, reported to police yesterday that equipment belonging to him valued at $50 was stolen from the home of the late G. Waitkus at 3334 South Halsted street while relatives were attending the funeral Friday.

REWARD OFFER REVIVES MURDER MYSTERY OF 1903

Dexter Estate Asks Help with Solution.

New York, Feb. 12.—[Special.]—Interest in one of the most baffling murder mysteries of this century was revived today with the offer of a "substantial reward" for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Orrando P. Dexter, wealthy and eccentric recluse, who was shot near his Adirondack cottage on Sept. 19, 1903.

Dexter, bachelor and Harvard graduate, was the son of Henry Dexter, founder and for many years president of the American News company. Until his death in 1910, the older Dexter pursued a relentless search for the slayers of his son. He made a standing offer of $10,000 for information that would bring the murderers to justice, but no one ever came forward to claim it.

"Ad" Asks for Aid.

Dust collected on the records of the Dexter murder case until the publication today of a four line advertisment in the Malone, N. Y., Telegram, asking for information. Persons having any information of value were invited to communicate with the Dexter estate at 101 Park avenue, New York City.

Orrando Perry Dexter lived at Norwalk, Conn., but spent much of his time on his estate in Franklin county, near Malone. A high fence surrounded his hunting preserve, and a corps of surly attendants kept the local people away. Dexter's aloofness, and the fact that he had bought up land on which the Franklin county folk were accustomed to hunt and fish, made him heartily disliked.

On the day of the murder Dexter had left his cottage at Dexter Large to drive to Santa Clara. His assassin hid behind a pile of logs along the road leading from his house and shot him through the back as he drove by.

Attracts Wide Interest.

The murder attracted the attention of the whole country. The district attorney and the sheriff of Franklin county asserted they knew the man who killed Dexter but had no evidence with which to obtain a conviction.

Frank Parker Stockbridge, who reported the murder, wrote afterward:

"We all knew perfectly well who killed Dexter and why but we never dared print it."

Mr. Stockbridge today repeated the statement he made thirty-one years ago.

BYRD HEADS EAST ON VOYAGE INTO POLAR UNKNOWN

Makes 13th Attempt to Explore Mystery Area.

[By MacKay Radio to the New York Times and Chicago Tribune.]

LITTLE AMERICA, Feb. 12.—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd this evening left the Bay of Whales in the 60 year old barkentine, Bear of Oakland, with Capt. Robert English commanding, for an exploration voyage to the eastward. He hopes to penetrate into the geographical mystery to the east which has heretofore eluded his assaults by ship and airplane.

With his former flagship, the Jacob Ruppert, safely unloaded and headed for New Zealand, and the winter party already being established at Little America, this morning Byrd saw an excellent opportunity to attempt another attack upon the unknown coastal front of the Pacific quadrant.

Start North Feb. 25.

"It is our intention," he said, "to head directly for Cape Colbeck and make a coasting as far beyond as time and ice will permit. This ship ought to be ready to start north from here not later than Feb. 25, owing to the freezing of the Ross sea, and that allows us a fair amount of time.

"I have always wanted to make a coasting along the Pacific quadrant and think that this fine old wooden ship may be just the ship to turn the trick. She can venture with impunity into ice which would be fatal for the Ruppert."

This will be Byrd's thirteenth attempt to break into the geographical mystery to the eastward. On his last expedition he made six excursions, three by ship and three by plane, finally extending the known coastline to the Edsel Ford mountains.

Stopped by Ice.

He drove the Ruppert into the pack three times, and when she was stopped by ice continued the assault by air. He failed to raise the coast on the first flight because of diminishing gasoline. Snow squalls and poor visibility caused the other two flights to fail.

Although the idea of using the Bear for such an excursion has for several weeks been maturing in his mind, Byrd has kept it pretty much to himself.

The dog drivers hauling supplies on the east crest of the barrier toward Little America halted incredulously as they saw the Bear, her sticks bare, steaming up the middle of the bay.

Former State Legislator, Jailed, on Hunger Strike

Madisonville, Ky., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Munnell Wilson, a former member of the Kentucky house of representatives, was on a hunger strike in jail here today. Arrested Saturday on charges of false swearing, Wilson, about 60, said he would not eat until the grand jury which indicted him "straightened out the case."

Headaches always come
at the wrong time!

You'll never have to put up with an ordinary headache and all its accompanying annoyance, if you have a bottle of Bromo-Seltzer in your medicine cabinet. This fine old remedy relieves pain quickly and effectively.

So much better than mere pain-killers. Because it is a balanced compound of 5 medicinal ingredients, each one of which has an important effect in making you feel better. Also, you take Bromo-Seltzer as a liquid, so it's quicker to end your pain. Prompt relief for gas on the stomach is also assured. For, as Bromo-Seltzer dissolves, it effervesces.

Be sure and buy a bottle for your home. Keep it handy so you can relieve headaches, neuralgia, and other pains of nerve origin at a moment's notice. Insist on "Emerson's"—the one and only Bromo-Seltzer in the familiar blue bottle. A standby for over 40 years.

IT'S THE FASTEST WAY THERE IS!

Almost Instant Relief From Colds
IN THIS WAY

If you catch a cold—don't take chances with "cold killers" and nostrums. A cold may be dangerous to take chances on.

The simple method pictured above is the way doctors throughout the world now treat colds.

This is recognized as the QUICKEST, safest, surest way to treat a cold. For it often checks an ordinary cold almost as fast you caught it. Just do this:

1. Take 2 Bayer Aspirin Tablets.
2. Drink Full Glass of Water.
Repeat this in 2 Hours.
3. If throat is sore, crush and dissolve 3 Bayer Aspirin Tablets in a half glass of water and gargle. This eases the soreness in your throat almost instantly.

Your cold should be relieved quickly when you do this because the real BAYER Aspirin embodies certain medical qualities that strike at the base of a cold almost INSTANTLY.

You can combat nearly any cold you get simply by taking BAYER Aspirin as directed. Sore throat can be eased by gargling this way in two or three minutes, incredible as this may seem.

Ask your doctor about this. And when you buy, see that you get the real BAYER Aspirin. It dissolves almost instantly. And thus works almost instantly you take it internally. And for a gargle, it dissolves completely enough for this purpose. Get a box of 12 tablets or bottle of 24 or 100 at any drug store.

Homes may be Cleaner
..and Housekeeping be made Easier

IN producing a clean, smokeless home fuel, men focused their attention upon making a fuel that would be capable of creating an entirely new standard of home heating luxury —a fuel which combined heat value with cleanliness. Thirty years ago coke was first made from selected coal.

*In 1924 over 2,800,000 tons of coke were burned in home heating plants. In 1932 over 9,450,000 tons were used throughout the United States. A gain of 340% in eight years.

Thousands of thrifty Chicago and Suburban home owners have kept on burning Chicago Solvay Coke year in and year out and hundreds of families change to clean, economical Coke every month.

You, too, can burn Chicago Solvay Coke in your present heating plant. Just ask the nearest Fuel Merchant to supply you with one ton or a load. See how clean it is and what a quick, hot fire it gives.

FLETCHERIZING THE STOCK EXCHANGE.

Senator Fletcher's bill for the regulation of stock exchanges is half good and half bad. Its mixed character derives from the fact that its authors had no principles either of economics or of government to guide them. Therefore their work is a hodge-podge. They saw the stock exchange in pretty much the same indiscriminating light that prohibitionists saw liquor. If the bill is enacted in its present form there is much reason to fear that the consequences may be as unexpected to the Fletcherites as the phenomena of the so-called dry era were to the professional drys. Fortunately, the administration is not committed to the bill in detail and amendments should therefore be possible.

The duty of the federal government toward a stock exchange or any other market is quite simple and easily stated. The government should be concerned only to assure that the market is a free one to which all persons who wish to buy or sell have ready and equal access. That kind of regulation falls well within the federal government's rights under the interstate commerce clause and is not wholly beyond the capacity of government officials to enforce. The exchanges should welcome the government's cooperation in maintaining a free market.

Among the provisions of the bill which are sound and should be adopted are those which forbid officers and directors and large stockholders of corporations from buying or selling shares in their companies without notice to other stockholders. The officers and directors certainly, and the large stockholders presumptively, have information regarding the company which is denied the ordinary shareholder, who does not, therefore, enter the market on terms of equality. It is the government's right, if not its duty, to correct the unfairness.

The same approval can be given to many other provisions of the bill, such as those relating to the conduct of specialists and the efforts to prevent secret manipulation of the market. It might be observed in this connection that most of the principal exchanges have already taken action to regulate specialists and to eliminate wash sales, false news, price pegging, etc. The exchanges should not oppose the imposition of substantial penalties for these offenses against common honesty. As New York state appears to have failed to impose effective penalties and as the trading is interstate in character, the federal government's intervention is thoroughly justified.

If the bill were confined to maintaining a free market there could be little quarrel with it. Unfortunately, the authors have gone much farther and have made at least two serious mistakes. The first is their arbitrary requirement of a 60 per cent margin. This is intended to keep the lambs out of the market, but it is doubtful if that will be its effect. The gambling instinct is too deep seated to be dislodged by any such device. As Senator Fletcher is from Florida he ought to know all about that. The lambs will still be lured into the market and, if this arbitrary margin requirement stands, their losses will not be less but their profits, if any, may be much smaller, because their cash will buy fewer shares. A much more serious argument against the provision is the effect it may have in a panic market. On Black Fridays needlessly heavy margin requirements are certain to cause even deeper breaks in the market than would otherwise occur. The amount of the margin can best be left to the broker and the banker whose money is at stake. No one buys or lends on margin who does not understand his risk. If the object of the government is to discourage stock gambling it should not do anything which will seem to guarantee safety to an inherently unsafe instalment purchase.

The other serious blunder in the bill is the large sphere of undefined power which has been given to the federal trade commission in regulating such matters as short sales, stop-loss orders, and other practices "detrimental to the public interest or to the proper protection of investors." This provision means that a semi-political agency is to be free at any moment to interpose its influence in the market. To expect a godlike impartiality and omniscience of politicians is to expect, obviously, much more than will be forthcoming. It is easy to foresee a time when the commission might, by force of public opinion, seek to support a false boom. The consequences might be catastrophic. In any event the broad grant of power to intervene at any moment cannot fail to contribute to the nervousness of the market precisely at the times when rumors of intervention can work a maximum of damage.

Here again is to be found the assumption, so frequent in recent legislation, that private business is hopelessly corrupt but government is above reproach. Mr. Boettiger says the congressional advocates of the bill believe that speculation was the chief cause of the depression. The gentlemen have conveniently forgotten that the speculative mania was born the day the government-dominated federal-reserve board embarked on its policy of reduced discount rates. They overlook, also, the effect of government-made tariffs in disrupting trade. The congressmen conveniently forget the effect on the boom and depression markets of government-made tax laws which encouraged investors to hold when they should have sold and to sell when they should have held. The markets took their cue from the government and now the government blames them for the consequences. Legislation, based on such false assumptions is certain to be unsound. The astonishing aspect of the Fletcher bill is that it is no worse than it is.

THE AIR MAIL.

President Roosevelt in canceling the air mail contracts said it was yet to be decided whether the government would ever again deal with private companies for carrying the mails or would continue to use the army flyers in a permanent postoffice policy. It could be permanent only in the term of one administration. Another could reverse it.

If the President has been convinced that the air mail contracts of the postoffice under Brown were tainted with fraud the abrupt cancellation may be salutary. Fraud is the probability or possibility in the most carefully guarded government contracts in normal times, and the contingency grows in probability as the amounts of money increase and as haste is made an essential.

It is to be noted that Mr. Roosevelt's habit is to be on top of a disclosure rather than under it. To estimate the advantages of this one has only to recall the fate of some of his predecessors who allowed government department scandals to grow in activity and notoriety until they rolled down upon the entire administration and crushed it. Mr. Roosevelt keeps well out ahead of congress. The unusual opportunities offered corruptionists everywhere by the abnormal expenditures and unusual regulations of the recovery acts make this executive caution imperative, both for the good of the country and for the President's own political fortunes.

The public cannot be well informed as to the charges which are held to taint the air mail contracts. A congressional committee proceeds by well established methods to give the widest play to such inferences and intimations as it wishes to spring from its inquiry. A clouded if not a false picture is produced by this and general opinion is led to desired conclusions. Fair judgment often is misled and congressional inquiries become suspect of special rather than public interest. It must be assumed, however, that President Roosevelt has sufficient information to convince him that here again is an instance of government money flowing out not for public benefit but for private profit.

The policy of immediate challenge of fraud, whether arising in the present or any previous administration, is the only protection the country has against new variations of Teapot Dome. President Roosevelt does not intend that they shall have the benefit of his indifference or the sanction of his inattention. In this he will be wholeheartedly supported.

The future policy for the air mail will be one of important interest to commercial air transport. It can be laid down as a rule that the army will not promote commercial aviation. In the development of a new transport system the three services are required, mail, express and passenger. The army flyers, particularly if the present air mail pilots be taken into the service, may fly the mail, but the development of passenger service will be seriously retarded. It may even be suspended.

Some of the commercial air men have been hoping the present situatio would break as it has in the expectation that the air mail contracts would be thrown again into competitive bidding without intrigue. Government interference with commercial development will tend to set aviation back in the United States and give it the same ailment which has afflicted the railroads. If a government department is allowed too long to have air transport in its hands it will be hard to get it away from that control. Even now the companies whose contracts have been canceled, if the fraud charges stand, cannot compete for government contracts within the next five years, a condition which might require a complete reorganization of commercial flying before there could be another consolidation of complete air service under private enterprise.

THE WASHINGTON STARLINGS.

Washington starlings may be a little provoked by the efforts of government to drive them out, but they have not been driven. They go where they want to go and roost where they want to roost, Pennsylvania avenue trees, capitol dome, the head of the Blue Eagle, anywhere they fancy. Imprecations do not scare them, exhortation does not move them. Searchlights, streams of water and shotguns have little effect on them. They may shift position, but when the enemy is weary they are back where they want to be.

No other bird can or cares to live in competition with them. A great flock of them is a major plague. Neither Gen. Johnson nor Donald Richberg has been able to crack down on them. It is Mr. Wallace's one consolation that they do not classify as agricultural live stock. There is enough grief in cows and little pigs.

The starlings like Washington. They find it sufficiently southern and, in spite of demonstrations against them, congenial. There's something in the atmosphere which invites them to flock down on public buildings. The starling may be a bit of a politician. He knows when and where he is well off and when and where he is at home.

HUNTING LICENSES.

[Rockford Register-Republic.]

Writing in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Bob Becker, famed sportsman, declares that with Illinois revenues from hunting and fishing licenses decreasing seriously, the department of conservation will have difficulty increasing the supply of game fish.

The fund is now 40 per cent less than a few years ago. This is certain to be reflected, he declares, in the supply of pheasants and fish. The remedy, he believes, would be an increase in the license fee from $1 to a slightly larger sum such as is charged in a number of states.

Providing that a sufficient proportion of the license money actually is returned to the hunters and fishermen in stocking game and fish, this argument stands good. If too much of it goes to game wardens, with merely nominal duties, for the purpose of strengthening political fences there might be some argument.

EASY LESSON FOR THE NEW SUBSISTENCE FARMER.

Everybody in the city is readily agreed that farming is very easy work. That is, for anybody but regular farmers. The trouble with them is that they take it too seriously. But all of us who are thinking of going back to the farm and going in for subsistence farming know that farming is a cinch.

The first thing to do is carefully to conceal the location of your farm; there'll be too many people dropping in for chicken dinner on Sundays. Of course after you get started that sort of thing will be all very well, but if you move out to your farm, say on Saturday, it will be a bit annoying to have a lot of people leaping in at you the next day and howling for food.

Most people that move back to the farm think that all they need is an automobile, a radio, a pneumatic sweeper, a hammock for the front porch, a lawn tennis set, guests' book, a garage and a telephone. Those things are all very well, but in addition you should provide yourselves with a cow, a bee, some seed corn, a chicken (for chicken salad), a pig, a hoe and plenty of geranium seeds.

Now you are ready to start subsistence farming in earnest and raise all the things you and your family will need to live on. You can also put in looms and, after you have bought a sheep, can weave your own clothing. Or by planting cotton and flax you can make your own underwear, tablecloths and bedsheets, but, of course, that will come later.

All you do about raising a bountiful corn crop so that you can have plenty of fried mush and corn cakes is to plant the corn seed. Don't make a mistake and plant the geranium seed. Geraniums are lovely but not nutritious. You simply plant your corn and then when it grows up you take it off the stalk and put it in the barn. Oh, of course, you should have a barn. I forgot all about the barn. But you must have a barn. You can put your corn crop in the barn, and besides a barn is very useful when your relatives come out from town; you can always beat it behind the barn.

Your cow will give you a great plenty of fresh, rich milk; only you freeze the milk or something like that to make ice cream. You should endeavor if possible to prevent the cow from putting her left hind leg in the milk pail. That is one of the great drawbacks to living on a farm—the cow always puts her left hind leg in the milk pail. If she would put her right hind leg in the milk pail now and then it wouldn't be so deadly monotonous. From the cow's milk you can make butter, not apple butter (that is something quite different), but just butter, butter.

Your entire expense for outfitting your subsistence farm should not be more than $13.85, and in a subsequent article I will tell you how to knock off the eighty-five cents.

TESSY THE TROUPER.

Her mother was a lady,
Her father was a bum;
He liked the touch of greasy cards,
And his tall glass of rum.
Her mother took in washing
And sewing by the hour;
Against her kitchen window
She kept a plant in flower.
Young Tessy was a beauty;
She was her mother's hope.
The old man grew from bad to worse,
Until he took to dope.
One night he cut a caper
That sent him to the cooler.
The mother kept on working
To feed her child and school her.
When Tessy left for dancing school
She was a girl with class;
She crooked her little finger
To sip her demi-tasse.
And since she was a beauty,
She married a young dandy
Who liked caviar with artichokes,
And soda with his brandy.
He scorned the touch of greasy cards,
But spinned a mean roulette;
His father left him a château—
He lost it on a bet!
Young Tessy was a lady
(But not as "Maw" had been),
And since her hands were manicured
She looked on work as sin.
One day she left her husband,
And soon became quite lonely—
But now she's trouping with a show
And dancing "for men only."
Her mother still does washing
And sewing by the hour—
But at her kitchen window
There are no plants in flower.

MINNESOTA COLD CURE.

MORE than two hundred years ago Dr. Dover devised a combination of drugs that still goes by the name of Dover's powder. It is a combination of ipecac and opium, with the addition of some diluting powder. One of the uses of Dover's powder was in the treatment of the fever stage of the common cold. This continued to be the popular treatment of the most nearly universal disorder until the salicylates of one sort or another displaced it in popularity about a generation ago.

Dr. H. S. Diehl undertook to discover how much merit there was in the old time remedy by using it with the student body of the University of Minnesota during the winter of 1932. He had found that a small dose of some opiate seemed to be the best source of relief as well as the nearest to a cure of any drug he had tried, and this led him to think that maybe old Dr. Dover was right.

Notice went to the student body that a remedy for the acute stage of common colds was offered by the university. Any student having a cold was given the privilege of taking the treatment without cost provided he would agree to report the results, and also provided he would not pass the pills along.

The students applying were given pills of Dover's powder and of sugar of milk of exactly the same size, shape, and appearance. The directions for use were exactly the same. Applicant number one was given Dover's powder; number two, sugar of milk. All odd numbers got Dover's, and all even numbers sugar of milk. The druggist had the key numbers. Neither the students nor the physicians knew the students that got the sugar of milk.

No student was given treatment unless his cold was of the acute, febrile type, with watery discharge from the nose and aching, and unless the disease had been in evidence less than four days. Each student was given two tablets with instructions to take one the first night. If he was still uncomfortable on the second night he had permission to take the second tablet.

About one-third of the sufferers taking sugar of milk appeared to be cured by the placebo treatment. About three-fourths of those taking the Dover's powder tablet appeared to be cured by it. The signs of improvement used as yardsticks, as reported by the sufferer, were lessened discomfort, watery discharge from the nose, tendency to later mucupurulent discharge, and absence from class.

In addition to Dover's powder a half-dozen or more preparations made from opium or containing opium were tried. These were: Diluadid, papaverine, morphine-papaverine, morphine, opium, codeine, diluadid and papaverine. A combination of codeine and papaverine seemed best for practical purposes. Combinations of papaverine with diluadid and of morphine and diluadid were also good.

None of the group was of value in subacute or chronic colds or sore throat.

SMOKER.

Mrs. B. writes: My husband smokes about seven cigars a day. A few years ago he smoked as many as fifteen cigars per day. I have always maintained that this is injurious to health. My husband is a man under forty years of age and leads a very inactive life, most of his exercise being done in an automobile. My father, who is a man nearly 70 years of age, smokes one pipeful of tobacco every two hours. The doctor says this smoking will not harm either of them.

REPLY.

Both are smoking too much. Your father's case is worse than that of your husband. The allowable dose of tobacco for a man 70 is less than that for a man 40. Your husband has cut his dose in half. Probably he will reduce it further. You do not mention any decrease in your father's dose.

JAGGED TOOTH.

A reader writes: I have been bothered with a projecting tooth, which causes me to bite my cheek quite often. I have heard that this condition can cause cancer, likewise that sharp pieces of teeth which cause irritation can cause cancer? Can this be?

REPLY.

Cancer is occasionally caused by jagged teeth. Have a dentist smooth the sharp edges and points.

PROBABLY DUE TO POISON.

Mrs. H. G. writes: I have an eczema behind and at the point where the upper lobe of the ear meets the scalp to the hair line.

REPLY.

The probability is that this eruption is due to some poison. Could it be from metal in your spectacle frames or to mechanical injury due to spectacles, or to hair dye, or paints and powders, or other cosmetics? If the cause is avoided the eruption should heal promptly without medication.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME.—Reaction against the "Japanese peril" is gaining amplitude in Italy.

Europe had better compose its internal conflicts and prepare itself to confront a growing Asiatic aggression is the latest vigorous warning of Francesco Coppola, member of the Italian Royal academy and noted political writer.

Coppola expresses a little more frankly what Premier Mussolini himself said in a recent newspaper article. For some time the Italian press has been devoting much space to the "yellow peril." The recent speech by the Japanese foreign minister proclaiming Japan's peaceful aims and the nation's desire to be considered the stabilizing agent in the extreme orient met with ironic and scornful comment in the Italian press.

And the newspapers in Rome also connect the announcement that the United States would implement its navy with 120 new ships and the British admiralty conference at Singapore with events shaping in the orient because of the Japanese policy.

The Italians have become alarmed by Japanese aggression in trade. First Italian silk production was hit by Japanese cheap labor competition. It was hit to such an extent that some doubts were expressed as to whether there was any future for the Italian silk industry.

Denunciation of Japan in the economic sector here was followed by subsequent denunciations in the domain of politics when it was reported that Japan had its eye on Abyssinia, which Italy considers is her special field if any one's.

And now Japan's insistence she is leading the Asiatic peoples is denounced as a political menace to Europe generally. In his article regarding the "yellow peril" which appeared in the Gazetta del Populo, Coppola, the academician, recommends the most extreme solutions to the problem of the rising tide of the orient.

In his opinion the raising of tariff barriers and all economic measures are ineffective palliatives. He says that when Japan left Geneva and violated the pact of the league of nations it would have been a good thing to have decreed a general boycott of Japanese products as a matter of reprisal, but the occasion was lost.

He said only two solutions are left: A social revolution in Japan and war. The first solution does not appear feasible and the second one is about to break out, Coppola declares.

Europe, he continues, may find its safety in encouraging, without compromising itself, Russia to prepare and hasten both of these methods of solution. But it is imperative above all that the European nations forget their differences and get together in the face of an aggressive Asia, he concludes.

It is not without interest to note that heretofore Russia has been presented as the advance guard of Asia rising against western European civilization in Fascist eyes. Now Russia has become Europe's front line against the "yellow peril."

ABOUT BEER.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—What H. B. had to say about the prohibitive cost of wine made in the United States applies also to beer, except that the federal and state taxes amount to about one-half of the wholesale price of beer. The retailer pays from $14 to $17 per barrel, and this means that the consumer must pay ten cents for a ten or twelve ounce glass of beer.

Today there are fewer breweries in this country than before prohibition and about twice as many states permitting the sale of beer. Before prohibition every brewery in the United States made money. Today 90 per cent of the breweries are in financial difficulties. Many of the breweries have tremendous stocks of beer on hand and no sales; this has brought about a price war, with overstocked plants dumping their stocks at cost or below cost.

The breweries are not blameless, as they charged all the traffic would bear when beer was legalized, and so some states slapped on a heavy tax when their plea to the breweries for a lower price went unheeded.

What has proved true in excessive taxes on gasoline applies as well to beer, or for that matter on any commodity, and that is that the consumption will fall off and a lower tax will often bring in a greater total in revenue as the result of increased consumption.

Let the federal government drop the tax per barrel from $5 to $2 with the understanding that this decrease be passed on to the consumer and you will see beer sales treble immediately.

THOR G. ERICKSON.

A TRIBUTE.

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 9.—I was present at the hospital when the firemen and police officers who were injured at a fire and explosion on Milwaukee avenue were brought in. These men, with their hands and faces badly burned, carried their companion who was seriously burned. They never left or had one thought of themselves until they had given their companion over to the doctors and nurses and were led away themselves.

The police officer was without a coat, as he had used this to extinguish the flames on that human torch, thus saving a life. He also stood ready to go for the pastor of this man's church. I have never seen a pluckier and more courageous lot of men.

Our citizens should be very proud of these public servants who risk their lives and endure many hardships without a murmur. D. B.

PRINTER'S INK.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—Poor Skeezix! "When a child gets some printer's ink on his shirt it is difficult to wash it out in less than three generations." Unless something is done about it quickly, to get him away from the smell of printer's ink before he succumbs wholly to its influence, Skeezix will be doomed for life to the most fascinating, most stimulating, most trying and most heartbreaking career there is—the life of a printer. He will become so dumb that he will almost rather starve in a printing office than grow rich in any other pursuit. A. H. A.

CAPITOL AND CAPITAL.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—In a recent Winnie Winkle comic strip our heroine was told, when embarking in secret service work: "You may have to travel or you may have to live in the capitol at times." Now, why shut Winnie up in a big capitol building? She should live in the capital, and thus have the full freedom of the city, don't you think?

S. G. WICK.

ABSURD DEMANDS.

Oak Park, Ill., Feb. 7.—I heard Quin Ryan's announcement tonight that the weekly concerts of the Illini band which W-G-N has been broadcasting are to be stopped because of certain demands of the Federation of Musicians. If there ever was an outfit that should be put in its place the Federation of Musicians is it. This organization needs a little of that good old army discipline—if you know what I mean.

I am an Illini and I want to enter my protest against such absurd demands so that the band may go back on the air. Certainly the taxpayers as well as all loyal Illini have a right to hear the band if it is the purpose of W-G-N to broadcast the concerts. I shall write the Illini club and ask that the club take necessary action for the reinstatement of the weekly concerts. I feel sure that the Illini will show action and will be heard from. R. J. O'HARRA.

FROM A TAXPAYER.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—It was with deep regret that I received the announcement last night that the University of Illinois band was prohibited to play in future over your radio.

I know that I am ignorant and just a simple taxpayer in Illinois, but have our legislators nothing to say about this?

M. H.

A VOICE FROM MICHIGAN.

Galesburg, Mich., Feb. 8.—I heard, and very much enjoyed, the program of the University of Illinois band over your station last night, but I didn't enjoy the announcement at the close—that it was the final broadcast of the band because of the protest of the Chicago musicians' union.

That's what I'd call a rotten shame and a dirty racket! Who are the suckers in the Sucker state now? There sure ought to be one grand howl raised!

I sincerely hope that this most absurd situation can be remedied and the broadcasts of the band continued.

WINTHROP J. FORD.

A UNIQUE BAND.

Woodstock, Ill., Feb. 8.—I am wondering how many people had a feeling of hatred and antagonism toward James C. Petrillo and the Federation of Musicians when W-G-N's announcer informed the listening audience that there would be no further concerts in the series presented by the University of Illinois concert band due to the demands of the union.

If the federation were able to furnish anything to fill the spot left by the removal of these concerts there might be some room for argument. There is, however, only one U. of I. concert band.

I have no quarrel with organized labor as such, but as a racket it is intolerable.

JAMES F. BRINK.

FREE FOOD.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Is there any reason why tradesmen and all others on the CWA should be getting tickets mailed to them from relief headquarters for free pork, butter, and eggs? When these men are working they can well afford to buy their food. It might interest some of the Washington officials to know that these tickets for free food are also being passed out by the politicians. If this keeps up the small merchant selling groceries and meats will also be on the relief rolls, as the government is now helping to deprive him of a living.

It should be the aim of the authorities to cut out all free relief. Give every able bodied man work of some kind. There is enough work on the city streets to keep them going for a few years. T. M. J.

STATE LEADERS TO ATTEND CLUB SESSIONS HERE

Reservations Pour In for Problems Conference.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Communications from women's clubs both in and out of Illinois requesting reservations for blocks of seats in excess of twenty each indicate that various important organizations will have large representations Thursday and Friday at the Palmer house grand ballroom for the first annual Conference on Major Problems, sponsored by THE TRIBUNE. Individual reservations cannot be handled.

Inquiries arriving from club groups throughout the five state area—Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Indiana, and Illinois—demonstrate as well the degree of attention attracted by the various addresses scheduled for the two days. Other correspondence advises that various club officials will be on hand, in addition to the heads of the five state federations—one of the five being an alternate, and the rest the state presidents themselves.

Leaders to Arrive Thursday.

Mrs. Harris T. Baldwin of Washington, D. C., the only out of town speaker on the program, will reach Chicago Thursday afternoon in time for the entertainment and reception that night for the five federation dignitaries. Mrs. Eugene Henely of Grinnell, Ia., state president, will arrive Thursday morning, as will Mrs. Edwin N. Canine of Terre Haute, general federation director representing the Indiana federation; Mrs. Sears R. McLean of Holland, Mich., presiding officer of the Michigan federation; and Mrs. Frederick H. Clausen of Horicon, Wis., of the Wisconsin federation.

Following the radio broadcast by the W-G-N Concert orchestra from the grand ballroom Thursday evening, and additional vocal and instrumental numbers by widely known artists—Lawrence Salerno, Olga Kargau, Allan Grant, and Wadeeha Atiyeh—these state club executives will greet the club members at a reception in the ballroom. The receiving line will be headed by Mrs. W. F. Farrell, president of the Illinois federation.

First Session Thursday Afternoon.

Speakers at the opening session Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock will be Frank Bane, director of the American Public Welfare association; Miss Helen Bennett of A Century of Progress, and Mrs. Margaret Ayer Barnes, Chicago novelist and Pulitzer prize winner of 1930.

Friday morning at 10 o'clock the second discussional session will introduce Prof. W. F. Ogburn of the University of Chicago, widely known sociologist and economist; Mrs. W. W. Seymour, chairman of the American home committee of the General federation; and Capt. John Stege, Chicago police official.

The third and last discussional session at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon will be opened by Dr. Melchior Palyi of Germany, now a guest professor at the University of Chicago. Mrs. Baldwin will talk on the food and drug act. An address by Col. R. R. McCormick, publisher of THE TRIBUNE will conclude the formal program.

Friday evening has been set aside for a series of tours of the plant of THE TRIBUNE, to view the production processes in the various departments. Reservations should be made in advance, through Mr. Allen at Superior 0100, extension 715.

Will Appear on Program at Conference Thursday

Left to right: Lawrence Salerno, Neapolitan baritone; Allan Grant, pianist, both of the W-G-N, and Wadeeha Atiyeh, Syrian soprano, three artists who will be heard on the Thursday evening program of the Conference on Major Problems at the Palmer house.

PLAN SHOWDOWN ON MERGER OF CAR LINES TODAY

Council Group to Hear Franchise Foes.

The local transportation committee of the city council will hold an all day public hearing today on the question of giving the surface and elevated transit interests an extension until July 31 for their acceptance of the 1930 merger ordinance. The ordinance includes the consolidation of the surface and elevated lines into one unified system.

The present deadline for acceptance of the ordinance is March 3. The transit interests say that, although they have agreed on a merger, it is impossible to arrange all the details in time for the conflicting interests to accept the franchise ordinance by March 3 and they are asking five months' more time. Enemies of the franchise ordinance are urging that no extension be granted, permitting the measure to die.

Decides on Quick Action.

Ald. James B. Bowler, chairman of the local transportation committee, said he had received many letters insisting that decisive action one way or the other be taken at once on the franchise issue. Therefore it was decided to hear all objecting groups today and to decide on a recommendation to be presented at the next council session.

In a recent conference Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, who has jurisdiction of the traction companies because they are in receivership, gave assurance that steps would be taken to establish a universal transfer system between the surface and elevated lines without waiting for the completion of the merger, if the council would grant the extension. At the conference it was estimated that it would take 45 days in which to put the interservice transfers into use.

Under the plan, which is one of the provisions of the pending 1930 ordinance, passengers may transfer from street cars to elevated trains upon the payment of an additional 3 cents. Transfers from the rapid transit trains to the surface cars would be free.

See Danger of Chaos.

The possibility of chaotic conditions harmful to the interests of street car riders was told by traction lawyers yesterday in case the 1930 ordinance is allowed to die and the present day to day extension of the 1907 franchise is terminated. These lawyers point out that most of the street car lines are owned by two separate companies, one the south side lines and the other the north and west side lines. These lines are operated as a unit, with city-wide surface line transfers, under an intercompany agreement which is kept in force by the old 1907 franchise.

In the absence of any franchise control, it is said, these surface line companies could terminate the operations agreement, thus compelling passengers to pay two or more fares in getting across the city.

BEG YOUR PARDON

A story published yesterday about the rounding up of a gang of safe crackers incorrectly stated that blow torches and acetylene tanks were found in the room of one of the suspects in the Plaza hotel at 1553 North Clark. The management of the hotel, which is one of the oldest in the city, declared it had always cooperated with law enforcement authorities.

Party to be sponsored by South Chicago Masonic association Wednesday evening will be held in the temple at 91st street and Exchange avenue instead of 91st street and Calumet avenue, as stated in Sunday's south side metropolitan section of THE TRIBUNE.

The Schneidgr school Parent-Teacher association will give its Fathers night program Thursday instead of Friday, as stated in the metropolitan section of last Sunday's TRIBUNE.

An item in Sunday's TRIBUNE incorrectly stated that James E. Wilson, who died Saturday at his home at 1005 North Massasoit avenue, was 41 years old and a locomotive fireman. He was 52 years old and a road foreman of engines for the Chicago and North Western railroad.

ALLMAN WARNS MOTORISTS TO GET LICENSES

Police Drive to Start in 3 or 4 Days.

BY HAL FOUST.

Commissioner Allman yesterday ordered the police to warn drivers still operating with 1933 automobile license plates and stickers that they are violating state statute and city ordinance.

"If the warning is not effective in sending the motorists into the license bureaus," said the commissioner, "in three or four days we'll start bringing the delinquents in. In coöperation with the secretary of state, we hope to get 1934 numbers on all cars earlier this year than in the past."

City vehicle tax collections this year have fallen far behind last year. The total on Feb. 8 was $1,424,000 as compared with $2,071,000 on the same date in 1933. The sale of state plates is ahead of last year, but there are still approximately 750,000 of Illinois' 1,200,000 passenger cars without 1934 licenses.

Attorney Joseph H. Braun of the Chicago Motor club suggested that at least ten days' warning be given before any arrests are made because of many delays in the office of Secretary of State Hughes. The state law and the city ordinance require plates and stickers for the new year on Jan. 1.

"For efficient policing, every car should bear a 1934 identification number," said Commissioner Allman. "Furthermore, it is not fair to require some to pay their taxes and to let others evade the tax."

Secretary of State Hughes yesterday informed the state treasurer and the state auditor that Cook county in 1933 paid 46 per cent of the Illinois motor registration fees and is therefore entitled to 46 per cent of the counties' share of the state gasoline tax for 1933.

18 Derailed Coal Cars Delay Train from South

The Dixie Flyer from Florida was held up for six hours yesterday morning when eighteen coal cars were derailed on the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad in the village of Thornton. Many of the passengers summoned automobiles and continued their trip into the city. F. H. Rutherford, superintendent of terminals for the C. & E. I. railroad, announced after an investigation that the wreck was caused by the breaking of a wheel flange on one of the cars. Thousands of tons of coal were dumped along the tracks.

Rock Island School Burns with a Loss of $60,000

Rock Island, Ill., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—Fire, believed to have started from defective wiring, gutted the Longfellow school, one of the educational landmarks of the city, early today. Fanned by a high wind, the flames gained rapid headway before they were brought under control two hours later. The damage was estimated at $60,000.

FIRST OF TAXI "BARGAIN DAYS" PLEASES DRIVERS

New York, Feb. 12.—[Special.]—Today was the first of the three "bargain" Mondays provided for in the agreement which ended the taxi drivers' strike last week. The cabbies returned, or at least offered to return, one-third of the sum shown on their meters after each ride.

The theory is that the public is entitled to a rebate on the half-million dollars exacted from it in the form of a nickel a ride tax, which the courts have held to be illegal.

Actually, a survey among drivers in several parts of town showed the cab riding public as a rule permitted the drivers to keep the 33⅓ per cent rebate in lieu of a tip. The drivers are jubilant.

Several of them said they expected to make up most of the losses they sustained during the strike today and on the bargain Mondays which are to follow.

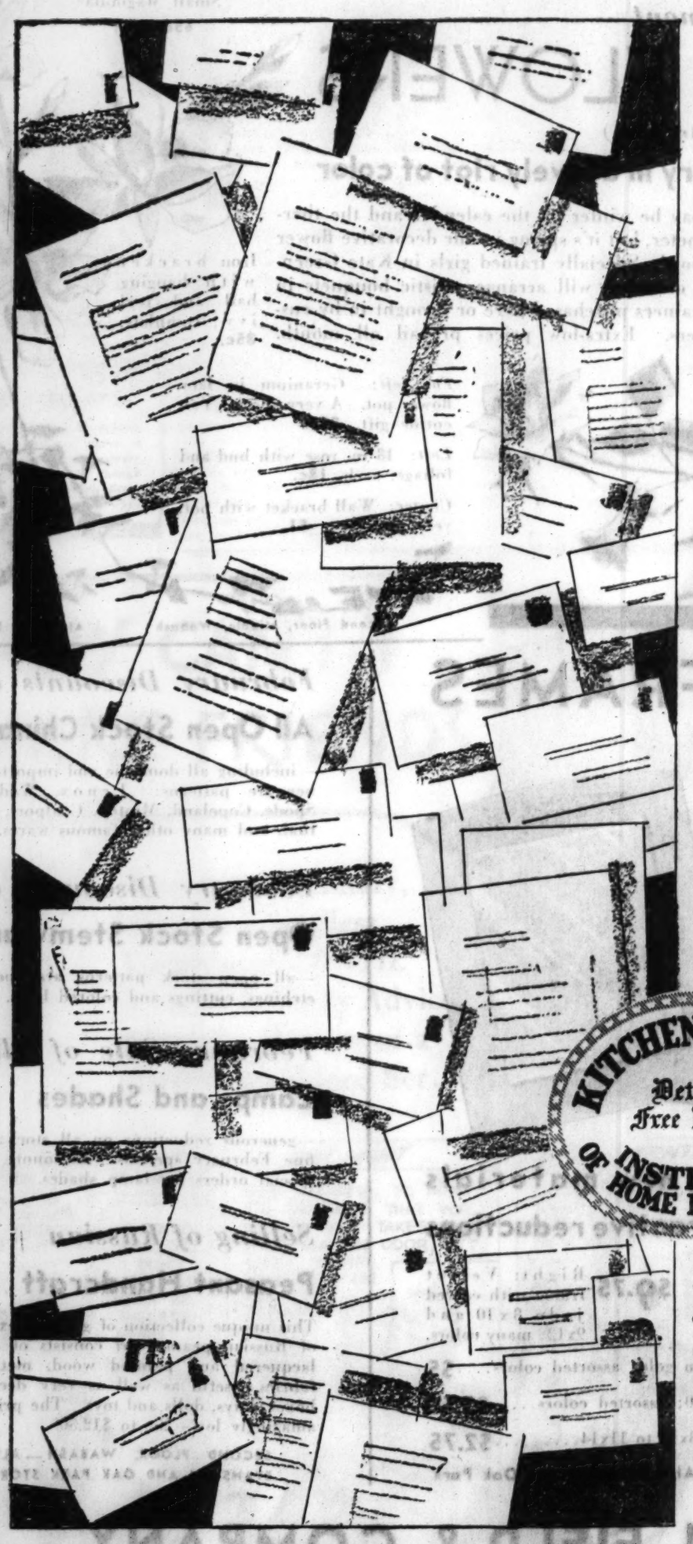
Inquiries from Women Readers in 1933

MORE THAN ANY OTHER STANDARD SIZE NEWSPAPER IN AMERICA



The seal of approval awarded by The Detroit Free Press to all products tested and approved as to quality in the testing kitchen of the Free Press Institute of Home Economics.

WHEN the women in ONE market area alone are interested enough in ONE newspaper to address 520,589 inquiries to its editors . . . that's NEWS to anyone wanting to sell anything.

To the best of our knowledge this is far and away a greater WOMAN reader response than that of any other standard size newspaper in the United States.

520,589 inquiries . . . more than one thousand four hundred for every one of the three hundred and sixty-five days . . . what a record of readership! What a tremendous ovation for good journalism! What an opportunity for good advertising to profit thereby!

And as these more than a half million women read, so do they purchase . . . as they respond, so are sales made . . . by those advertisers astute enough to tie up to this huge vote of confidence in the Detroit Free Press.

It may seem a strange . . . almost unbelievable situation for any newspaper to secure such a grip on the people who read it. It probably is quite without any precedent, but so are the pages of the Free Press that earn this response. Setting the pace editorially throughout America for sheer human interest, Free Press Women's Pages are the real "Baedeker" of the modern woman of Detroit who is keeping abreast of her job of making and keeping a home.

These are the homes that buy most . . . that respond quickest . . . that read advertising . . . their own startling response-record is proof.

Get these women on YOUR side. There is only one way it can be done, and that is to sell them through the advertising columns of the newspaper they really read.

2,000 BARS HELP GIVE MARDI GRAS A FESTIVE AIR

Biggest Crowd in Years Despite Drizzles.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 12.—(AP)—New Orleans today put on a double celebration, honoring alike the weather man and the gods of Mardi Gras, as brilliant sunshine flooded the city after days of rain. Proteus, mythical deity of the seas, hailed massed thousands of merry makers at the head of a gorgeous torch light procession.

A whole city in holiday garb cheered with a post war record crowd of carnival visitors when skies cleared at mid-day after three days of cold drizzles. Weather forcasters indicated clear weather for tomorrow's climatic Mardi Gras fête.

Hold First Big Parade.

The Proteus pageant tonight was the first of the season's major parades. Proteus made his first appearance here in 1882, and tonight told in twenty glittering floats the story of his repeated triumphal marches on New Orleans.

Although starting time was not until after dark, thousands found places of vantage along the line of march before mid-afternoon.

The never old spirit of fun and make believe swept the city for the renewal of the century old observance of pre-lenten merry making, and tonight literally hundreds of bals masques, dansants and private parties were in progress.

2,000 Bars Liven Fete.

More than 2,000 licensed saloons, cocktail rooms and beer gardens in this oasis of the south did a rushing business as the city entertained its largest carnival crowd since before the prohibition era, but the city authorities turned thumbs down on widespread free distribution of fancy "sample bottles" of New Orleans' favorite drinks. The souvenirs were two ounce affairs and the city authorities said they "might fall into the hands of children."

Most of the busy drinking places stayed open continuously, many advertising a "last roundup" hour between 4 and 5 a. m.

"Rex" Arrives Today.

Tomorrow, the annual celebration will be brought to a close with the arrival of Rex, ruler of the revel, and the street parades of Rex, Druids and Comus. Street dancing and general masking will be the order of the day, honoring again the young Frenchmen who inaugurated the season of fun more than a hundred years ago by introducing those features to New Orleans.

Mrs. Donald Gordon Zimmerman of Montgomery, Ala., who recently became the bride of the Tulane All-American football star, and who reigned as queen of the carnival as Miss Mary Frances Buck last year, was crowned queen of the Quarter club ball, one of the more important fêtes on the eve of Mardi Gras.

Mardi Gras Queen

Miss Laura Fenner, who has been chosen queen of the annual New Orleans Mardi Gras. A precedent was broken in her selection because she was a debutante last year. Usually a current debutante is selected.

SPY TRIAL FOR A YANK, 27 OTHERS, OPENS IN FINLAND

Ex-Michigan Teacher Linked with Russia.

ABO, Finland, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Twenty-eight members of an alleged military espionage ring, including an American, Arvid Jacobson, former Michigan school teacher, went on trial today before the high courts of Finland.

They were arrested last October following an investigation which police said showed a link between espionage activities in Finland and in France.

Brunette Central Figure.

A pretty brunette, Mary Louise Martin, who possessed a Canadian passport, is the central figure of the trial.

The prosecution claimed that Jacobson was her chief lieutenant, and that they worked under the direction of agents of soviet Russia.

Jacobson's wife, who was arrested with him, was released in November after three weeks in custody. She was absolved by the authorities of any connection with the case.

Trial Held in Camera.

The trial was held completely in camera with all spectators barred. Court officials decided on secrecy on the ground that an open hearing might imperil the safety of Finland's defenses.

Jacobson was calm as he entered the court. He wore the regulation prison clothes, as did all the other defendants. The courtroom was packed with spectators until the court decision of secrecy forced them to leave.

The court further ruled that two defense attorneys were not acceptable to it because they held communistic political views.

3 NEGRO RAPISTS DRAW DEATH AS MOB THREATENS

Hernando, Miss., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Three Negroes, who confessed raping a 17 year old school girl, received today sentences to die March 16 on the gallows as National Guardsmen held at bay an angry, threatening crowd after two mob attempts to storm the De Soto county courthouse through barbed wire entanglements.

The jury, out seven minutes, found the Negroes "guilty as charged." After the verdict a detail of guardsmen set out by train with the prisoners for Jackson, Miss., for safekeeping.

MISS BOARDMAN OF FILMS FACES U. S. TAX LIEN

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 12.—(AP)—A tax lien for $3,203 against Eleanor Boardman, screen actress, was on file in federal court today. John P. Carter, internal revenue collector, alleges Miss Boardman, divorced wife of King Vidor, movie producer, owes that amount on 1931 earnings.

Others against whom Carter filed liens are Erich Von Stroheim, movie director, $138 for 1931; Charles B. Rogers, actor, $3,378 for 1931; Ole Hanson, former Seattle mayor, $34,320 for 1924 and $24,283 for 1925, and Lee De Forest, $211 for 1931.

POLISH FOREIGN CHIEF SPEEDS TO SOVIET CAPITAL

Beck Will See Litvinov on Vexing Problems.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Feb. 12.—Joseph Beck, Polish foreign minister, accompanied by his wife, hurriedly entrained for Moscow today. The foreign office previously had announced he would leave tomorrow. It was the first visit of a European foreign minister to the soviet capital.

Polish officials stress the friendly character of the visit but the forthcoming discussions in Moscow with Maxim Litvinov, soviet foreign commissar, concerns questions seriously affecting Polish-soviet relations.

Beck's escort consists of several important Polish officials, members of Dictator Marshal Joseph Pilsudski's unofficial cabinet of colonels and the Russian minister to Warsaw, Antonov-Ovseenko.

Three Questions Vex Poland.

The Polish press is devoting much attention to Beck's trip. It is hoped that the foreign minister will obtain an answer to three important questions vexing Poland. The first is the release of Polish Catholic priests from soviet prisons and the fixing of the status of Polish Catholic churches in the Ukraine and white Russia.

The second is cessation of communist propaganda in Poland which continues to receive support from the communist internationale's headquarter's in Moscow. The third is the establishment of better economic relations permitting the freer exchange of goods between Russia and Poland.

The most important point in the negotiations was not mentioned in the Polish press. It is connected with Beck's clever negotiations in Berlin resulting in the signing of a ten year non-aggression pact between Poland and Germany on Jan. 26. At the same time the Polish foreign office agreed to permit Litvinov to propose to Finland and the rest of the Baltic states that Moscow and Warsaw jointly guarantee their independence, thus bringing the Baltic countries under Moscow's hegemony and forming a new bloc of nations against Germany.

Litvinov Is Angry.

Beck has greatly strengthened Poland's position and Litvinov is reported to be furious at being outwitted by the Polish statesman. Beck's visit, therefore, presumably is to placate the irate commissar, who suspects that the sudden Polish-German friendship is directed against Moscow.

Marshal Pilsudski returned to Warsaw Saturday to confer with Beck before the latter's departure. Pilsudski is also conferring with emissaries of Lithuania, who are said to be seeking Polish support for Lithuania's latest move in the conflict with Germany concerning the Nazi movement in the Memel territory.

[The Memel territory, whose autonomy is guaranteed in a special agreement signed by Lithuania, Great Britain, France, Italy, and Japan, is governed by a military commander appointed by the Lithuanian war ministry.]

Pershing Leaves Hospital; Going to Arizona Soon

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Gen. John J. Pershing, who has been in Walter Reed hospital for two weeks undergoing physical examination and recovering from a cold, was back at his apartment today. He probably will leave for Tucson, Ariz., in a few days and stay there the remainder of the winter.

POLICE "DRILL" AT RED CONSULATE ANGERS RUSSIA

Building Surrounded by Manchukuoans.

MOSCOW, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Large extra detachments of Manchukuoan police surrounded the soviet consulate building in Harbin a week ago today during an alleged "drill" but were withdrawn immediately, government officials said today.

The building also houses the headquarters of the Chinese Eastern railroad and the private apartments of the Soviet manager and assistant manager of the railroad.

When soviet officials in Harbin asked an explanation for the movements of the police they were told by Manchukuoan authorities that the "drill" was held as a preparedness measure "in case the necessity of sudden defense arises" at the building.

Consulate Seized, Was Rumor.

It was stated in official circles that an exaggerated report of the police action was current in Khabarovsk, including a rumor that the consulate had been seized.

The correspondent in Khabarovsk of Tass, the official Soviet news agency, reported that extra detachments of Manchukuoan police "recently" were stationed in the building and "later" were withdrawn.

Unofficial Japanese dispatches from Harbin, the Khabarovsk correspondent stated, said the action was merely precautionary, owing to recent demonstrations there in which lower rates on the railroad were demanded. The dispatches added that "white Russians" were the principal participants in those demonstrations.

Information Is Lacking.

The foreign office here said information of the affair was lacking, but that tension over the railroad between Japan and Manchukuo on the one hand and Russia on the other was lessening.

Last October, a French group, the Association Nacionale d'Expansion Economique, was reported to have concluded a tentative agreement for the formation of a syndicate for joint investment in Manchukuo, operations to begin in January or February this year. Authoritative French circles here today said that Andre B. Dollivier, representative of the syndicate, had received no new instructions relative to the group's plans.

BENTLEY GETS STAY.

Bloomington, Ill., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—A stay of mittimus until March 10 has been granted Asher Earl Bentley of Pontiac, who has been sentenced to prison on a jury conviction of manslaughter in connection with the death of Miss Aldine Younger. Judge Clyde R. Thompson granted the stay in order to allow the defendant time to file application for a supersedeas.

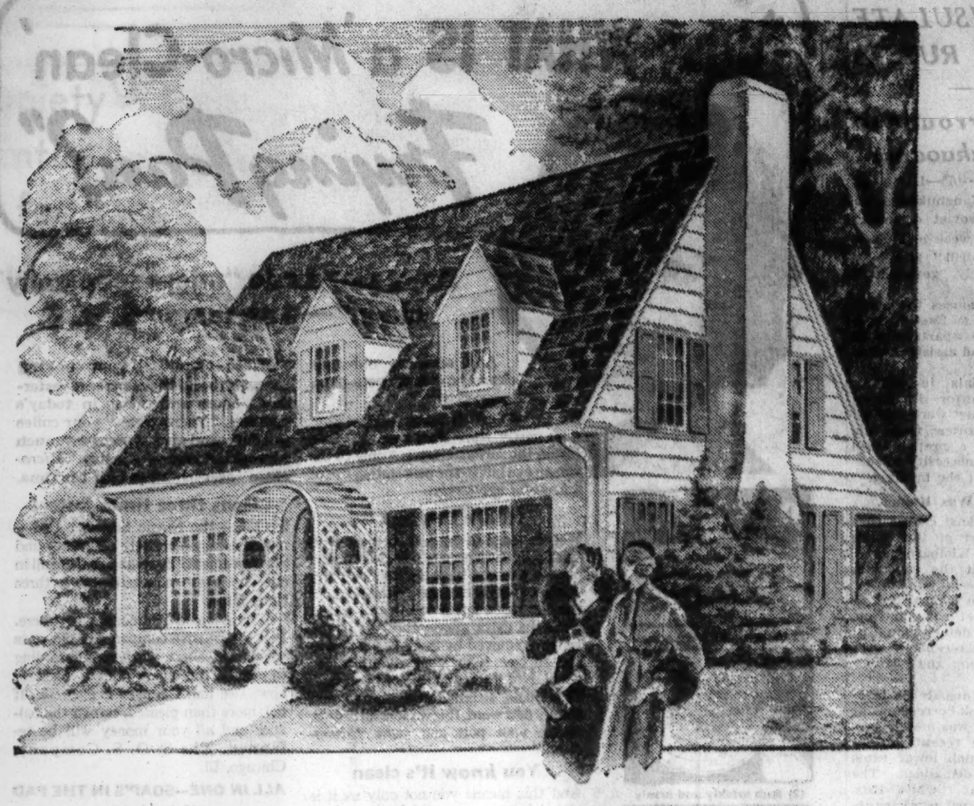
ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE



This home, and the apartment house below, are drawn to scale to illustrate the relative size of the home market and the apartment house market in Philadelphia. 91.6% of all dwellings in Philadelphia are single-family homes. (U. S. Census, 1930). Nine out of every ten homes need those hundreds of items — from roofing materials to cellar paint — which an apartment dweller seldom buys.

All the janitors in Philadelphia, laid end to end, would reach practically nowhere. Only 2.3% of the dwellings are three-or-more-family dwellings according to the U. S. Census of 1930.

Philadelphia is America's Greatest Home Center

No other city in America has as many single-family homes as Philadelphia. The U. S. Census for 1930 gives the following figures on single-family dwellings for the three largest cities in America.

PHILADELPHIA	364,457
NEW YORK	294,037
CHICAGO	209,685

All the janitors in Philadelphia laid end to end would reach practically nowhere

There is an unwritten slogan in Philadelphia that has inspired most of her people..."Skyscrapers for Business, but a Home to live in."

Philadelphia has spread out, instead of building up; spread out into the broad acres which surrounded Penn's original town; spread out into that strange paradox of a great metropolitan market in which 91.6% of the dwellings are single-family homes.

Philadelphia has 70,000 more individual homes than New York City, which has three times the population. And 155,000 more individual homes than Chicago, which has one million and a half more people.

Nowhere else in America has the art of home living been developed to such an extent. Generations have bred the home instinct into this people, until home interests dominate, and home needs get the lion's share of family incomes.

If you have a better home heating plant, an improved washing machine, a new convenience for the kitchen--or any product that will add to the comfort of home living--bring it to Philadelphia, the greatest home proving ground of all!

A great home newspaper is ready to carry the news of your product into nearly every home in Philadelphia and suburbs.

The Philadelphia Bulletin is great in size and broad in influence because Philadelphians have made it so. They and The Bulletin have grown up together in the home life of Philadelphia. Their interests have shaped its policies. Their co-operation has molded its editorial program.

--until more than half a million copies daily is the measure of their reading interest.

Tell your story to this great home audience through The Bulletin--the newspaper nearly everybody in Philadelphia reads.

Note to budget makers: Philadelphia is the most economical of all markets to reach. One newspaper does a thorough advertising job. And its advertising cost is one of the lowest among all newspapers in America.

"Nearly Everybody Reads The Bulletin"

A Reading Interest Survey conducted in the Philadelphia Trading Area by the American Association of Advertising Agencies shows a wide preference for The Bulletin in all important income groups. In the higher income groups, the preference is greatest. In the $10,000-a-year-and-over group 82.82% read The Bulletin. Day after day the slogan "In Philadelphia Nearly Everybody Reads The Bulletin" is put to test. Confidence and reading interest are its allies. Prizes, premiums, coupons or contests are never used. And the result is written in net paid circulation figures..., more than half a million daily, year after year.

Nº 2

Again in 1933, National Advertisers recognized the importance of this great Home Market

In 1933, as in 1932, The Philadelphia Bulletin carried more National Advertising than any other six-day newspaper in America. (The Bulletin prints no Sunday issue). 1468 national advertisers and 316 advertising agencies contributed to this impressive recognition of Philadelphia's Home Market.

Society Women Enter Business for "Outlet"

Widow Says Wife Owes It to Husband to Stay Home.

This is the last of a series of articles dealing with society women who have entered business.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

To many Chicago women who recently have gone into business the phrase used 10 years ago that "women had come out of the kitchen" is not applicable, for these women never were in the kitchen. Having led lives of comparative leisure as members of Chicago's aristocracy, they apparently determined, some of them late in life, to seek what one of them described as "some definite outlet" in the form of work in the world of business.

Among the large number of society women who have become business women in one way or another is Mrs. Louise Stevens, widow of Clyde G. Stevens, who until his death was vice president of the State street store of Charles A. Stevens & Bros. Mrs. Stevens, who lives at 1412 Astor street, owns and manages a dress and millinery shop, Louise Stevens, Inc., at 700 North Michigan avenue.

"I always was interested in the theory of business," said Mrs. Stevens when interviewed in her office. She wore a smart black hat, trimmed with a narrow strip of Persian lamb, and a tailored suit dress with a high neck line and ornamental buttons down the front.

"I had had a taste of it, traveling with Mr. Stevens. That taste of the outside world spoils us women when we get it.

"After Mr. Stevens' death I wanted to have some business experience, to see if I could put the personal touch into a dress shop. For a time I was associated at a shop in the Stevens Hotel building, but I didn't work hard.

"Then I acquired this shop, making an investment in it when the depression was at its worst. I've found that it takes all my time, that I could work 48 hours a day if I had them."

Mrs. Stevens said that she thought many women were going into business who previously had led lives prescribed by the rules of wealth and society because of the shrinkage in their investments and because they, as she did, "hunger and long for something definite to do."

"I went into business because I needed some definite outlet," she said. "I could never go back and lead a life largely devoted to social contacts. However, in time I hope to have more leisure. I think I owe it to myself to go to every Friday concert, and I'm not always able to now."

Mrs. Stevens made it clear, however, that she thought a woman who stayed home, particularly if she had young children, was doing as much as any woman in business, even if she did not do any actual work at home.

"I think any woman who has a husband, unless he is an invalid, is making a mistake if she goes to work," Mrs. Stevens said. "A man needs to come home at the end of the day to a contrast. He needs the fresh, sensitive viewpoint of a wife who has not been in the fray of the business world, so to speak."

Another Chicago matron who has gone into business, handling it from her own home, is Mrs. Howard Gillette, wife of a man long known as one of Chicago's social arbiters. Mrs. Gillette sells a cold cream, a lotion, a pine bath, a bath mitten, and bath cologne.

Interviewed in the living room of her apartment at 1301 Astor street, Mrs. Gillette was seated on a divan before a log fire, dressed in a hostess gown of pale pink and cherry red chiffon velvet, wearing red slippers to match. It was in the evening, and she smilingly explained that the only reason she had consented to be interviewed that night was that Mr. Gillette was attending a meeting.

"I'd no more think of even going in the other room and reading while Mr. Gillette was home than I'd dream of flying to the moon," Mrs. Gillette said in a soft, feminine voice. "I didn't go into business because I was tired of my home. I never get tired of it."

She started selling cold cream more than a year ago, she said, when she found that because of the depression years she could no longer keep up her charities otherwise.

"I don't try to sell to my own friends," she said, "unless they seek me out. Most of my customers are women in business and in professions. There isn't any woman who can't improve her appearance, and it is a real joy to help them do it. I feel that I'm truthfully doing good just in selling my products."

Mrs. Barrett Wendell Jr., of 1260 Astor street, wife of the son of the late professor of Harvard university, refused to be interviewed. She works in a loop department store.

"I simply loathe having my name appear in newspapers, and have never, never given an interview," she said.

Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin, 1360 West Old Mill road, Lake Forest, is another society woman who recently has entered business. She is now employed as a designer for corset company, a fact verified by her secretary in her absence from her home. The secretary said that Mrs. McLaughlin was at the time receiving a "facial" at a beauty shop in the city and could not be disturbed there.

Mrs. Charles I. Pierce, a widow, is working at the Clothes Rack, 936 North Michigan avenue. She was in New York, buying for the shop, when an effort was made to interview, but she described her reasons for going into business in a letter as follows:

"My secret is that I always thought of my love of clothes and my preoccupation therewith as perhaps a weakness until a few years ago. Then I heard a wonderful talk on the psychology of dress. In it was given a picture of the influence history had always had on dress, and then, in turn, the influence dress had had on history. From then on I thought of the clothes business as a possible cheering influence in the world as well as a profitable occupation."

Cornelia Lunt Recalls Visits with Lincoln

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Certainly it was a person like Cornelia Gray Lunt whom the famous philosopher, La Rochefoucauld, marked as an exception when he wrote his well known sentence, "Few persons know how to be old."

With her spirit of eternal youth tempered by the mellow charm of years, Miss Lunt, 91 this coming March 15, delighted several hundred of her Evanston friends and neighbors who gathered yesterday afternoon in the drawing room of Mrs. Amos C. Miller's handsome Gothic home at 2829 Sheridan place, in Evanston. Happily and clearly she spent a half hour recalling the pleasantries of a girlhood acquaintance with Abraham Lincoln.

As the result of this half hour the Great Emancipator, on the occasion of the 125th anniversary of his birth, became an intimate personality for the members of the audience. He became an ordinary man trying valiantly to meet the affairs of state, a father enjoying the pranks of his children, Mrs. Lincoln's husband laughing at an honest to goodness joke.

Sponsored by the University Guild for the benefit of its Carnegie gift to Northwestern university, the party was one of four teas yesterday afternoon within a short radius in North Evanston. Mrs. Burt J. Denman was another hostess and Mrs. Albert E. Cross and Mrs. Henry H. Windsor still others.

"Yes, my father took me to the White House twice for tea with President and Mrs. Lincoln," recalled Miss Lunt, who is more familiarly known as "Evanston's first lady" by virtue of her father's aggressiveness in selecting the "swampy north shore" as the site for Northwestern university and thus founding the town of Evanston.

"I remember these visits well. I was dressed in my Sunday best and a 'stiff' best it was. Lincoln was tall and impressive, but he seemed to shed a little of his gravity when he sat down for tea with us. He joked and told stories. He forgot he was President. He forgot he was anything but a friend."

Lincoln numbered Miss Lunt's father, Orrington Lunt, and her uncle, John C. Evans [after whom Evanston is named], among his best friends. On more than one occasion he sought friendly counsel of them.

"But best of all my memories," Miss Lunt continued, "is an incident that occurred before I ever was introduced to President Lincoln. I was visiting Bishop Simpson and his family in Philadelphia. Bishop Simpson was one of the powerful speakers of that day. His influence was great, especially throughout the east.

"One evening at dinner the bishop put down his paper with dissatisfaction. 'All this delay,' he said earnestly. 'The country should hear the Emancipation Proclamation and it should bear it now. I am going to Lincoln.'

"The next day he did go and then he returned home very grave. 'Lincoln is a great man,' he told us at dinner that night, 'much greater than I. I told him what I thought should be expressed now. I told him too that I was going out and tell my conviction to the people. Looking into my eyes, coldly and steadily, our President replied, "Bishop, your Master forgave 70 times 7. Will you not be patient with me?"'"

Still another experience that has clung fast in Miss Lunt's memory all these years was her visit to the Army of the Potomac in 1864.

"It was only because of a mistake in my name," she explained. "A cousin of mine was a courier between President Lincoln and Gen. Grant. He suggested to my father one day that I might enjoy going to City Point with him. Then he said he might be able to take me on out to the battlefield.

"Of course I was ready to go. We reached City Point, where the battlefield permit had to be obtained. Writing my name my cousin scribbled it so that it was mistaken for 'Sweet' . . . yes, a far cry from 'Lunt,' but that was the way it was read.

"At first Gen. Mead, who had to issue the permit, looked at the application and said gruffly, 'No, nobody else can go to the fort.' Then he looked again, read the name 'Sweet' and rejoined, 'But hardly can I refuse a lady with such a lovely name.' I went to the battlefield and I will never forget it if I live to be 191."

Shubert Agent Takes Lease on Twin Theaters

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

New arrangements for the control of the Harris and Selwyn theaters promise some relief from the famine in drama that has prevailed in Chicago for the last year. These playhouses, the most modern in the city, have been leased by Samuel P. Gerson, apparently on behalf of the Shuberts, since he is, and has been for many years, an employé of that organization's Chicago office.

This change of management takes place in the nick of time so far as the interest of the playgoing public is concerned. It has been a matter of common gossip along the Rialto that the Dickey estate, owner of the land upon which these so-called "twin" theaters were erected, was on the point of tearing them down and using the lots as parking places.

The Harris and Selwyn were built in 1920 by Crosby Gaige, Sam H. Harris, Arch Selwyn, and Edgar Selwyn, New York impresarios. They were in active use for high grade attractions—drama and musical comedy—until the disastrous theatrical season of 1932-'33. Since then they have been listed among the "ghost" playhouses of the town. The Selwyn, in particular, has been in a state of suspended animation.

The Shubert company has had a "booking" interest in the Harris theater, and used it as the headquarters of its Dramatic league's subscription season plays until that activity was merged with the Theater Guild's season. The last important engagement at the Harris was the eight weeks of the Abbey Theater company of Dublin, a year ago. The Selwyn, although it has had a resident manager—William Roche—has been as neglected of late, in the matter of bookings, as if it were located in a hamlet in Manitoba.

Gerson has been an employé of the Shuberts in Chicago as press agent, house manager, and confidential executive since 1903. He is now in New York inspecting Broadway hits with the possibilities of their Chicago box office appeal in mind.

President's Mother Visits Nurse of His Baby Days

HAMILTON, Ont., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of the President of the United States, came here today to see Miss Helen Macrorie, the nurse who attended her when Franklin D. Roosevelt was born. Miss Macrorie, now frail and almost blind, crossed the Atlantic once with young Franklin and played with him when he was a small boy. Answering her letter of congratulation when he was elected, Mr. Roosevelt said he hoped to visit her, but with the press of state business he asked his mother to make the call for him.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Something new and deliciously nobby are the trick wash cloths we came across the other day. They're pink, perfumed, and pre-soaped!

A waterproofed packet of three, or a box of six packets, would make a grand little going away present for the traveler—and would make the business of bathing a lot more interesting for stay-at-homes. For the girl who goes places these pre-soaped cloths do away with the journeying woman's constant peril, harsh soap, to say nothing of putting an end once and for all to the irritation of packing damp bars of soap when she decides to skip here or there.

The scent is one of the most deservedly popular of the moment, the delightful blue geranium, but it's the pre-soaped touch that makes these cloths so endearing. The pink square of soft mesh is drawn from its packet, immersed in the water, squeezed a bit and presto—you have all the lather your little heart could wish for a face wash or a luxurious bath. No diving for a slippery cake of soap in the tub or the shower.

Better still, a cloth can be used more than once. You'll find after you dry it the next time you pull it from its case an amazing amount of its lathering powers are still intact.

The soap used is one of the most famous of toilet preparations, bland, soothing, and more than kind to the most temperamental type of skin. So, if you're fussy about soaps you need have no fear that pre-soaping will mean a harsher soap. It doesn't. The woman who worked out the idea has sacrificed nothing of soap quality to a captivating kind of soap efficiency.

Art Exhibition to Pay Tribute to Mr. Johnson

Renaissance Society Sponsors Wieboldt Hall Event.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THERE will be many motors driving south as far as the Midway next Sunday afternoon to deposit members of the Renaissance Society of the University of Chicago and their guests at the entrance to Wieboldt hall for a private view of an exhibition of paintings arranged as a memorial to Chester H. Johnson.

The paintings, by Leopold Survage and Raoul Dufy, have been loaned by Dell Quest of the Chester H. Johnson galleries and from private collections, including those of Frederic C. Bartlett Jr., Mrs. Walter Paepcke, Mrs. Robert M. Hutchins, Mrs. Robert R. McCormick, Mrs. Arthur Bissell Jr., Mrs. Arthur T. Aldis, Miss Alice Roullier, Mrs. Flora Schofield, Mrs. Henry Gale, Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, John Storrs, the Arts club, and Dr. and Mrs. Harry Bakwyn of New York.

The exhibition will continue through March 10 and will be open daily, including Sunday, from 2 until 5 o'clock. The private view Sunday will be from 3 to 5:30 o'clock and tea will be served in Wieboldt Commons at 4 o'clock. Miss Frieda Bachmann will play at 5 o'clock in the Commons Brahms' Intermezzo in E flat and the Chromatic Phantasy by Bach.

Mr. and Mrs. Brewster, Mr. Bartlett, Mr. and Mrs. Shreve Badger, Mrs. James A. Field, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mr. and Mrs. Hutchins, the Clay Judsons, Mrs. McCormick, the Potter Palmers, the Daniel C. Riches, Mrs. William A. Nitze, and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Schutze—she is president of the society—are some of those who have arranged the memorial.

Mr. Johnson Known for Taste in Art.

Mr. Johnson's death is felt keenly by all who knew him and who benefited by his unerring good taste and judgment in all matters requiring a knowledge of art. Mrs. Schutze has expressed the way all who knew him feel, in writing "A spirit of such vital energy . . . could not in reality be removed from the places where his personal enthusiasm and power had become a growing influence in a period of awakening consciousness of meaning in art. . . . The part Chester Johnson represented . . . will continue to be fruitful in the increasing spiritual activity of the groups which are coordinating their faculties and facilities toward the achievement of their common purpose: the enlargement of the scope of comprehensive appreciation of values expressible only in terms of art."

Unfortunately, Mrs. Schutze, the guiding spirit of the Renaissance society, will not be present Sunday, for she left several days ago to spend a month in Ojai, Cal.

The society column seems to be turning into an obituary column this morning, but we cannot refrain from mentioning how grieved and shocked every one who knew young Mrs. Samuel Insull is at her death and how deeply every one sympathizes with her husband and sister, Mrs. Robert N. McCreary. The former Adelaide Pierce was very quiet and retiring by nature and never, even when her husband's family occupied such an important niche in Chicago society's hall of fame, did she step into the spotlight. Her friends were devoted to her and all felt that she had met the adversities of the last few years with courage and dignity.

Chapel Guild Lectures Mark Opening of Lent.

The receipt yesterday of an invitation to the Lenten lectures arranged by the Chapel Guild of the Cenacle for the benefit of the Convent of the Cenacle made us realize that Lent is starting very soon; tomorrow, in fact.

This period of fasting isn't observed as strictly now as it was once, but it still marks a time when social activity is almost at a standstill and when people deny themselves some of the pleas-

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

IT was at a Sunday night supper and several young theatrical stars who shortly would have to hurry into make-up were lingering over salad and cheese. Jerry Norris, the handsome young lead of "Hold Your Horses," told a story of how Florence Moore once saved the day for Jack Osterman. Osterman was in front of the footlights doing his stuff, but getting no laughs. The silence that greeted his best gags was becoming awkward and Miss Moore, who was standing in the wings waiting to go on, had a sudden inspiration. Slipping on a bonnet and a shawl that only partly concealed her handsome satin evening gown, she ambled across the stage despite the fact that Osterman was still in the middle of his monolog. He turned to look at her in astonishment.

"This used to be an old cowpath," she said lightly, by way of explanation, nodding in friendly fashion. Then she disappeared into the wings on the opposite side.

The audience roared with laughter and Osterman finished his monolog to a receptive house.

A MAN and his wife were discussing household problems.

"The chauffeur ought to have another overcoat," the wife said. "Why don't we get him one now while there's a sale. And as he's rather a small man, get it large enough to fit somebody else in case he shouldn't stay."

"Yes, me," said the husband gloomily.

Ice-breaker—Depression—Incident.

WE like the story about an elderly Chicagoan—a charming gentleman of the old school—and his bachelor son who is spending the winter with him in his Lake Shore drive apartment. The son is inclined to be casual where his father is punctilious, and a source of frequent annoyance to the older man is his son's habit of either being late for dinner or else not turning up at all. On a recent occasion the son, who had motored out of town for the day, found he would not be home for dinner and, in a burst of thoughtfulness, wired his father to this effect.

Reared in a leisurely tradition of living in which a telegram was a blatant harbinger of bad news the white haired aristocrat glanced at the yellow envelope with foreboding. Instead of opening it he put it on the table and paced up and down for a time. Then he rang and asked the butler to bring him whisky. Even after nerving himself thus, he could not bring himself to open the telegram, so he rang for the housekeeper.

"Please open the message and if it's bad news don't tell me until morning," he said.

She opened the wire with fingers that trembled, her employer's agitation having communicated itself to her.

"Well, what does it say?" he asked finally.

"It says that Mr. S—— will not be home for dinner, sir," she informed him.

An echo of the elderly gentleman's wrath astonished the son the following day, who considered he had been unusually thoughtful the preceding evening.

Good Morning!

"There ain't no future to this business . . ." ruminates the dying bandit-cattle rustler-kidnaper and what nefarious have you? A conclusion one opines, that will be pretty widespread among a certain class of present day law breakers by the time Mr. Roosevelt and the federal government get through with them.

"The Last Round-Up" is the screenization of Zane Grey's widely read novel, "The Border Legion," and it's the sort of "western" that makes you think of Bill Hart. Randolph Scott, with his long equine face, resembles Hart somewhat, and, while lacking the one time favorite's showy dramatics and horsemanship, is still a pretty stout fellah in his way.

What is apt to interest you most about the Roosevelt feature is that in it Monte Blue, long absent from the screen, stages an excellent comeback. His interpretation of Jack Kells, head of the bandit gang of pioneer days, known as "The Border Legion," is a compelling one. He makes Kells a real, a deadly, and, withal, a naturally genial and friendly chap whose domination over his gang you can well understand. Blue's is, unquestionably, the outstanding character portrayal.

Driven from one state, the legion gallops into another, still hell bent on plundering. Kells saves Jim Cleve from hanging, and the youth's gesture of gratitude is to join Kells' hard riding, hard shooting organization. The split between himself and the gang comes when Cleve rescues a girl kidnaped by Kells—who had once known and loved her well.

Fred Kohler is properly tough as the outlaw of the outlaws and Fuzzy Knight proves amusing and pathetic as Kells' constant kidding Man Friday. He it is who utters the words of wisdom quoted in the first paragraph.

Barbara Fritchie [Adams, I believe, is her real surname] is nice. She hasn't much to do.

You'll love the western scenery and the often interjected strains from "The Last Round-Up"—musical hit. In one scene a cowboy leaning on the piano of a saloon sings the piece, assisted here and there by various of his confrères.

Are "westerns" coming back? The movie makers say so.

See you tomorrow.

Mrs. Roosevelt "Pretty Sure" She Will Make Trip to Porto Rico

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—The squirrels on the White House lawn and the governor of Porto Rico vied with each other for the spotlight at Mrs. Roosevelt's press conference today.

Somebody, it seems, had lamented the lack of nuts for the squirrels. Mrs. Roosevelt took the lament seriously; instructed Mrs. Nesbit, the housekeeper, to superintend the distribution of nuts.

What kind of nuts?

The wife of the President declined to go into any details about the balanced diet for squirrels. And the newspaper women reassured her that the White House squirrels were already the best fed in town; since every tourist gets a thrill out of feeding them peanuts.

The reporters wanted to know if she were "really going to Porto Rico." She is "pretty sure" she is.

The exact date?

"No human knows the date; and if they say so, they simply are mistaken."

"When you do go," a reporter asked, "will you stay at the governor's palace?"

She looked a little doubtful, then replied:

"I suppose if the governor asked me I should have to stay there." Then she added: "But whether I stay at the governor's palace or not, I will do what I wish to do; and that is to see Porto Rico and study conditions."

A Valentine?
Of course—but what?

THE WILD BIRD

By OWEN JOHNSON

SYNOPSIS.

Barbara Brawne, aged 22, is completely dominated by an adoring though jealous father, who is against every modern idea and improvement. Lynwood, their home, is in the prim and proper village of Oxbridge, a place of intellectual sanctity. Barbara seems predestined to join the ranks of the village spinsters. Her father scares away any would-be suitors. She contemplates rebellion. Gregory Rance, popular novelist, is visiting her cousin, Laurie Chiswick. They are mutually attracted. Barbara overhears Rance asking Laurie about her. He says she is the sort of girl he'd want to marry. Barbara proposes to Rance. But Rance is divorced and her father hates divorce. Barbara introduces him to her father as a casual acquaintance. Her father suspects Barbara's interest in Rance. He won't have him in the house again. Then relents, fearing she will meet him outside. Barbara tells her father she is going to marry Gregory. Brawne grants Gregory an interview in his New York office.

INSTALLMENT XXVI.

OPEN CONFLICT.

"Do I understand, Mr. Rance," said Brawne, raising his eyebrows over the black rimmed spectacles, "that there have been no women in your life?"

"That's an extraordinary question, considering that you know I have been married."

Mr. Brawne took off his glasses with a hand that shook a little.

"You have been married before?"

"Good heavens, Barbara didn't tell him!" thought Rance, struck by the expression of amazement that came over him. "Yes, sir. Once. I had supposed Barbara had told you. She should have."

"Your wife is dead?"

"No. We were divorced."

Mr. Brawne leaned back in his chair and stared at him.

"Children?"

"No. It lasted only a few weeks."

"You married and separated in a few weeks!"

"Yes, we did. I was a youngster. There was no bitterness. We recognized at once we had made a mistake. She has remarried."

"Good God!"

Rance sprang up.

"It is quite evident that from the first you have had but one idea, to force a quarrel! As Barbara's father I owe you a certain respect, but——"

"Enough, sir!" Mr. Brawne, suddenly galvanized into a passion, sprang up in turn. "Had I known what you have just told me this interview would not have lasted five minutes. It is impossible that my daughter is in her right senses! I refuse to believe that my daughter, knowing all——"

"He sent for me at his office, and ended by having me shown out."

"What are you insinuating, sir?" exclaimed Rance, towering above him "That I have deliberately concealed——"

"Enough, sir!" Mr. Brawne placed his hand on the buzzer.

"Understand this! Never, never, Mr. Rance, will you marry my daughter!"

"Mr. Brawne, that is quite beyond your power to prevent."

"Miss Potter, show Mr. Rance out of my office!"

It was too late to catch a train for Oxbridge. There was no way he could telephone Barbara. He considered sending a message through the Chiswicks but, sober judgment succeeding the rage that had overmastered him, he realized the danger of eavesdropping. Finally, after tearing up several telegrams, he sent her the following message:

"Arriving tomorrow noon. Meet me. What I feared.

"Gregory."

He dined at a restaurant by himself and went to the theater in solitary fury, rehearsing to himself all that he would have liked to have said, when he had been so cavalierly dismissed. He walked home muttering to himself. Of a usually even temperament, he was more thoroughly angry than he had ever been in his life. Nor did his temper cool when he rose in the morning and hurried to the station. Good heavens, what had possessed Barbara to have concealed the fact of his marriage and divorce! He went down the platform and took his seat, still gloomily abstracted, and the first person he saw, scowling at him from a seat directly across the aisle, was Martin Brawne. Startled, he could not repress an instinctive nod of recognition. Mr. Brawne looked stonily at him and through him.

"Good! The battle is on. So much the better," he thought. "Well, thank heaven, I kept my temper. At any rate, I haven't said anything I regret."

He opened his newspaper and began to read. If the ogre wanted to shift his seat, all right. If he thought he could outstare him, he'd find out! He tried to concentrate on the news but his mind refused to be diverted. He returned to Barbara with a groping fear of the inhibitions he would have to deal with. What if, after all, the old man was right, and after an excursion into the romantic she should retreat into the shell of this mossback Oxbridgian conventionality? It would be a battle, and a battle without quarter, between them—but the ogre could blacken his reputation to his heart's content and he would be barred more or less from such methods. He laughed an inward grim laugh. He understood her better now, the Barbara of the first meeting. No wonder she was desperately seeking a liberator. Well, she should have it. He would not be beaten by an inhuman fossil.

When they came to Oxbridge station he went out ahead on the platform. Barbara was there under the shed as he had seen her on the first night. One glance into her face and he divined that she also had heard from her father. She raised her eyebrows as he came towards her, and he shook his head.

"Don't talk to him until you know what's happened."

"He's hurt you, Gregory?"

"We're not speaking," he said grimly, "sent for me down at his office; ended by having me shown out."

"Impossible!"

This had been said rapidly in a low voice, while Barbara, still stunned, was staring up at Gregory. Mr. Brawne had descended.

"Barbara!"

She turned and saw him standing stiffly. For a moment she hesitated.

"I can't do anything here before every one," she thought dully. She said hurriedly to Rance, "I'll come to Uncle Tony's directly after lunch."

"Now's the time to assert yourself," was on his tongue, but he was too hurt to suggest the obvious loyalty. He stood watching her follow her father into the carriage and drive off. For the first time he had an uncomfortable presentiment that the future was not so clear as he had confidently believed it to be.

During the whole length of the drive Barbara and her father did not exchange a word. At the house, the aunts, alarmed at their brother's unexpected return, were hovering on the porch.

"I am well—perfectly well," he snapped out in reply to their agitated questions. "Business here, that's all, very important business." Emboldened by their presence and the certainty of the check that they would exert over his daughter, he turned to Barbara. "Directly after lunch—in the library."

She did not answer. The meal passed in a glacial silence. The aunts, divining a storm, questioned each other with timid glances. Thomas, hurrying the service, looked the picture of woe. The meal finished, she went to her room, took a hat and a coat and came down the stairs. Her father was planted in the front hall like a sentinel.

"I wish to see you in the library," he said sternly, "and I wish to see you now."

"I am going out. I shall not be here for dinner. I shall be back at ten o'clock. When I know all that has happened I will see you and not before."

He put out his hand to check her as he would have done to a child.

"Father!"

He drew back and let her pass.

Beer Gives Nip to Concoctions Temptingly New

BY MARY MEADE.

Whether you quaff it from steins, seidels, schooners, or snips—or perhaps if you don't quaff it at all but leave it quite alone—it still appears that there are some dishes in our cook's portfolio which are indubitably made better by a bittock of beer. It may be a very small dash of the amber, just "to give it the proper tickle." Or it may enter into affairs quite enthusiastically, as in the lusty German love—Beer Soup. But whatever the vehicle it's important that we treat it as courteously as we do the next ingredient in line, for the recent enthusiasm for beer, of whatever percentage, has tumbled too many bottles irreverently into this dish and that, very much to the damaged reputation of the beer, the dish, and the hostess.

As for the soup, I warn you, you may or you may not like it. But, since you may, and there's but one way to discover, here 'tis:

BEER SOUP.

4 cups beer
1 1-3 cups water
¼ stick cinnamon
2 cloves
¼ teaspoon salt
1-3 cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
2 slices of lemon
2 eggs

Combine the beer, water, sugar, salt, and spices, bringing them to a boil in a large sauce pan. Add enough cold water to the flour to make a paste, stir in the beaten egg yolks, and then stir this mixture carefully into the soup, which has been temporarily removed from the stove. Add the lemon. Bring to a boil again and just before serving stir in the beaten egg whites. With beer soup serve zwieback or toasted slices of rolls.

And another happy result from the kitchen angle of the return of beer is the rediscovery of real Welsh rabbit—perhaps the oldest English speaking dish in the world! This trickiest of midnight supper concoctions started life with sturdy old English "stout" and very ripe cheese. Now beer or ale and a modern cheese, plus cayenne and Worcestershire sauce, promise perfection with all the old nip—and a guarantee not to string a string!

WELSH RABBIT.

1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon dry mustard
⅛ teaspoon cayenne
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup beer
1½ pounds nippy American cheese

Blend all the seasonings to a smooth paste. Add the beer and heat in the top of a double boiler over boiling water. When the beer is hot add the ground, crumbled, or grated cheese. Continue stirring in the same direction until the cheese is all melted. To be highly orthodox you will serve Welsh rabbit on slices of crisp dry toast.

Then a somewhat less beerful but just as tantalizing a dish is:

ASPARAGUS BUCK.

2 cups finely diced American cheese
½ teaspoon dry mustard
⅛ teaspoon cayenne pepper
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
¼ cup beer or ale
Asparagus, heated with butter
Crisp toast

Place the cheese, seasoning, and beer all together in a double boiler over hot water. Cook, stirring constantly, and when nearly boiling pour it over the hot asparagus which is arranged in piles of five between half slices of the crisp toast. Serve the Buck and toast either on individual plates or all on one hot service platter.

And, lastly, if there's a taste about the unalloyed beverage which you just haven't quite learned to like here are two thirst quenchers with a jolly English accent which blend the nip of the amber with other items:

ALE FLIP.

Pour into a sauce pan three pints of mild ale or beer and add one tablespoon sugar, a pinch of mace, one whole clove, and one-half teaspoonful butter. Bring to the boiling point and remove from the burner. Beat one egg white and two egg yolks with three tablespoonfuls cold ale or beer. Combine with the hot mixture and beat until frothy with a rotary beater. Serve while warm.

EGG FLIP.

Beat two eggs with six tablespoonfuls sugar. Add to this one pint of beer or ale which has been heated to the boiling point. Beat to a froth with a rotary beater and serve sprinkled with a little nutmeg and ginger.

Bowlegs May Be Remedied by Daily Stretch

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Is it possible to correct bowleggedness in an adult?

A surprising number of women seem to have this affliction, I judge from the frequency of queries pertaining to crooked legs.

Just how much can be done to remold the leg lines symmetrically is problematic. Operations, I know, have been performed to straighten bowed legs, but some of these have been attended with terrific pain and results far from satisfactory. On the other hand, certain successes have resulted, too. But one would have to be of the stuff that heroes and martyrs are made of to undergo the surgical test. Personally, I would not recommend it, unless one were frightfully deformed because of the bowed legs.

Where the bowing is not too exaggerated, a certain kind of stretching exercise has been known to form a better line. I do find that young women are inclined to exaggerate this defect of theirs. The stretching work that one meets in stage dancing work is good, bar stretching, that is. And, of course, the younger one tackles this straightening job, the better. If one cannot afford the dancing lessons, she can do stretching exercises herself at home. No more instruction is needed than to lie on the floor and stretch and stretch and stretch the muscles of those legs and thighs. Feel the pull on the muscles as you stretch from hip to toe.

ures of the flesh, perhaps not just for religious reasons, but for more material ones, such as regaining girlish lines or losing that "morning after" look and feeling.

The Cenacle lectures were started about 14 years ago by the late Mrs. Edward I. Cudahy when the religious of the Cenacle came here from their retreat house at Lake Ronkonkomo, L. I., which was the home of Maude Adams and was given to the religious by her. She, by the way, still maintains a small house on the estate, so interested is she in the life and work of the order. The first lecture of this year's series will be given at the residence of Mr. Cudahy, 1501 State parkway, next Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The Rev. Wilfrid Parsons will talk about "Catholic Trends in Current Literature."

Mrs. Howard Linn to Enjoy Hunting.

Mrs. Howard Linn will be boarding a train Thursday for Middleburg, Va., where she will enjoy the hunting for about ten days and then she will move on to Aiken for more hunting. After a few days in Aiken she will proceed south to Miami for a visit before returning to Chicago.

Mrs. Alice Henderson Evans is leaving today for her home in Santa Fe after a busy ten days' stay at the Blackstone.

Mrs. Walter P. Paepcke is arriving at home today from a trip to Honolulu and a short visit in Palm Springs. Mr. Paepcke, who did not go to Palm Springs with his wife, arrived home early last week.

The Joseph T. Ryersons are leaving tomorrow to motor to Mexico with Cuernavaca as their destination. They will be away almost a month.

Those three airminded adventurers, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Porter and Mrs. Gilbert E. Keebler, who started off so gayly for Florida last Saturday in Mr. Porter's plane, spent the week-end [unintentionally] in the comparative quiet of Murfreesboro, Tenn., which is really not such a bad place to be "stuck" in, we understand.

Bad weather caused their downfall, so Mr. Keebler was told over the long distance telephone by his wife yesterday morning. She added that they expected to complete their trip to Florida last night. The Porters and Mrs. Gilbert will visit friends for ten days in and near Miami and then they will fly back to Chicago.

Mrs. Jaeger Pleased with League Admittance.

At least one young Chicago matron is pleased at the news that the Cedar Rapids Junior Service league has been admitted to the Association of National Junior Leagues of America, for she was the first president of the Cedar Rapids league. She is Mrs. George J. Jaeger Jr., formerly Ellen Douglas of Cedar Rapids. Miss Mary Stubbs, the present president of the Cedar Rapids league, made the announcement to her fellow members in Cedar Rapids last Saturday. Mrs. Jaeger was president from 1929 until her marriage in 1931.

A delightful treat is in store for the Chicago College club members at 11 o'clock this morning, for Mrs. Howard Van Doren Shaw is going to read her charming and humorous paper, "Traveling Alone."

Miss Kerby Gives Recital Tonight.

Many dinner parties will be held at Lake Forest this evening preceding the song recital Miss Marion Kerby is to give at Lake Forest college for the benefit of the Chicago Maternity center.

Mrs. Edward K. Welles and Mrs. Keith Carpenter are chairmen of the concert.

Hamilton Forrest, who arranged the music for "Wings of a Century," is to accompany Miss Kerby. Miss Kerby is visiting Mrs. Frederic W. Upham in Chicago.

Miss Janet Fairbank is inviting a number of friends to drop in at the Fairbanks' hospitable home on North State street Thursday night after the symphony concert to meet Miss Kerby and Mr. Forrest.

Tea for Founder of Kentucky Society.

The Kentucky society of the north shore is giving a tea this afternoon in the home of Mrs. William Avery in Evanston for Mrs. William A. Pusey, who with the late Mr. Eugene Buffington founded the society. The society supports the Hindman school in Hindman, Ky. Mrs. Hal C. Bangs, who takes care of publicity for the society, will not be among those present this afternoon, for she has gone to New York and Boston for a fortnight.

Chauncey B. Berland, William B. Greenlee, Mrs. H. Newton Hudson, William W. Hearther, Mrs. Chauncey Keep, Joseph E. Otis, and Albert A. Sprague are some of the boxholders for the Geographic society's meeting in Orchestra hall tonight, when Rockwell Kent will talk on "Cold Feet and Warm Hearts in Greenland."

John McCormack Concert Will Aid Sisters of Charity

Plans for a benefit concert to be given by John McCormack, Irish tenor, in the Auditorium on March 11 were discussed yesterday by 100 friends of the Sisters of Mercy at a meeting in Marshall Field's tearoom. Mrs. Walter F. Riley was chosen general chairman. Proceeds will be used by the Sisters in their work of caring for poor persons who are ill.

Mrs. K. L. Ames Sees Daughter on the Screen

Rosemary's Movie Will Be Released in Month.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—The widow of K. L. Ames Sr. of Chicago was in a projection room of the Western avenue lot of the Fox studios looking at a picture just completed which will be seen generally in a month or six weeks. The film was "I Believed in You," formerly titled "Disillusion," story of a young woman of good family who is swept away by a glib Greenwich Village pink and goes to live unconventionally among her new friend's companions. The actress in the principal rôle was Rosemary Ames, Chicago society girl doing her first film work. Mrs. Ames came out of the projection room somewhat excited, as can be imagined, and with her eyes ashine.

"How does it feel to be the mother of a new made movie star?" she was asked.

Her eyes still shining, but with suspicion of fun about the corners of her mouth, she said, "O, about the same."

"About the same as what?"

"Well, it's about the same for me. For years I was 'Snake' Ames' wife. Now I'll be Rosemary Ames' mother." [Snake Ames was one of the all-American football players of the past generation, playing at Princeton.]

Eric Von Stroheim is noted for directing pictures intended to show in nine or ten reels which run thirty reels or more [or, as his "Greed," in sixty reels]. His employers get the heebejeebies to cut his films down because all the material in 'em is well done and interesting. In fact, it's got so Von has a hard time getting a director's job any more because cutting his pictures is like putting away a favorite horse which has broken a leg; they can't bring themselves to do it, and yet they have to.

So any one will appreciate the small talk at Warners' where the studio recently acquired rights to film "Anthony Adverse," 1,400 page adventure story.

"Why not get Von Stroheim to direct it?" a pal suggested to Jack Warner. Warner nearly fainted.

Neat and Tailored Lines Make Practical Dress for Schoolgirl

GIRL'S DRESS.

Isn't this an adorable dress for girls, with the raglan shoulders and pretty cut? Navy blue cotton challis, printed in tiny red dots, with a collar of white pique, and the bow tie of red with large blue dots would be lovely, and the usual wash materials will, any of them, be suitable.

The pattern, No. 3464, comes in sizes 8, 10, 12, and 14 years.

Sweet Words of Romeos Make Wives Stray

BY DORIS BLAKE.

You'd think, with all the trouble there is in the world today, that a woman would be grateful for a good provider and a kind, even tempered mate, even though he does forget to tell her she's the cream in his coffee, the frosting on his cake!

But leave it to little "Eva" to go scurrying around raising trouble for herself. The man's good, she grants, good to her, good to the kids. But how barren is life, she wails, without a word of flattery year in and year out, and how great the temptation to give ear to the tributes of the next door Romeo! He, the next door philanderer, tells her she is a beauty. She is everything that's lovely.

Well, all we've got to say is that you're heading for a bad roundup, Eva, unless you tell the next door interloper to begone with his pretty whisperings. You wouldn't be the first woman to find out that she's passed up a cheap imitation for the real thing. It's darned easy for a man to tell a woman whom he's not called on to support, that her eyes are like stars, her hair a golden halo, her figure divine. For the long, steady grind take the man who uncomplainingly, goes on providing the ways and means of dressing that figure divinely and providing the shampoo money regularly, and the star-shadow for the eyelid, to say nothing of his other contributions.

It would be ideal, of course, if the mate would slip in a bit of flattery daily, since women crave it so much. But, then, few of us manage to acquire the ideal state in which nothing is lacking. After all, it is the highest form of flattery to be provided for handsomely by an ungrudging husband. We know no higher form of daily devotion, in fact. Invariably these good men ask little in return.

Incidentally, it's always a good idea to ask oneself, if a flattery starved wife, just how much of the same balm she is extending the one complained about.

Children Should Not Be Punished for Each Error

Mercy More Effective Than Severity.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

A crash was heard in the kitchen. 'Ouch!" said father.

"What was that, honey?" called out mother.

The young daughter came into the living room. "O, mother," she said, with a woebegone look, "I broke one of the best sherbet glasses! I'm awfully sorry."

"Never mind, dear—I know you are. I broke one myself last night when I was washing the dishes."

Are you just as considerate when the children have an accident at the table, or break something, as you are when a grownup member of the family does it? You should be—only more so.

Why? Well, for at least two reasons. One is that children can't be expected to be always cautious, always on guard.

Then, they aren't as deft or accustomed as grown people, so they can't help having more mishaps than an adult does.

Children have as much right to a percentage of human error as grownups have—more, in fact, because they're younger and have less experience to steer by. And they dislike being called down, often more than grownups do—and are especially sensitive when it is done before people.

Children have to learn to be careful and deft, of course, but there are many relatives and parents who could "lay off" the young ones they know to the great happiness of the latter.

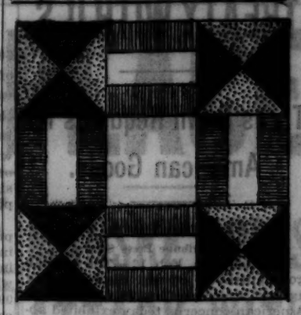
English Roads Motif of Today's Neat Quilt Block



LONDON ROADS

BY NANCY CABOT.

In years long past were built the famous English roads that called to mind this attractive quilt block. It was pieced of triangles and squares by one of our early New England settlers who, in a reminiscent mood, arranged the pieces to typify the roads leading to "London town."

For a quilt pattern in this design send 5 cents in coin or stamps to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service office, One South Dearborn.

DULL, LIFELESS HAIR NOW THING OF PAST

"YOU SAY IT'S CALLED GERAL, AND THAT IT WILL ACTUALLY GIVE MY HAIR THE BEAUTY OF YOUTHFUL GIRLHOOD?"

"YES,—GERAL IS THE ORIGINAL MAKE-UP FOR THE HAIR. IT DOESN'T GIVE AN ARTIFICIAL LOOK. JUST RESTORES NATURAL BEAUTY."

Will you try this easy way to have beautiful hair?

To allow dull, faded looking hair to steal away your attractiveness and appeal is now utter folly. You can end this handicap in a moment. Just comb your hair with Geral—the original make-up for the hair. Geral is not a dye, bleach or henna—nor does it contain oil. It beautifies the hair as rouge, powder and lipstick beautify the face. No matter what the color of your hair—blonde, auburn, brown, brunette or gray—Geral will impart NOT an artificial look but the natural life, sheen and softness of youthful girlhood. Obtain Geral at all good toilet counters and drug stores.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

Mr. Sims is universally acclaimed the greatest living contract and auction player. He was captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four, now disbanded, and has won twenty-four national championships since 1924. These articles are based on the Sims system, which includes the one-over-one principle which the Sims group of players was the first to employ and develop.

YESTERDAY I discussed the inferences your partner may draw from your original one no-trump. These inferences are completely destroyed by the pariah who bids one aimless no-trump simply because his hand seems to warrant a bid and he can't find a biddable suit. If the hand really calls for a bid, there is always a biddable suit somewhere in it, even if it's only four cards to the queen. If worse comes to worst, you can make an artificial bid in a minor with some such bidding as three cards to the ace, king. This is far preferable to an unsound no-trump opening bid. Simply because you have a strong hand, however, does not mean that you should make an opening bid of one no-trump. That is a fallacy which has sprung up since I began writing on my system. People say, "Sims says I should have a good hand to bid one no-trump. I have a good hand, therefore I shall bid one no-trump." This is as absurd as the "Mary is a girl, Mary wears a red dress, therefore all girls wear red dresses" argument.

P. HAL SIMS.

I assume that you have picked up a hand with three and one-half or more primary tricks, not contaminated with a singleton or worthless doubleton.

The most important factor in your decision on what to bid is whether you have a "declarer" or "dummy" type of hand. In other words, from your hand, should you or your partner be the declarer? In my system, I advocate bidding which is synchronized with the probable ultimate line of play. For example, take the following hand:

Sp. A x x	Di. A K x x
Hts. x x x	Cl. A K x

The strength is more than sufficient to bid one trump, but do you want to make that bid? Your partner presumably has the jacks, the queen-tens, possibly a tenace in hearts. He should receive the benefit of the opening lead. If you bid one diamond, he will bid one no-trump, and be the ultimate declarer at probably no trumps. Such a policy often makes a difference of one or two tricks in the actual play. Here is another hand:

Sp. A Q 10	Di. Q x x
Hts. K Q 10	Cl. A J x x

This is an example of a minimum one no trump. The hand contains three and a half primary tricks, plus

Sp. A 10	Di. Q x x
Hts. K Q 10	Cl. A Q J x x

and you have a one-club hand. If your partner responds with one no-trump, you can bid two no-trump, the strongest kind of an invitation, and he will then contract for game in no-trumps even with a weak hand.

If I firmly believe that my partner should play the hand at no-trump, I will maneuver around indefinitly, trying to force him to bid the no-trump. For example:

Sp. K J x x	Di. K Q J x
Hts. A x	Cl. A x x

The proper bid on this hand is a diamond. Suppose my partner holds the following and bids a heart:

Sp. Q x x	Di. x x
Hts. K J x x x	Cl. Q x x

My next bid would seem to be two no-trumps. But what have I to gain by playing the hand? I know my partner has some values. The heart lead through my holding cannot hurt me. A club lead may be to the queen in my partner's hand, or even the jack-ten. Therefore, I bid a spade. Now my partner bids one no-trump, which I raise to two, and he should raise to three.

If I can't bid another suit, I may give a strong jump rebid in my original suit to make my partner bid no-trump. At times I may raise him in his suit with minimum effort in it with this same purpose.

DANDRUFF
Ends Overnight

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get some plain, ordinary liquid Arvon; apply it at night when retiring, using enough to moisten the scalp and rubbing it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid Arvon at any drug store. It won't cost you more than thirty-five cents (35c). This simple remedy never fails.

Paris Suggests Refined Bath Toweling as Smart Fabric for Summer Formals

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The first of the summer evening gown fashions brought out by Paris dressmakers make use of familiar material. Jeanne Lanvin is showing stunning frocks made out of a new cotton that belongs to the family of bath towelings, used heretofore for brisk rubbing after ablutions. The material, it is true, is refined and more closely woven, but it is toweling all right, and cotton toweling at that. You've no idea how charmingly it makes up, nor how smart it looks.

The first of the bath toweling evening gowns of Lanvin is shown herewith. It is white, and has Lanvin's special corded bertha that gives grace to its shoulders. This bertha is dipped down in a deep U in back to flank the decollete and buttons on two big black buttons below the waistline.

The dress is slim and fitted with a wide set-in girdle of the material at the waistline. The skirt is ankle length in front and has a square paneled train at the back.

50 YEARS A MARTYR TO CONSTIPATION

But Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brought Welcome Relief

Read this splendid letter from Mrs. Haynes:

"For 50 years I have been a martyr to constipation. Have tried every remedy under the sun.

"One day I read an account of some one who had been relieved by ALL-BRAN, but I thought 'What was the use of me trying anything more when all else had failed?'

"A while after, I read it again. That time I thought I would try it; it would do no harm anyway.

"I began with a small dish of your ALL-BRAN for breakfast, and wonderful to say, I never need to take any physic at all now. How I wish other poor sufferers from constipation could be persuaded to try it."—Mrs. Sarah Haynes, 138 Cedarwood Terrace, Rochester, N. Y.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" and vitamin B to aid regular habits. Also iron for the blood.

This "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. It's so much safer than taking patent medicines! Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. Severe cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Get this delicious ready-to-eat cereal from your grocer. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

such a good time

Jane writes her best friend: "Mother's here you know. Came last Saturday. Mother said: 'You're serving Hills Bros. Coffee, of course?' Well, I'd been using something I thought was cheaper—not so good. Mother sort of snorted. You know how she does. Said: 'Cheaper? My dear daughter, although you may have to pay a few pennies more, don't you know Hills Bros. Coffee actually goes farther because it's made of the finest green coffees? You ought to think about the price per cup. That's the way you drink coffee—by the cup. Not by the pound.' So we got Hills Bros. Coffee and had such a good time. Now we're having Hills Bros. Coffee all the time. John says it's swell. And best of all—Hills Bros. Coffee is not costing—cup for cup—a bit more than the 'bargain counter' coffees I was using!"

CHARGE LATVIA VIOLATES TRADE TREATY WITH U.S.

Turns Down Requests for American Goods.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Feb. 12.—The Latvian government is openly discriminating against American imports. Agents of American concerns today exhibited applications for American goods which have been turned down by the import regulation commission. Members of the commission have advised them to direct their purchases to other countries, preferably Germany or England.

These agents, who have been working hard since 1921 to develop a market for American products here report that the trade agreement existing between the two countries is not worth the paper it is written on. They have furnished the American representation in Riga with abundant evidence that the Letts have violated the "most favored nation clause" of the treaty. They suggest America should annul this treaty and negotiate a new one, if possible a reciprocal agreement.

France Confers Honors.

Latvia's unfavorable attitude towards American goods is due to a number of reasons. England, France, and Germany are using strong pressure to enlarge the local market for their products. England and Germany buy large quantities of Latvian butter, flax, and lumber, the chief exports on established quotas.

France, whose purchases are negligible, succeeds in influencing the Letts through diplomacy, lavishly entertaining the budding Latvian society, profusely distributing orders such as the Legion of Honor, and clever agitation and propaganda.

The French influence upon Latvia is enormous and much of it is directed against the United States. Latvia's attitude concerning her debt to America—she has adopted the token payment system—is largely due to French influence. In local diplomatic circles France is also regarded as the leader of the European economic war against America.

U. S. Purchases Decline.

The Letts also claim they cannot enlarge their purchases from America because of a passive trade balance. Government statistics show American purchases here have grown smaller in recent years. However, like many statistics they fail to give a true picture. Latvian tobacco imports, which come from Denmark, in reality hail from America.

On the other hand America imports Irish and Belgian linens manufactured from Lettish flax. In previous years the Letts bought large quantities of American grain. Today their farmers grow sufficient crops to supply the home market.

The Latvian foreign trade balance never has been favorable, with the exception of the year 1932, the result of rigorous restrictions enacted late in 1931 when the depression began to be felt here. The government made strong efforts to cut imports in 1933, but this proved impossible, as local industry developed and demanded raw materials. Protected by high tariffs the industries required 25 per cent more raw materials in 1933 than in 1932.

At present the economic situation is showing steady improvement. Latvia had an excellent crop last year. The moratorium which the government granted farmers in December, 1931, increased their purchasing power. All lines of business report larger turnovers.

PERSIAN TRADE ENVOYS TO VISIT U. S.; SEEK RAILWAY EQUIPMENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 12.—A delegation of 20 Persian officials of the departments of national economy, finance, and railways will leave Teheran at the end of the month for France, Germany, England, and America. The delegation will be headed by an undersecretary of state, who will be empowered to sign contracts and make terms for purchases of railway equipment.

The terms will be strictly cash, as a provision for payment was budgeted in March, 1933, by earmarking the imperial monopolies on sugar and tea, which is estimated at about $22,500,000. These monopolies will also be earmarked for purchases abroad in 1935 and 1936.

The nondepreciation of Persian currency and the absence of a national debt enable Persia to demand a discount for cash. The delegates will buy locomotives, rolling stock, gear for repairing sheds and stations, equipment and materials for bridges, overhead power signals and dynamos.

NURSE DECLARES POISON CHARGES WERE RATIONAL

Greenwood, Miss., Feb. 12.—(AP)—The nurse who attended Dr. John Preston Kennedy, Greenwood surgeon, during his strange illness in a Jackson hospital last summer, testified today in the murder trial of Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean, that he was "rational" on the night he made a dying declaration to his brother charging Dr. Dean with giving him a poisoned whisky highball.

Miss Artie Mae Cates, night nurse, gave the testimony as a state witness after most of the day had been consumed in conferences between state and defense counsel, who reached an agreement to "swap looks" at their respective evidence.

The defense agreed to allow the prosecutors to read 145 love letters from Dr. Kennedy to Dr. Dean, which are being held for introduction, in exchange for a chance to scan the state's records of the hospital dealing with Kennedy's last illness.

ATTEMPT TO KILL EDITOR; FIRED ON FROM AN AUTO

Eureka, Cal., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Two bullets fired from a moving automobile crashed through a window of the Humboldt Standard, afternoon newspaper, in what police said was an attempt to kill Don O'Kane, managing editor and assistant publisher, here tonight.

O'Kane, sitting with his back to the window, was badly cut by flying glass. The steel-jacketed bullets, later dug from the wall, missed him by inches, police said.

The editor, who was talking to his brother, James, an oil company employé, and Harvey Winters, linotype operator, ran to the street, jumped in his own car and gave chase to the fleeing automobile. O'Kane said he lost it in the traffic as he was held back by lights at boulevard intersections, and could describe it only as a black sedan.

Collector Admits Theft of $1,000 from Employers

George E. McHie, 35 years old, 7207 Maryland avenue, was arrested by police last night on a warrant charging him with larceny by bailee of approximately $1,000 from his former employers, the H. W. Bills Realty company, for whom he had worked as a collector. Police said that McHie, married and father of four children, admitted spending the money on another woman.

UNION PACIFIC ORDERS 3 MORE SPEED TRAINS

Takes Delivery on First of "Streamliners."

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.

Like a great yellow eel, the first fully streamlined train in America glided out of the shops of the Pullman Car and Manufacturing corporation yesterday and whizzed up and down a half mile of track to the satisfaction of its new owner, the Union Pacific railroad.

Electrically driven by its own oil engine, this projectile on wheels is designed to deliver a maximum speed of 110 miles an hour and a cruising speed of 90 miles an hour. W. Averill Harriman, chairman of the board of the Union Pacific, in accepting delivery from the Pullman staff, announced that his railroad had ordered three larger trains of the same design with the aim of clipping 20 to 24 hours off the present 56 hour schedule from Chicago to the west coast.

88 M. P. H. in Tests.

In preliminary tests over the Michigan Central tracks to Michigan City last week, No. M-10000, as the new train is styled, developed a speed of 88 miles an hour. On these trips, Union Pacific officials said, the speed was purposely held down in order not to break any records on another line.

This afternoon the speedster will leave for Washington, D. C., over the Baltimore and Ohio, to be inspected Thursday by President Roosevelt and his railroad coördinator, Joseph B. Eastman.

If M-10000 gives Union Pacific patrons all the speed, comfort, and economies expected, competing roads, it was said, may soon have to rush to Washington for federal loans to remake their own rolling stock. Thus the long delayed revolution in railroad transportation may be at hand.

Racer and a Limousine.

The implications of that revolution were graphically illustrated when M-10000 came shooting down the track yesterday to halt beside a present day sleeping coach—a racer beside an old fashioned limousine.

High built and massive on its rugged beams, the sleeping coach was designed to accommodate fifteen or twenty passengers, and weighed 160,000 pounds. In actual operation, this coach would run in a string of ten or twelve coaches as heavy as itself, pulled by a locomotive weighing 316,000 pounds.

The low, sleek train beside it, with its mail, baggage and passenger compartments, is designed to carry 116 passengers. It, too, weighs just 160,000 pounds, half of it in the fuel tanks and motor plant at the forward end.

Harriman Gives Praise.

In a speech Mr. Harriman tossed a bouquet to Charles F. Kettering, president of the General Motors Research corporation, designers of the 12 cylinder, 600 horse power engine which drives the dynamo supplying power to the new train. He tossed another to R. A. Hunt, president of the Aluminum Company of America, producers of duralumin, the copper-aluminum alloy one third as heavy as steel, which saves the weight in M-10000.

As he spoke, pneumatic hammers rang and acetylene torches flared in the nearby shops where the Pullman interests were working on the three trains yet to come. One of these, Mr. Harriman revealed, will be a six car job and two will be nine car jobs, all equipped with berths and all driven by diesel engines built by the Winton Engine corporation, subsidiary of General Motors.

Mr. Harriman said the impending revolution was "necessary to restore passenger traffic to the rails and gain new business."

Road's President Speaks.

Carl R. Gray, president of the road, following Mr. Harriman, said it was not a coincidence that the occasion was Abraham Lincoln's birthday. It was Lincoln, he recalled, who by executive decree established the first transcontinental railroad in the United States.

As a sharp wind pelted rain on his white head, Mr. Gray recalled another great day in railroad history—May 10, 1869, when the Union Pacific and Central Pacific were joined by a golden spike at Promontory Point, near Ogden, Utah.

Following the Washington inspection, it was announced, M-10000 will visit Baltimore on Feb. 17, Pittsburgh on Feb. 19, and Detroit on Feb. 21. The train will return to Chicago for a public view at the Chicago and North Western terminal on Feb. 23 and 24, before starting a 42 day tour of the west on March 1.

IRON SHIP PLANS RUBBER NECKS' TOUR OF ARCTIC

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 12.—(AP)—The S. S. Victoria, one of the few iron-hulled schooners in service, is to turn her nose into the arctic icepack on a pleasure cruise announced today as a chance for the average man to take a conducted tour of Bering sea.

Besides East cape, Siberia, points of call include Dutch harbor in the dreary Pribiloffs, where the giant seal herds come to mate, guarded by United States coast guard cutters; Kotzebue, where Indians and Eskimos north of the arctic circle come to trade; St. Michael, which was headquarters for the Yukon gold rush, and Nome, magic city of gold.

The Victoria will skirt the Diomede islands, which anthropologists believe were the stepping stones of the Eskimos and American Indians when they migrated from Asia.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The boys on the west side began traveling down the long, long trail which leads to Golden Gloves last night.

When the firing ceased shortly after midnight at the 132d Regiment armory, Madison and Rockwell streets, more than 100 of them were a third of the way along the route which leads toward the Tournament of Champions. More than 100 others—game fellows, all of them—had fallen by the wayside after they had given up all the fight they had in them.

There seldom has been such exciting fighting in a Golden Gloves meet. Knockout followed knockout. Great boxing skill—feints and shifts and jabs—which would have been a credit to Corbett brought victory to others.

More Thrills Tonight.

And that's only half the story.

The fighting breaks out on the west side again tonight at 7 o'clock and will continue until 100 more boys have been eliminated. Again tomorrow night the west siders will hammer away at each other until eight open division and eight novice champions are crowned.

The Golden Gloves warfare also opens on the near south side tomorrow night, when the sectional tournament begins at the Savoy Athletic club, 4733 South Park way.

The West Side sectional field was so large that the bouts were run off in two rings. Fighting started in both of them at 7 o'clock. When eight knockouts came in the first 14 bouts, and there were thrilling finishes in the others, the crowd was in a turmoil and was up cheering most of the time.

Cheer? You Can't Help It!

The excited spectators were gathered in a spacious auditorium which was ideal for such an entertainment. From all the 5,000 seats there was a perfect view of everything that was happening in both rings. But to sink back into one's chair and lazily enjoy the proceedings simply can't be done at Golden Gloves tournaments. There is too much going on. For instance, in the first 75 bouts last night there were 44 knockouts. How's anybody going to stay in his chair while all that is happening?

The happiest boy of the night, perhaps, was little Paddy Gill, a novice featherweight representing the Catholic Youth's Organization and a genuine Irishman if there ever was one on the west side.

It was Paddy's good right hand which Referee Davy Miller lifted to Jimmy Had a Nickel!

But he didn't have it long. No sir, Jimmy is a real boxing fan, and when he read that he could put that nickel with some other nickels and see the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions at Chicago Stadium he didn't hesitate.

He went down to the Tribune Public Service office, 1 S. Dearborn street (or maybe he went to Tribune Tower) and bought ringside tickets for Feb. 25, 27, and 28. It didn't take so many nickels—only $1.10 a copy. And Jimmy could have bought tickets for 66 cents, or even 40 cents, and still had reserved seats.

Jimmy's girl likes to see Golden Gloves (boxing's biggest show) too. So Jimmy got seats for the finale at the Stadium March 9, and had his choice of paying $3.30, $2.20, $1.65, $1.10, or 55 cents.

What's that—you live out of town? Just mail your order to Golden Gloves Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago. Make checks payable to The Chicago Tribune.

WHITE SOX SEND BILLY SULLIVAN TO MILWAUKEE

Brewers Also Get Pitcher Fieber.

W. Joseph [Billy] Sullivan, a general handy man for the White Sox for the last two seasons, has been released on option to the Milwaukee club of the American Association along with Clarence Fieber, left handed pitcher, President Lou Comiskey announced yesterday.

At the same time Comiskey announced that John Huck, a right handed pitcher from Chicago who was picked up as a free agent, and Morgan Snyder, rookie catcher from Topeka, had returned signed contracts.

First Trip to Minors.

Sullivan's passing to Milwaukee marks the former Notre Dame star's first experience in the minor leagues. He came to the White Sox in June of 1931 heralded as an infielder. His foremost recommendation at that time was his parentage, his father, Billy Sullivan, having been the Sox star catcher in the days of Big Ed Walsh.

After a short trial at third base, Sullivan was shifted to first base. On his first appearance in New York, Joe McCarthy, manager of the Yankees, said Sullivan was the best first base prospect that had come to the major leagues in years. Sullivan, however, was able to evince big time ability in only one department, hitting.

Objects to Catching.

His success as a first baseman was no more marked than it had been as a third baseman and Manager Lew Fonseca attempted to make a catcher out of him. Sullivan did not want to follow in the footsteps of his father and the following year he was again used at first base most of the time. He played in 93 games in 1932 and hit .316.

Last year he joined the White Sox late in June again for the third time, finishing out his studies at Notre Dame before reporting. He was given another chance at catching, but did not come up to expectations and fell to .192 in hitting.

Thinks He'll Make Good.

Fonseca still believes Sullivan can be developed into a major league player of sufficient fielding ability to make it possible to take advantage of his natural hitting power. He favored sending Sullivan to a minor league where he could play regularly and still not be too far from 35th and Shields in the event that he was needed in a hurry on the south side.

Sullivan is an accredited lawyer in Indiana and recently returned from a honeymoon trip to Australia.

Fieber was with the Sox for a time last spring but was returned to the Oakland team of the Pacific coast league, where he won five games while losing nine. He is said to have a world of speed and change of pace, but absolutely no sense of direction.

The release of Sullivan and Fieber leaves 35 men on the White Sox roster, one of the largest ever taken to a major league training camp.

Snyder Hits .319.

Snyder, a 22 year old resident of Clay Center, Kas., hit .319 with the Topeka club last year. He bats left handed, and with the departure of Sullivan will be third man in the Sox catching department. The other two are John Pasek, obtained from Philadelphia during the winter, and Mervyn Shea, who was with St. Louis and Boston last season, and who probably will be the first string receiver. Snyder is said to possess one of the best arms in baseball. He set something of a record last year at Topeka with 111 assists.

Yarosz Whips Smith to Keep Pennsylvania Title

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Teddy Yarosz tonight successfully defended his Pennsylvania state middleweight title against Jimmy Smith of Philadelphia. The champion, twice conqueror of Vince Dundee, wearer of the world's middleweight crown, led the challenger throughout the entire 15 rounds. Yarosz won the unanimous decision of the judges and the referee, Al Grayber, to win the first 15 round title bout in the boxing history of Pittsburgh.

Schmeling and Steve Hamas Box Tonight

New York, Feb. 12.—[Special.]—A continuation of the revolt against the overlords of the heavyweight division is anticipated in Philadelphia tomorrow night when Max Schmeling meets Steve Hamas, former Penn State football player.

Charlie Massera, by his showing against King Levinsky, earned a high place in the heavyweight standings. Hamas has a chance to do the same thing. Charlie Harvey, his manager, has a hunch Steve will hang his powerful right on the German's chin to win by a knockout.

Hamas' Task Harder.

Hamas has a more difficult assignment than Massera. Schmeling is a shorter and harder puncher and a much better boxer than Levinsky. However, it is likely that Schmeling cannot take punishment as well as the Kingfish. Also, Schmeling has been inactive for eight months, ever since Max Baer stopped him last summer.

Word has been sent out from Schmeling's camp at Pompton lakes that he is a new Schmeling. For one thing, he has been doing roadwork in the orthodox style, instead of limiting himself to short walks in front of his training quarters. It also is reported Max is going to return to the slambang style of attack, using straight rights, that brought him to the top so quickly when he first came to this country.

Decides Future for Max.

The Hamas bout, to be staged in Philadelphia's convention hall, will be Schmeling's first indoor performance in more than five years.

Schmeling's future depends on the outcome. If he wins, Max will meet Paulino Uzcudun in Barcelona in April, having been guaranteed the equivalent of $40,000. He hopes to meet Max Baer here next June. Should he be defeated by Hamas, Schmeling is almost certain to quit the game.

Also there is talk of a Carnera-Schmeling fight in Rome later in the year. Should that fight be staged, it would be the first time in Queensberry history that a former heavyweight champion was given a chance to regain the title in a foreign ring.

Pimlico Keeps $25,000 Stake for Preakness

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 12.—(AP)—The Maryland Jocky club announced today that the $25,000 stake for the Preakness, Pimlico's richest race, would remain unchanged this year. The stake was cut to $25,000 from $50,000 in 1932.

In addition, the $5,000 Dixie stakes and the $2,500 Pimlico Nursery will be the same as last year.

Nominations for this trio of Pimlico's star attractions of the spring meet, which begins April 30 and ends May 12, will close March 17, according to Matt L. Daiger, general manager and secretary of the Jocky club.

The Preakness, an event for three year old colts and fillies over a mile and three-sixteenths, is to be run the last day of the meeting.

BADGERS NAME NEW SPORT HEAD; KEEP IT A SECRET

Madison, Wis., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—The athletic board of the University of Wisconsin today appointed an athletic director for the university, subject to the approval of the board of regents, but the selection is veiled in secrecy.

The board of regents will meet March 14.

Wisconsin has been without an athletic director nearly two years, or since the time Irv Uteritz, who succeeded George Little, tendered his resignation after serving about two months. During these two years the duties have been handled by Prof. Andrew T. Weaver, chairman of the athletic board, and J. D. Phillips, business manager of the university.

Among those believed likely to get the job are George Downer, publicity director; Clarence [Doc] Spears, football coach, and Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, basketball coach.

Klein Escapes, Companion Hurt in Auto-Trolley Crash

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—Chuck Klein, outfielder for the Chicago Cubs, escaped injury when his automobile collided with a street car last night. His companion, Jess Pritchett, bowling alley owner, suffered a severe cut over his eye.

Dodgers Seek Successor to Carey: Report

New York, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Reports that the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National Baseball league were considering the release of Max Carey as manager were given wide credence in sports circles today, but there was no unanimity of opinion as to his successor.

One group believes Casey Stengel, Brooklyn coach for two years and popular with Dodger fans, has the inside track, while another is just as sure that Martin Joseph [Marty] McManus, one time Boston Red Sox leader, will get the job if Carey is displaced.

The Dodger front office parried all queries as to the situation by pointing out that Carey was under a one year contract to manage the club through 1934.

Bob Quinn, general manager, from his sick bed at Boston, denied that Carey was to be ousted.

"Nothing to it at all," he declared. "Carey signed a manager's contract that will hold through the entire 1934 season. I talked with him only a week ago and I am sure he knows just how he fits with the Brooklyn club."

CARNERA'S BOUT WITH LOUGHRAN TO BE POSTPONED

Miami, Fla., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Postponement of the Carnera-Loughran heavyweight championship bout here, scheduled for Feb. 22, was announced late tonight by Matchmaker Jimmy Johnston of the Madison Square Garden, who said the fight would be set back four or five days because of competing attractions.

Johnston said Francis M. Miller, matchmaker of record; Bill Duffy, Carnera's manager, and Joe Smith, manager of Challenger Tommy Loughran, would appear before the Miami boxing commission tomorrow and make a formal request for setting up the fight date.

Johnston added that the commission, if it agrees to the request to delay the scrap, would be asked to assign either the 26th, 27th, or 28th as the new date.

Peden Confers with Indiana Committee

Fort Wayne, Ind., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Readjustments of a few details "at both ends tonight prevented Don Peden, Ohio university football coach, and Indiana university officials from reaching an agreement through which Peden would become head football coach at the Bloomington school.

Z. G. Clevenger, Indiana director of athletics, said following a three hour conference here tonight, that all angles of the situation, including salary, length of contract, etc., had been gone into thoroughly, but that no agreement could be reached.

Clevenger indicated he expected to meet Peden for a further conference later this week.

Others at the meeting tonight were President William Lowe Bryan of Indiana university, and Charles M. Niezer of Fort Wayne, and Judge Ora L. Wildermuth of Gary, members of the university board of trustees.

The conferees declined to reveal on what points they were unable to agree with Peden, but evinced no discouragement at failure to sign the former University of Illinois star tonight.

Peden remained here tonight, and Judge Wildermuth went to Gary. Dr. Bryan and Clevenger will return to Bloomington, Ind., tomorrow.

Selection of Peden as the new Indiana coach was reported after E. C. Hayes, head coach since 1931, agreed to retire and devote his attention to track.

DE ORO DEFEATS LAYTON, 50-46, IN CUE TOURNEY

Hoppe Beats Matsuyama, 50 to 44.

New York, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Alfredo De Oro, 71 year old conqueror of the defending champion, Welker Cochran, tonight scored his second major upset of the world's three cushion billiard tournament as he defeated Johnny Layton of Sedalia, Mo., 50-46. The defeat was Layton's first in four matches and dropped him into a tie for fourth place with Cochran.

De Oro, a champion before many of the current contenders were born, ran out the game in the fifty-first inning with a carefully played three cushion bank shot.

The veteran Cuban had only one long run, a cluster of 6 in the thirty-third inning, but his consistency brought results. He missed in only 22 frames and then many times left Layton with little to shoot at.

Hoppe Beats Matsuyama.

Willie Hoppe defeated Kinrey Matsuyama, 50 to 40, to go into a two way tie with J. N. Bozeman Jr. of Vallejo, Cal. Each has won four straight matches. The defeat was Matsuyama's third in five starts.

Although he had only one big inning, a high run of 7 in the twenty-third, Hoppe played his same style of consistent billiards to run out in the forty-fourth frame with an unfinished two. He failed to score in only 13 innings and played 7 deliberate safeties to hold Matsuyama at bay whenever the little Japanese threatened.

In the afternoon game Allen Hall of Chicago turned back Tiff Denton, Kansas City veteran, 50 to 46, in one of the tightest games of the tournament.

Hall Has Battle.

Winning was no easy task for Hall, who suffered his only defeat at the hands of Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia. Denton, with a run of nine in the 15th inning, jumped into an early lead, and it was not until the 52d inning that Hall was able to go to the front.

A high run of six in the 39th inning enabled the 33 year old Chicagoan gradually to cut down Denton's lead, and with eight points, scored from the 48th to the 53d frames, he took a 46 to 44 lead. But Denton, who held the title 11 years ago, tied the score in the 55th with a run of two. Hall, after playing safe in his half of the inning, ran four in his next three attempts to complete the game in 58 innings.

Arthur Thurnblad, also of Chicago, gave an even greater display of billiards to win his third straight match after three consecutive defeats. A barrage of great shots came off the cue of the lanky Chicagoan, who held the title in 1931, as he battled from behind to defeat Reiselt, 50 to 47 in 64 innings.

Northwestern surprised the Iowa basketball team last night by defeating the conquerors of Purdue, 35 to 29, at Patten gym. Ed Manske, Northwestern guard, was the deciding factor in the triumph, scoring five field goals in the first half and two in the second for a total of 14 points. Iowa made 13 of its points on free throws.

Northwestern played like a team inspired, matching Iowa's much vaunted speed with brilliant marksmanship in which Manske's long shots were outstanding. Iowa scored first on Bastian's free throw, but Lyle Fisher immediately gave Northwestern the lead with a field goal, and from there on it was never headed. Northwestern led 22 to 13 at the half.

The defeat dropped Iowa from second to third place in the Big Ten. Northwestern moved up from a tie for fifth place with Indiana into a tie for fourth with Minnesota.

Purple Revamp Lineup.

Northwestern played with a revamped lineup in which Nelson Culver was shifted from guard to forward and Al Kawal played guard. This combination added the punch the Wildcats have lacked. They played good defensive ball, seldom giving Moffitt and Bastian, the Hawkeye sharpshooters, a chance to get set for a shot, and proved its offensive prowess.

The Wildcats owed their success to Manske's shooting. Time and again he nipped an Iowa rally with one of his long tosses. Five of his seven field goals came in the first half. He took only six shots in this period. In the last half he scored in two of four attempts. The ability of Lyle Fisher, Northwestern center, to outjump Bastian was another important item in the victory.

Fouls Mar Game.

The game was marred by frequent fouls, 28 being called on the two teams. Two Northwestern players, Fisher and Kawal, were ejected on four personals.

PURDUE, 51; MICHIGAN, 20

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—Michigan suffered the worst basketball defeat in its athletic history tonight when Purdue triumphed over it, 51 to 20, in a Big Ten conference game. The rout was accomplished before 3,500 fans, who had come mainly to see Purdue play.

Michigan's points were scored almost entirely while Purdue substitutes were in the game. Purdue made 23 field goals and five out of 11 free throws. Lowery, guard, led the attack in the first half, and in the final period Fisher, Cottom, and Eddy piled up points.

Michigan outscored Purdue three points to two at the opening of the second half, making the score 29 to 13. Cottom and Eddy then returned to the game and Purdue ran its total to 51 before Michigan scored again.

COACHES SING PRAISES OF NEW FOOTBALL CODE

Zuppke, Layden Approve Passing Rules.

New York, Feb. 12.—(AP)—A cross section of coaching opinion, covering the nation, registered almost unanimous approval today of the 1934 changes in the football rule book.

Decision of the national rules committee in Atlanta yesterday to limit major changes to two—elimination of the five yard penalty for two successive incomplete forward passes as well as the touchback penalty on the first pass heaved unsuccessfully over an opponent's goal line—was in accord with that of the special rules committee of the coaches themselves.

Pond Voices Objection.

For the far west, Howard Jones of Southern California, and C. E. [Tiny] Thornhill of Stanford, gave their approval; Bill Alexander of Georgia Tech and Dan McGugin of Vanderbilt spoke for the south; Bob Zuppke of Illinois, and Elmer Layden of Notre Dame for the central west. Only Raymond [Ducky] Pond, new head coach at Yale, had an objection, and that was on elimination of the five yard pass penalty.

"I'm highly in favor of the rule which permits a first pass into the end zone without loss of the ball," said Jones. "It will make the defense stay back and give the offensive team a better scoring chance inside the 20 yard line which I had felt was one of the needs of the game.

"Elimination of the penalty for a second incompleted pass also should prevent the defense from massing up close to the line of scrimmage."

Help to Quarter Backs.

Thornhill thought the committee "took an intelligent forward step" in making the forward pass changes.

"I believe it will speed up the game, aid the offense, and encourage quarter backs to open up," he said.

"Changes in the rules, especially that permiting a pass over the goal line to count as a down instead of a touchback, will help the offense and therefore should be commended," Zuppke said.

Bill Alexander, host to the committee in Atlanta, said he thought the change in the status of the first pass thrown into the end zone was the only real one that would concern the public and their enjoyment of the game.

"It should bring about increased scoring," he said.

"The penalty inserted years ago on a second successive incomplete forward was made to discourage wild passing, but it had just the opposite effect, and therefore was eliminated.

"The new wording of the punt rule, enabling one player to hold the ball while another kicks, will be beneficial, especially after a safety or a fair catch, as an aid to longer, more accurate kicking."

How About the Passer?

McGugin, Vanderbilt's veteran head coach, liked the changes that opened up the game more, but said he had hoped the committee would do something to protect the passer.

Layden, new head coach of Notre Dame, said: "A more open game will result by the elimination of the 5 yard penalty rule on passes and the lifting of the touchback regulation. The latter will relieve quarter backs of much unfair criticism. The committee's action strengthens the offensive weapons of every team and opens an avenue to a more open game."

YOST PLEASED

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—Changes in the football rules, voted yesterday and calculated to aid the team with the ball, were praised today by Athletic Director Fielding H. Yost of Michigan, who had predicted that unless the code were revised the offense in a few years would be at the mercy of the defense. Yost is a member of the rules committee, representing a district made up of several states in the central west.

"The change permitting one forward pass over the goal line without charging anything more than a down to the offensive team is progressive," Yost said. "Under the old rule the quarter back calling for such a pass took the chance of losing at least 60 yards for his team, 20 on the touchback and an additional 40 on the opposition's punt. Now he can keep the defense guessing as to whether he will really try one pass or employ the running game."

O. K. WITH HANLEY

Dick Hanley, Northwestern university football coach, yesterday expressed his satisfaction over the rule changes made by the national football rules committee in Atlanta, Ga., Sunday. The Wildcat coach said:

"I am very much pleased to learn the rules committee action. I believe the changes will open up the game and will give the offense a better chance."

Catholic High school of Joliet, leader in the east section of the Chicago Catholice High School league, scored its ninth consecutive victory last night, defeating St. Rita, 32 to 8, at St. Rita gymnasium.

St. Rita could not break through the perfect Catholic defense, and scored only one basket. Muhr, a forward, made it. Other point scorers for St. Rita were Badke, center, Jackowski, guard, and Halpin, forward.

McGann, Simon, and Matasezac led the Catholic attack. McGann contributed four baskets and two free throws; Matasezac four field goals, and Simon, four field goals and one free throw. It was St. Rita's fifth league defeat.

De La Salle and Leo were victors in two other heavyweight contests. De La Salle won from Loyola, 23 to 13, at Loyola and Leo triumphed over St. George, 39 to 24, on Leo's court. The lineups:

GOLDENBERG TO TRY NEW HOLDS IN OLESON BOUT

Convinced that he will need more than his flying tackle to reach the top, Buckets Goldenberg, the football player-wrestler, has been working on several new holds for his match with Ole Oleson, Milwaukee Swede, at the Arcadia Gardens Friday night.

This is the semi-windup to the Jack Smith-Gus Sonnenberg return match and Goldenberg has been promised a match with the winner if he gets by Oleson.

Goldenberg is working especially on the inside toe hold, which was one of the late Frank Gotch's best weapons.

He and Oleson are routed for one fall, with half hour time limit. Buckets has won three straight matches in Chicago.

There will be three preliminaries, headed by a one fall, half hour time limit struggle between Gus Clem and Sergt. Zack Malkov for the light heavyweight championship of the city.

YOUNG STUHLEY KNOCKED OUT BY JOHNNY PHAGAN

Johnny Phagan, Chicago Negro welterweight, defeated Young Stuhley, Kewanee, Ill., in the eight round windup bout at the Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, last night. Jack Ausborn knocked out Mickey McLaughlin in the first round of the scheduled five round semi-windup. It was his fourth consecutive knockout victory. Other results:

Frank Mirabel knocked out Floyd Embrey [1].
Steve Roberts and Matt Dour drew [4].
Joey Bozak stopped Art Zimmer [2].

C. Y. O. HOCKY TEAMS RESUME PLAY FOR TITLE

signify the first victory of the 1934 Golden Gloves competition. Paddy, with a broad Irish smile beaming out from his dancing eyes, had scored a technical knockout over James Singleton, a colored youth from La Grange, in the second round.

There were heroes galore. Elmer Bentcliff, a lightweight from the Cheetah Athletic club, was one of them. He made quick work of Al Krizan of the Rising Star Athletic club, winning on a technical knockout in the first round.

Walter Pleases Dad.

Then there was Walter Klincke of the Shore Athletic club. Walter, who is a lightweight, arrived to fight in the tournament accompanied by his brother Bill. Their father, Walter Sr., 50 years old and a former boxer, also was in the party.

Walter scored the quickest knockout of the night. His first punch sent Enoch Sanders, unattached, down for the count. It was the only blow delivered. Walter Senior and Brother Bill did an enormous amount of cheering.

The boy the old time wise men of boxing picked out as the best fighter to swing leather was Sammy De Fily, an Italian youngster who fought in the 147 pound class. Sammy is a graduate of Crane Tech High school and hadn't boxed since he competed in the 1931 Golden Gloves tournament. He met a tough foe in George Rowin, but proved to be the stronger puncher and scored a technical knockout in the third round.

80 Per Cent of Golden Gloves Entrants Report for Fights

Three hundred and forty-three, about 80 per cent of the total number of entries on the west side, reported for their first bouts in the Golden Gloves last night at the 132d Infantry armory, Madison and Rockwell streets.

Twenty-one failed to pass the physical requirements. The majority of contestants were in the novice division.

The first to qualify in the open division for the tournament of champions at the Stadium Feb. 26, 27, and 28, was Verne Patterson, Savoy Athletic club flyweight champion. Patterson, a colored youngster, who picks feathers from chickens in a grocery store at 1743 Lake street, is competing in his first Golden Gloves tournament.

Michael Turro, heavyweight, was the next to qualify for the tournament of champions at the Stadium. Since being eliminated in last year's west side trials Turro has shown considerable skill in winning more than 60 per cent of his matches.

All indications point to a slam bang contest when Sammy Kaplan, Jewish Organized Youth featherweight, meets Earl Roberts of Berwyn, Ill. Roberts, who won the A. A. U. bantam title at New Orleans some months ago, and Kaplan are aggressive, two fisted punchers.

What appears to be a dandy battle in the open division tonight will bring together Paul Congdon of Franklin Park and Fred North, Community Recreation Center. Congdon, a fighting Irishman, who has won titles at Camp Grant and at the United States Naval Reserve, has been boxing as an amateur 10 years. North hasn't the experience of Congdon, but he has lost only a few of his contests.

Lawrence Barrett of Eola, Ill., appeared at 3:15 o'clock. He was the first to report.

Edward Jones, Nichols Athletic club light heavyweight entrant, is a brother of Ed Wills, 1929 Golden Gloves champion. Ed looks and fights on the order of Wills, whose right name is Willie Jones.

Sixteen year old John Callan, student at Austin High, forgot his A. A. U. card, so he ran six blocks for it and returned out of breath. When the physicians rejected him because of a heart murmur the tears came to his eyes and he challenged the doctors to a bare fisted tussle.

George Holden, veteran of Golden Gloves, who lives in Geneva, Ill., is competing on the west side.

John Fairchild, Elgin, Ill., bantamweight, is probably one of the luckiest and gamest fellows in the tournament. Fairchild, who is employed at a pumping station in Elgin, qualified from the west side in the 1930 competition when he won from Nick Scialaba on a foul. Last night he ran around the block to take off an excess pound and then drew a bye to go a step closer to his goal.

DUNDEE ARRIVES FOR JEBY BOUT ON STADIUM CARD

Vince Dundee, middleweight boxing champion arrived yesterday from Newark, N. J., to finish training for a 10 round nontitle bout with Ben Jeby at the Chicago Stadium Friday night.

A little later in the afternoon the champion opened drills at Trafton's gymnasium after Jeby had sparred three rounds with Ed Wills, south side light heavyweight.

Dundee is the first recognized 160 pound titleholder since Mickey Walker vacated the throne in 1931 to mingle with heavyweights. The first step toward clearing up the muddled situation was accomplished when the National Boxing association dethroned Marcel Thil of Paris, France on Aug. 11, 1933, for failure to defend his title.

Both Whip Harvey.

Jeby was recognized as champion by the New York Athletic commission and when he was beaten by Lou Brouillard, who previously had whipped Walker, the N. B. A., the Illinois commission and New York accepted Brouillard as king. Dundee then defeated Brouillard in a title match at Boston last Oct. 30.

Both Dundee and Jeby received considerable newspaper publicity following triumphs over Len Harvey, champion of England, who gained the British empire heavyweight title by outpointing Larry Gains at London Feb. 8. Dundee beat Harvey twice in 1931 and Jeby was awarded a 12 round decision over the Englishman the same year.

Mullins Replaces Rodak.

Frank Battaglia, Winnipeg, Man., middleweight, yesterday went three rounds with Harry Dublinsky, local 145 pounder, for his 10 round semifinal with Kid Leonard of East Moline, Ill. Dublinsky, who faces Tracy Cox of Indianapolis, in the opening 10 rounder on the card, then boxed two rounds more against Laddie Tonelli. Cox is due today.

Moon Mullins of Vincennes, who is Indiana state featherweight titleholder, has signed to substitute for Hymie Wiseman against Leo Rodak in an eight round preliminary encounter.

Henry Rothier, welterweight, started workouts yesterday for an eight round contest with Johnny Terry at Rainbo Fronton Friday . . . . Mickey Joy and Gene Higgins, junior welterweights, are paired at Marigold Gardens Monday . . . . Jack Kranz, Gary, Ind., heavyweight, will make his professional debut on the card.

An amateur boxing card will be presented Friday at St. Alphonsus auditorium, Lincoln and Southport avenues . . . . Three boxing matches and two wrestling bouts are offered tomorrow at the Lincoln Park Civic academy, 1725 North Wells street.

BEARS TO FINISH PICTURE TODAY; MOVE TO PHOENIX

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—The Chicago Bears, pro football champions, today resumed their interrupted motion picture endeavor which is programmed for completion tomorrow, after which they will leave the far west.

The Bears have scheduled two more games, a night game against Phoenix, Ariz., All-Stars in the Arizona capital Wednesday night and a game next Sunday with a southern all-star team at New Orleans. They return to Chicago on Feb. 19 or 20.

The team, which last week lost Full Back Bronko Nagurski to the pro wrestling ranks, will leave here without Half Back John Doehring, waiting over to try out either as southpaw pitcher or outfielder for the Los Angeles Coast league baseball club.

Two Will Return to College.

Two of the Bears will return to college studies, Gene Ronzani aiming to get his degree at Marquette university in June, if possible, and Bill Karr going back to the University of West Virginia with the same intentions. Red Grange has had a couple of feelers about appearing again in the movies in a featured part, with nothing definite done about it.

Red's deal to become coach at San Diego Military and Naval academy is definitly off. Three institutions still are in the stages of chatting with Red about the possibilities of coaching football, however.

Two of the Bears were with difficulty able to hobble through final scenes of their joint short reel movie, which began its last two days this morning. They are: Half Back Sisk, right ankle and knee still out of shape; Guard Joe Zeller, left ankle crippled during the Bears' 7 to 0 victory at San Francisco yesterday.

Win Six Games.

During six games on their far west swing, beginning at Dallas last December, the Bears ran up a total of 119 points to the opposition's 21 points, winning all six games. Although Manager George Halas gives no official figures, the Bears' share of the receipts of their California tour was approximately this: First Los Angeles game, $5,700; first San Francisco game, $6,500; second Los Angeles game, $6,000; second San Francisco game, $5,000; San Diego game, $1,000; motion pictures, $3,500.

HOLD SOCCER TOURNEY.

The Steelhelmet Soccer club will hold its annual international indoor soccer tournament at the armory of the 131st Infantry, 16th street and Michigan avenue, Sunday.

LOYOLA QUINTET DEFEATED, 29-28, BY ST. AMBROSE

that laxative habit

Medicine-laxatives often churn about in the stomach for hours —just because they can't get by that pylorus valve.

Not only that, most medicine laxatives work by irritating the delicate membranes of the digestive tract—lose their force when taken regularly—compel you to keep increasing the dose.

That's why more than 50,000 physicians recommend Pluto Water. For Pluto is not a drug or medicine-laxative but a saline mineral water. The same amount each time—no need to increase it —always performs, does not gripe, gives positive results in less than one hour. It cannot give you the laxative habit!

Pluto Water is gentle—but speedy. It promptly opens the pylorus valve — permitting the flush to enter the intestines without anxious hours of waiting.

The proper dilution—one-fifth glass Pluto in four-fifths glass hot water—is practically tasteless. Take it whenever sluggish —get results within an hour—and end that laxative habit! In two sizes: Splits (8 ounces)—large bottles (3 times the quantity). At all druggists.

EVERY MAN IN CHICAGO WHO SMOKES CIGARS

should read this statement

For years—the Bayuk "Phillies" Cigar enjoyed the largest sale of any 10c brand in America. This leadership was won—and held—because men considered Bayuk "Phillies" the best 10c value on the market.

In January, 1933—the price of this famous cigar was reduced to 5c. Bayuk guaranteed that it was the same identical cigar . . in quality—in size—in shape . . as when millions of experienced smokers gladly paid 10c for it.

The success of Bayuk "Phillies" —at 5c—was the sensation of the cigar industry in 1933. Wherever men tried it—in New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore, Washington, Buffalo, Pittsburgh —it soon became the largest-selling cigar at any price.

Demand for Bayuk "Phillies" in the East increased faster than the supply. Every effort was made to speed up production. Thousands of dollars were spent by Bayuk in new equipment. Thousands of experienced workers were added to the payroll.

Today—with production tremendously increased—it is possible to offer smokers in Chicago this guaranteed 10c cigar value for 5c. Most cigar dealers are displaying Bayuk "Phillies" on their counters.

When you try Bayuk "Phillies" — as we know you will—don't compare it to any other cigar selling for 5c. Compare it to the most enjoyable and satisfying cigar you've ever smoked—regardless of price. Yours today for 5c—formerly 10c.

Bayuk Cigars Inc.

BAYUK'S GUARANTEE

In 1929—a peak sales year—the Bayuk Philadelphia Perfecto (Familiarly known as "Philadelphia Hand-made") was the largest-selling 10-cent brand in America.

Bayuk guarantees that this cigar today—at 5 cents—contains the same fine Imported Sumatra wrapper—the same fine ripe Domestic and Havana long-filler. It's the same identical cigar.

2 WINNETKANS, SISTERS, DIE IN KENTUCKY CRASH

Misses Brewster Killed as Car Hits Truck.

The Misses Ellen and Eva M. Brewster, 1258 Asbury avenue, Winnetka, sisters, who came of Mayflower stock, were killed near Elizabethtown, Ky., when their car skidded and crashed into a truck Sunday, it was learned here yesterday. Mrs. Donaldson Grover, 45 years old, of Brookfield, Ill., a cousin of the sisters, incurred a concussion of the brain and other injuries in the accident.

The women were driving to Florida when sleet and snow began to cover the Dixie highway, three miles north of Elizabethtown. The driver of the truck, who was not injured, held the slippery road responsible for the crash.

Daughters of Ex-Official.

Friends here said that Miss Ellen Brewster was about 52 years old and her sister a few years younger. They were daughters of Marshall N. Brewster, once collector of internal revenue in Texas, who died several years ago. They moved to Winnetka a decade ago. Miss Eva Brewster was formerly a teacher in the James A. Sexton elementary school in Chicago.

Two persons were seriously injured yesterday when their automobile was struck and overturned by another car at 74th and Loomis streets. They are Miss Annette Ambroza, 24 years old, 7104 Emerald avenue, and Aloysius Vogel, 27 years old, 7713 St. Lawrence avenue, driver of the car. John Reidel, 1316 West 73d place, who was riding with them, signed a complaint of reckless driving against William Larsen, 7621 Chapel avenue, who was at the wheel of the other car.

Killed in Motorcycle Crash.

Elmer Schackow, 22 years old, of Orland Park, was fatally injured last night when, while riding on his motorcycle, he struck Bruno Janulis, 46 years old, 8712 Vincennes avenue. The accident occurred in the Southwest highway, east of Harlem avenue, in Palos township.

Janulis had alighted from his automobile to make a repair when he was struck. His right leg was so mangled that it was amputated at the Little Company of Mary hospital. Schackow died in the same hospital.

Dies After Accident.

Fred H. Seder, 552 York road, Hinsdale, died yesterday in Highland Park hospital as a result of injuries suffered in an automobile accident in Glencoe late Saturday afternoon. He was 49 years old and superintendent of the Hooker Paint and Glass company.

Mr. Seder was riding with W. Blake Stevenson, 614 Prospect avenue, Lake Bluff, when a rear tire blew out and the car smashed into a tree at Sheridan road and South avenue, Glencoe.

Surviving are Mrs. Verna Seder and two children, Virginia and Harold. Funeral services will be held in the chapel at 6912 Windsor avenue, Berwyn.

The death of Schackow and two others raised the Cook county total of motor fatalities for 1934 to 156. The other victims:

Thayer Palmeter, 44 years old, 3817 West Ohio street, a railroad engineer. Died in the Garfield Park hospital of a skull fracture incurred Saturday, when he was struck by an automobile at Kinzie street and Crawford avenue. The driver, Paul A. Fuse, 4030 West Lake street, was charged with reckless driving.

Samuel Ternice, 56 years old, 1857 Sedgwick street. Killed last night when he was run down at Ogden avenue and Sedgwick street by an automobile driven by Earl J. Pratt, 936 South 22d avenue, Bellwood. Pratt was ordered held.

PASTOR SCORES SCHOOLS IN ZION, ASKS BOARD POST

The Rev. Paul Goodwin, pastor of Grace Missionary church in Zion City, in a sermon Sunday night bitterly criticized the Volive controled school system and offered to run for president of the board of education at the April 17 election. He promised to put the schools "on a par with others in the state of Illinois."

Grace church is independent of the Christian Catholic Apostolic church, of which Wilbur Glenn Voliva is overseer.

Mr. Goodwin, who has been in Zion two years, said he recently had completed a survey of the public school system and found it "notoriously poor." He had expected something "much superior" in Zion, a religious community, he declared. The minister said it was "incredible" that such a community of 6,000 inhabitants does not have a high school, and pledged himself, if elected, to work to obtain one.

Running for reëlection as president of the school board is F. H. De Pew, postmaster of Zion and an apostle in the Voliva church. Two members also are to be elected to the board April 17.

U. S. TO BORROW 800 MILLIONS ON NEW NOTES

Pushes Public Debt Near Record Peak.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—Seeking to borrow another 800 million dollars with which to pay the bills of the New Deal, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgantheau Jr. tonight announced two new issues of federal notes.

Each issue will be for 400 million dollars, the secretary said. The first will bear 2½ per cent interest and will mature in 22 months. The second will have an interest rate of 3 per cent and will mature in three years. Both issues will be dated Feb. 19.

Debt Nears Record Peak.

Secretary Morgenthau's newest borrowing move pushed the public debt of the federal government up to slightly less than 26 billion dollars. Standing at this point, the debt was just half a billion dollars under the war time peak of 26½ billions reached in August, 1919.

All of the 800 million dollars which are to be borrowed will go for payment of current running expenses of the regular government offices and the emergency agencies set up under the New Deal. The government has been spending at a rate varying between 150 and 300 million dollars a week.

With the 800 millions he now proposes to borrow Secretary Morgenthau will have a record breaking cash fund of five billion 107 million dollars out of which to meet the government's bills. Of this sum, however, 2 billion dollars is earmarked for the new stabilization fund, leaving slightly more than 3 billions for current expenditures.

Must Borrow More in June.

In spite of having amassed this unprecedented cash fund, Secretary Morgenthau must still borrow another 3 or 4 billion dollars before June 30, the end of the fiscal year, if the government spends all that President Roosevelt has planned. In addition, money must be borrowed to meet maturing issues of government securities.

"The treasury notes," Secretary Morgenthau said, "will be exempt, both as to principal and interest, from all taxation [except estate or inheritance taxes] now or hereafter imposed by the United States, any state, or any of the possessions of the United States, or by any local taxing authority.

Small Subscriptions Preferred.

"Subscriptions for amounts up to and including $10,000 will be given preferred allotment; all other subscriptions will be allotted on an equal percentage basis.

"The treasury notes will be issued in bearer form only, in denominations of $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, and $100,000.

Interest on the 22 month notes, series D-1935, will be payable on a semi-annual basis on June 15 and Dec. 15 in each year.

Interest on the 3 year notes, series C-1937, will be payable on a semi-annual basis on Aug. 15 and Feb. 15 in each year.

I. C. C. APPROVES $12,000,000 LOAN TO SO. PACIFIC

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—Authority to borrow $12,000,000 from the Public Works administration was granted the Southern Pacific company today by the interstate commerce commission. The proceeds will be used to finance a comprehensive maintenance program in which the road expects to spend $9,053,375 for materials and $4,917,360 for labor.

Simultaneously, the commission received an application from the Pennsylvania Railroad company for approval of a PWA loan of $3,650,000 with which to purchase 100,000 tons of steel rail.

POWER REPORT GIVES UTILITY SALARIES HERE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—The federal power commision's report to the senate today in response to Senator Costigan's [Dem., Colo.] resolution of last spring disclosed that James Simpson received in 1933 salaries of $40,000 a year as president of the Commonwealth Edison company and of $25,000 a year as chairman of the board of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois.

L. A. Ferguson's salary as vice president of Commonwealth Edison was $42,000 a year, exceeding his superior's. R. S. Wallace drew $17,000 a year as executive president of the Central Illinois Light company.

S. B. Way received $51,000 a year in 1928 as president of the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company, but in 1933 his salary was $25,000.

The report, six inches thick, disclosed utility executives' salaries ranging from $1,400 to $134,800 a year.

DOLLAR SELLS DOWN TO NEAR 60 CENTS IN PARIS TRADING

New York, Feb. 12.—Holiday quiet pervaded Wall street today, with the principal developments of financial import being the actions of the American dollar in the Paris and London exchange markets.

The franc closed at 6.51 cents in the Paris market according to cabled advices received here. This was an advance of about a twentieth of a cent over last week's final quotation of 6.47½ cents in the market here. The indicated gold worth of the dollar as measured by the franc was 60.15 as compared with Saturday's figure of 60¼ cents.

The pound sterling was also strong against the dollar in London, rising to $5.04½, a gain of 1⅛ cents over Saturday's New York price.

Bar gold advanced 1 pence in the London market to 137 shillings 2 pence, equivalent to $34.60 in American funds, or 40 cents below the official United States price. A total of £520,000, or $2,653,400 of gold, was reported bought by American interests.

Bill Would Let RFC Buy Assets of Closed Banks

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—(AP)—A bill authorizing the Reconstruction corporation to purchase the remaining assets of closed national banks from receivers to enable full payment to depositors was introduced in the house today by Representative McLeod [Rep., Mich.]. McLeod estimated $200,000,000 would be needed to make full payment to depositors in two closed Detroit banks alone, and that this would be approximately 40 per cent of the amount needed for all national banks.

Grain Prices Hold Steady in Foreign Marts

With American grain exchanges closed yesterday in observance of Lincoln's birthday, attention was focused on foreign exchanges, where wheat prices held steady in rather desultory trading.

Prices were confined to narrow movements. A last minute flurry in Winnipeg, attributed to buying in connection with export business, enabled that market to run up slightly, erasing earlier losses and ending the session with a net advance of ⅛ to ¼ cent. Liverpool closed unchanged to ¼ cent higher. Winnipeg oats advanced ¼ cent, rye firmed ⅝ cent, and barley moved up an equal amount. Flaxseed was strong to ¼ cent higher.

Only a small export business was done in Canadian stocks, most of which was worked from Vancouver. Trading in cash grains was extremely dull.

Possibility of heavy damage to small grain crops from chinch bugs was voiced on two widely separated fronts yesterday.

W. P. Flint, chief entomologist of the Illinois natural history survey, in a report to the University of Illinois, said unless May and June are unusually dry, damage from this source may be double that of 1933, when the corn crop in 70 counties in Illinois was cut from 15 to 50 per cent.

Myron H. Swenk, University of Nebraska entomologist, said infestation of the pest throughout the corn belt was the heaviest since 1887.

WRIGLEY TO PAY 50C DIVIDEND TO AID RECOVERY

Goodyear Doubles Rate on Preferred.

As a means of stimulating business recovery directors of the William Wrigley Jr. company yesterday declared a special dividend of 50 cents a share to its more than 7,000 stockholders. The disbursement, totaling one million dollars, is payable March 16 to holders of record March 8.

Philip K. Wrigley, president, in a letter to stockholders, urged expenditure of the money as soon as possible to aid retail business. A year ago the company advanced wage scales in an effort to bolster purchasing power and it was felt the same theory should be applied to stockholders, he said.

"Put Money to Work."

"As a stockholder in a manufacturing company your interests are inseparably linked with those of your local retail merchant," he asserted. "Unless he prospers your manufacturing company cannot prosper, and we therefore ask that you put your special dividend to work as soon as it is received."

This is the third step in less than a year made by the concern along these lines. Last February wages were increased and hours shortened. Six months later wages were again increased when the recovery act became effective, despite the fact wages were above those specified in the blanket code. The first of January salaries were increased in sales and office personnel.

Goodyear Doubles Payment.

The 50 cent quarterly dividend rate on Goodyear Tire and Rubber company first preferred stock was increased to $1 yesterday. President Paul W. Litchfield reported net profit for last year of $6,021,535.

Dividend on the preferred was reduced from $1.75 to 50 cents a quarter last year. First of the $1 payments will be made April 1 to stockholders of record March 1.

The directors also voted a $2 a share payment against arrearage on dividends caused by last year's reduction. It will be paid March 1 to stockholders of Feb. 23.

Litchfield reported net sales last year reached $100,635,636, a gain of $604,000 over 1932 sales.

Goodrich Head Declines to Follow Boost in Tire Prices

Akron, O., Feb. 12.—(AP)—President J. D. Tew of the B. F. Goodrich company today announced that his corporation is making no change in retail tire prices despite last week's increase of 3 per cent in prices to Goodyear Tire and Rubber company dealers.

France Cancels Two Treaties in Trade War with Britain

LONDON, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Strained commercial relations between Great Britain and France reached a critical stage tonight. As the British moved to put an increased duty on French imports because of what it terms unfair quotas on British goods shipped to France, the government at Paris notified the foreign office here it is denouncing two trade treaties under which British goods have had certain preferences at French ports.

At midnight, an increased duty of 20 per cent is to be levid on most French imports into England, an order on which opinion in the cabinet was divided.

Split in Government.

The retaliation against the recently announced quotas on British goods shipped into France caused a distinct disagreement in the government here, with the foreign office and the board of trade lined up on opposite sides of the question of retaliation.

Foreign office officials were unsympathetic toward the action, which the board of trade had ordered, viewing it as embarrassing to the new French government and harmful to the already serious political situation in Europe.

However, despite this feeling in the foreign office and an urgent note handed to the government today by the French ambassador outlining the possible consequences of the British move, the battle, it appears, must proceed, since the gauntlet has been flung down by the board of trade.

The French note, it was learned, denounced the trade treaties of 1826 and 1882, which gave Britain certain commercial advantages.

The United States figures prominently in the dispute between the British and French governments over quotas and duties. It is the British viewpoint that France discriminated against England in restoring certain quotas to the United States recently.

The French explanation of this action is that the quota increase on American products was justified by a deal involving French wines and American apples and pears.

It is also the viewpoint of the French that Great Britain herself recently invoked the quota policy in the exchange of American hogs and scotch whisky, at the expense of other countries.

Treaties of Trade and Navigation.

PARIS, Feb. 12.—(AP)—The Franco-British commercial treaties of 1826 and 1882 denounced by the French government today, effective at midnight tonight, cover both trade and navigation and involve a "most favored nation" clause. They also accord British boats special privileges at French ports.

Denunciation of the treaties was made under provisions which stipulate that the pacts will become inoperative three months after such action.

CHARGE BROKERS SELLING WHEAT CAUSED BREAK

Cleveland, O., Feb. 12.—(AP)—The charge that Ettinger & Brand, brokerage firm, dumped between 19,000,000 and 20,000,000 bushels of wheat and corn, which caused the price collapse on the Chicago Board of Trade in July, 1933, was mad here today by Leo F. Tierney, special United States attorney.

Tierney charged that the dumping transactions were carried out through five accounts in his opening statement for the government at a hearing here to determine whether the firm shall be denied the privilege of dealing in grain futures.

Thre of these accounts used, he said, carried the names of parties other than the clients actually involved.

J. H. Orgill, attorney for the firm, admitted that several accounts were carried under fictitious names, and said members of the firm felt this was no violation.

He said there had been no attempt to manipulate prices.

FEDERAL BANK TO GUARANTEE SOVIET CREDITS

RFC Unit Can Back $100,000,000 Sales.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—(AP)—The latest governmental creation, the export-import bank of Washington, was set up today to thaw frozen credit sufficiently for sales to Soviet Russia aggregating $100,000,000, perhaps more, in the near future.

Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction corporation, in announcing formation of the agency, said unless the President ordered otherwise it would confine its operations solely to the soviet union or its agencies.

Proposals by Russia after recognition by the United States to buy American goods and commodities progressed satisfactorily to a point where negotiations centered on credit. Then it was found that private banks could not give terms satisfactory to Russia and that the Reconstruction corporation was limited by law to a period considered too short by the soviet officials.

Form $11,000,000 Bank.

The announcement of the formation of the $11,000,000 bank today was the result.

Despite its limited capitalization the bank can secure the funds it needs through the purchase of additional preferred stock by the Reconstruction corporation, which subscribed for $10,000,000 of the $11,000,000. Or it may borrow from the corporation or other banks.

One significant part of today's announcement said "the Export-Import bank will have the power to endorse or guarantee all or part of such [deals

in this old institution's conduct of its business

METHODS in affairs of trust or commercial banking change—improve with the years. Relatively they are not important.

Back of the methods of The Northern Trust Company are certain simple principles. These are permanent. They look to the interest of those who trust and depend upon this institution.

In a practical sense, these time-established concepts are The Northern Trust Company.

The conservative firms and individuals that bring their commercial banking accounts here find these principles in accord with their own business ideas. They discover that the banking officers think in harmony with them.

Similarly in the Trust Department. An unchanging policy—a full acceptance of the trust obligation—protects the families this institution serves as executor or trustee.

People who save at this bank are assured, as are the other depositors, a consistent policy of conservatism in caring for their funds.

The Northern Trust Company invites the business of additional firms and individuals that find satisfaction in this conservative type of financial service. Complete departments of Banking, both for Commercial and Personal Checking Accounts, Trust, Savings, Bond and Safe Deposit are at your command.

HOGS AND LAMBS RISE SHARPLY ON BROADER BUYING

Cattle Prices Decline on Heavy Receipts.

Hogs and lambs scored a sharp rebound on bullish reports from the wholesale trade for fresh meats yesterday, recovering all of the week-end losses. Starvation receipts of hogs, broad export demand, the highest fresh pork quotations since last September and increased federal buying were the supporting factors in the hog market.

Reserve orders withdrawn from the market last week when prices soared were thrown on the trade by the relief corporation yesterday to fill out last week's shortage in government purchases, resulting in brisk competition among small local city butchers, eastern order buyers, and the corporation's representatives in the 200 pound hogs and lighter weights. These kinds sold 25 cents higher than on Saturday and in line with the high point of last Friday.

Government Buys 6,400.

The government obtained 6,400, mostly selected light and light butchers, at $4.65 and $4.70, paying as high as $4.75, the top for a few. Shipments from here at 8,000 were largest since last November.

Medium and heavy hogs advanced 10 to 25 cents in value, big weights selling at new high levels for the winter, with top butchers at the highest February point in three years. The average at $4.40 showed 15 cents gain over the week-end price.

Fresh pork loins reached a high of 16 cents yesterday, showing a one cent gain over the week-end and a 6 cents per pound rise in ten days.

Receipts of hogs yesterday at 30,000 were about the lightest on record for the second Monday in February.

Cattle Under Pressure.

Cattle, however, were under pressure of heavy receipts, the run of 20,000 being the heaviest in a month and 53 per cent above the average of the last three Mondays. Yearling steers escaped with little decline when buyers found that the big supply carried a liberal proportion of butcher stock attracted by government buying of cows for canning. These were hit hardest, going down unevenly 15 to 35 cents.

Medium and heavy steers lost 10 to 25 cents during the day. Choice 1,000 to 1,094 pound steers to eastern order buyers topped the price list at $7.15. A range of $4.35 to $6.75 absorbed the bulk.

Lambs forged ahead 15 to 25 cents in face of heavier supplies. All interests were aggressive, both packers and shippers paying $9.75, the top figure, for wooled stock, which equals the highest February mark in four years. Matured stock was strong again, with top sales of ewes around $5.00.

CANADIAN PACIFIC ENDS DIVIDENDS FOR THIS YEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Feb. 12.—Directors of the Canadian Pacific railway decided today against payment of any dividends on either common or preferred shares for 1933. The road showed net earnings of $20,862,107 in 1933, compared with $20,089,985 in 1932.

Announcement was also made here today that the Canadian National railways had shown a net operating revenue of $5,707,183 during the calendar year 1933. This compared with $5,895,434 in 1932.

Operating revenues of the large government owned system came to $148,513,742, while operating expenses were $142,812,559. The year's revenues were $12,583,852 under those of 1932, but expenses were cut almost dollar for dollar, being reduced $12,395,601.

American Chicle.

Investors' Guide: Kindly give me what information you can on American Chicle.—Mrs. C. C. D.

Answer: American Chicle company is one of the two main competitors of William Wrigley Jr. company. Some of its leading brands are Chiclets, Black Jack, Beeman's Pepsin, and Dentyne and Sen-Sen.

Since the three leading American chewing gum manufacturers consume practically all the chicle produced, the chief ingredient of all gums, its is held relatively stable. Sales price of gum, a nickel a package, is also fixed. Earnings consequently are generally dependent on volume of sales.

Net profit for 1933 was $1,699,000, equal to $3.82 a share on 444,429 shares.

Earnings increased uninterruptedly from 1921 through 1930. In 1931 a moderate drop in domestic sales and a sharp decline in foreign sales resulted in a decrease of 5½ per cent in net income, followed by a 15½ per cent drop in 1932. Earnings in 1932 were $1,763,000, or $3.76 per share on 469,329 shares, against $2,089,000, or $4.28 per share, for 1931. They amounted to $2,210,000 in 1930.

On Dec. 31, 1933, cash assets alone were about 4 times total current liabilities.

Capitalization is represented solely by 444,429 shares of no par stock. The stock is on a regular dividend basis of 50 cents a quarter. Extras of 25 cents a quarter have been paid regularly since the beginning of 1930.

Reverse Split.

Investors' Guide: Several years ago there was left in a trust estate 50 shares of $10 par stock carried at $500. A year ago the number of shares was decreased to 10 shares through issues of new stock by the company. It appears to me that there is a loss of $400, ignoring the market price quotations. Was there a loss of investment and could it have been prevented?—S. W. F.

Answer: No. Since each share of stock represents a proportionate share of ownership in the company, the proportionate share of ownership held by each stockholder is unaffected by reduction in shares outstanding if all stockholders are compelled to reduce their holdings by the same amount.

To illustrate—if a corporation has 100 shares of stock outstanding, a stockholder owning 10 shares would own a 10 per cent interest in the company. Should the corporation see that by reducing the number of shares outstanding it could save heavy franchise taxes, etc., it might propose to stockholders that they reduce the number of shares held to one-fifth their holdings. The company would then have only 20 shares outstanding. Although the individual who formerly held ten shares would then only own two, he would still have a 10 per cent interest in the company.

In 1931 the United States sold Russia goods and commodities amounting to $103,716,832. These sales dropped in 1932 to $12,640,891.

Officials said today the principal reason for this decline was better credit facilities, including a guarantee to their exporters, offered by other countries, Germany and England in particular.

Can Guarantee Seller 100 Per Cent.

The formation of the Export-Import bank with its ability to guarantee exporters, if necessary, 100 per cent of their sales to the soviet was expected to reverse the unfavorable trade flow.

The bank may aid American exporters to extend credit on Russian purchases for as long a period as is thought desirable.

The Russians particularly desire to buy capital goods and this government is particularly keen to sell heavy products to give much needed stimulus to domestic industries.

Among the products, it was said, which Russia urgently needs are equipment for railroads, trucks and automobiles, steel mill equipment, magnetoes and electrical equipment. American industries which manufacture these goods have been hit harder than most businesses.

Soviet Seeks Cotton.

Negotiations also have been under way for months for the purchase by the Soviet of 1,000,000 bales of cotton and 1,250,000,000 yards of unfinished cotton cloth. Purchase of the mechanical equipment probably will come first.

Trade with Russia is not expected to be a one sided proposition, although this country probably will have a favorable balance running into the millions.

The Export-Import bank was chartered in the District of Columbia. Its trustees are Robert Kelley, representing the state department; Secretary Roper, Chester C. Davis, representing the farm administration; Stanley Reed, RFC general counsel, and Lynn P. Talley, assistant to the directors of the RFC. Tom K. Smith will be chosen to represent the treasury. The president and secretary of the bank are yet to be named.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Business in butter, eggs and all lines of produce was limited yesterday on account of Lincoln's birthday being a holiday. Prices were without important change.

Supplies of strawberries were limited, and loadings in the south were 25 carloads for distribution to various markets. There were eight carloads on the tracks at Chicago. Thirty-six pint carrier crates from Florida were 12 to 13 cents per pint.

Receipts of potatoes in Chicago were 189 cars, 169 a week ago and 69 cars last year. The market for western offerings was weaker and trade only moderate.
